The Law Enforcement Commission will formally organize for business on Tuesday, and at 6 o'clock on Wednesday evening, May 30, 1979, the superintendent of the Library of Congress will find its report in eleven volumes on a back shelf, right next to Roosevelt's famous Housing Commission report, and wonder what the heck it is—

"All in some dismal corner thrust,
Wrapt in obscurity and dust."

Our own guess is that Chairman Wickersham will be able to keep prohibition out of the investigation just like Mr. Dick kept the head of Charles the First out of his celebrated Memorial.

It is thought that the Supreme Court's decision in the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad case is going to prove almost as helpful a factor in farm relief as the new House tariff on shingles.

The Green Flash fliers will slide right down the fortieth parallel of latitude into Mussolini's front yard as soon as the rain clears off and they can see it well enough to hitch their plane to it.

• • • •

Speaking of the law enforcement report, it will be recalled, on the other hand, that Mr. Dick made his Memorial into kites—"There's plenty of string, and when it flies high it takes the facts a long way." Here's hoping these facts will go a long way—even if King Charles' obstreperous head is in the Memorial.

"Defender of the people, of the state,
Kindler and quickener of majestic thought,
The crown thy patience wrought."

Thus wrote of the Press Mary Clemner, who used to live over on B street, where the House Office Building now stands, and at the other end of the Capitol George Norris flays the greedy giant that would gobble up every free printing press in the land. The newspaper can only be sure of its final triumph, as the defender of the people, while it preserves its own intellectual integrity, and it can't do that with a hydro-electric ball and chain on its feet.

The Mellon family cuts a juicy one for itself.

Criticism of newspaper ethics because some Senator permitted a secret roll call to be published is a good deal like the pot calling the kettle black.

• • • •

It is a whole lot more the duty of the newspaper press to publish the secret vote resulting in the confirmation of a widely criticized appointment than it is to pester Lindy and his fiancee. What have they done to deserve this?

What the White House needs is one of those new-fangled Mechanical Men that can reach out its arm, grasp a visitor cordially by the hand and give it a wrench calculated to make him realize what a President of the United States has to suffer. How can a man make a good cast for a Rapidan trout with his wrist in an ice-pack?

No, that new jail in the headlines this morning is for Laurel, not Washington, although considering this recommendation by the motorists for the arrest of pedestrians the mistake is a pardonable one.

LENROOT POLL PRESS REPORT STIRS SENATE

Senator Reed Demands an Investigation of "Leak" on Secret Vote.

BLAINE READS BALLOT IN RECORD AFTER ROW

PENNSYLVANIAN HITS "NEWSPAPER ETHICS"

Borah Suggests Enforcing of Rules Should Begin in Congress Body.

(Associated Press.)

Publication of a roll call purporting to show the vote in executive session of the Senate on the confirmation of Irvine Lenroot as a judge of the Court of Customs Appeals provoked heated words in the Senate yesterday and brought a call for an investigation.

The roll call, which was sent out by several newspaper men was described by Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, as "inaccurate" in several instances. It was read into the record, however, by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, after a futile attempt by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, to stop him.

The Senate upheld a ruling of Vice President Curtis that the published roll call could be read into the record by a vote of 63 to 9. After Senator Blaine had put it into the record Senator Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, inquired if there was to be an investigation of the manner in which the names on the roll call reached the press. Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, announced that the rules committee was meeting today to consider that question.

Accuracy Not Vouched For.

Senator Blaine said he did not vouch for the accuracy of the roll call and Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, later asked him if it was his purpose to put it into the record in order to force those members who were misrepresented to correct their positions and thereby disclose the real roll call. Blaine resented the question and Vice President Curtis called the Connecticut senator to order.

Senator Reed was severe in his condemnation of the publication of the roll call, declaring "there is some hypocrite here who prattles out loud about law enforcement who in secrecy does what he dares not do publicly and gives out this information."

Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, inquired if the purported Lenroot roll call was published by a reporter for the same press organization which ended the World War a week in advance. Reed said he did not know.

Urges Abolition of Secrecy.

Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, urged that the Senate abolish the rule of secrecy on executive sessions "because I want to take away from the member of this Senate or the employe the market for his own dishonor."

Senator Reed referred later to the "so-called ethics of that so-called profession," referring to newspaper work.

"We all know," he declared, "that if any one of the newspaper reporters is called on to testify before a committee as to the sources of his information, then in accordance with the so-called ethics of that so-called profession he will decline to say where he got his information.

"It is high time that the Senate took a self-respecting position in its attitude toward the newspapers that

Company B of Tech High School Wins Drill Contest for Cadets

William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer.

Upper—Company B, of McKinley, winning company in the annual competitive drill of the Washington High School cadets, marching in review before Secretary of War Good and school officers. Lower—Secretary Good pinning the gold medal on Sergt. Philip Tarr, of Company I, Business High School, awarded annually to the best drilled sergeant in the corps.

McKinley Marchers Victors First Time in Nine Years of Competing.

Central and Western Get Second, Third Places In Contest Here.

Company B, of McKinley High School, commanded by Cadet Capt. George O. Weber, yesterday won the forty-second annual company competitive drill of the High School Cadet Corps held in Griffith Stadium. It was the first time in nine years that McKinley marched a winning company on the drill field.

Company C, of Central, commanded by Cadet Capt. David L. Krupsaw, was awarded second honors, and Company L, of Western, commanded by Cadet Capt. Minor Jameson, was awarded third honors. Capt. Louis Lucas, of Company G, drilled the company in the absence of Capt. Jameson, who is ill.

Presentation of the coveted diamond-studded Allison Naylor gold medal to the captain of the winning company and presentation of the colors were made by Secretary of War James S. Good, accompanied by school officers and members of the Board of Education.

Secretary Good also presented the gold medal, awarded annually to the best drilled sergeant in the corps, to Sergt. Philip Tarr, of Company I, Business High School.

More than 12,000 persons were in the stadium as Company L, of Western, the last company to drill, marched off the field at 4:30 o'clock. Led by the cadet band, the entire cadet corps of 30 companies marched on the field a few minutes later.

With the companies standing at rigid attention, the three judges, Maj. Thompson Lawrence, U. S. A.; Alexander R. Bolling, U. S. A., and Lieut. Easom J. Bond, U. S. A., conferred a moment with Col. Wallace M. Craigie, U. S. A., military instructor of the cadet corps and Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, and then handed a small slip to Mr. Kramer. It contained the names of the winning companies.

Mr. Kramer summonded Paul Wilner of Central High School, adjutant of the Second Regiment. A hush fell over the crowd, many of whom had been in the stands all day, as the adjutant stood motionless. After what seemed to the cadets and many in the crowd as an interminable wait, the adjutant walked straight forward. After a few paces he veered slightly to his right. He was walking toward the Second Regiment, composed of McKinley High School companies.

A mighty cheer arose from the ranks of the McKinley students in the stands as the adjutant singled out the winning company. Another cheer arose from all in the stands as Capt. Weber marched his company across the field to receive the honors.

Capt. Weber stood at rigid attention as Secretary Good moved forward to congratulate him and his company in winning the drill, but as the War Secretary pinned the Allison Naylor Medal on his tunic he appeared to be having great difficulty in keeping his emotions from getting the better of his strict military bearing.

BYRD URGES VOIDING USELESS STATUTES

SEES AID TO GOOD ORDER

New York, May 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, proposed a new kind of reform today at a luncheon of the downtown association when he suggested a session for every legislature for the sole purpose of repealing unnecessary laws.

The luncheon was given in Gov. Byrd's honor, by the National Institute of Public Administration, with Raymond B. Fosdick presiding.

"Good morals, I believe, would not suffer," said the Virginian; "good order would be better preserved, and good will of the citizen for his State would be increased if we could have one session of every State legislature at which no law would be passed except to repeal unnecessary existing laws."

He said that in Virginia they were trying to reduce the number of local laws by legislation of a general nature, broad enough to permit legislative bodies in the several localities to meet local needs on the sound principle of local self-government.

"There is nothing more complicated than modern government," he continued. "The 'let alone' theory has of late years been subjected to many modifications due to the amazing concentration of industrial and financial control and the use by the individual of powerful mechanical agencies, which, unregulated, become a deadly menace to lives of citizens.

"One of the most difficult of Government problems is to draw the line between useful regulation and useless oppression, between requiring a business man to regulate his affairs so as to protect his neighbor or to over-regulate him in such a way as to unnecessarily destroy his control over his own affairs."

Gov. Byrd pointed out the feeling today among "very successful, practical men" that "American Government is very much less efficient than American business."

Speaking of Virginia, he said the State now stands on the threshold of a great era of prosperity and development, its new plant investments of $250,000,000 during 1928, having been greater than any other State in the Union.

"In 1900," he said, "the output of Virginia's factories was valued at $100,000,000. In 1929 this output is conservatively estimated at $1,000,000,000 and is increasing at the rate of $100,000,000 every year."

TELLS OF CARGO LANDING

Ottawa, Ont., May 21 (A.P.).—W. D. Euler, minister of national revenue, placed the blame for much of the rum running between the United States and Canada upon United States officials today in reply to a statement by J. S. Woodsworth, labor member from Winnipeg North Center, championing the request of the United States for more stringent control of liquor exports from Canada.

In answer to allegations that "Canada is not dealing in a fair way with a friendly nation," Mr. Euler related an experience of his when he was carried as a guest aboard a boat engaged in the liquor trade. The vessel was under sight of the United States port for which she was bound during almost the entire trip, Mr. Euler said.

In response to questions about the whereabouts of United States revenue officers when liquor was smuggled into Detroit, bootleggers answered "it just happens that they are not there when we go across," Mr. Euler said.

The minister of national revenue pointed out that United States customs authorities always were notified by the Canadian officials when a liquor-laden vessel left a Canadian port for a United States harbor. Some of these vessels, he said, landed their cargoes with 100 yards of the United States customs offices in the city where they docked.

"It took them three hours to unload, very often," he said. "They were actually assisted by officers of the 'dry squad' on occasions."

Mr. Euler read a letter from a Canadian collector of national revenue in Ontario, which said that "if the shoe were on the other foot" Canada could quickly tie up the liquor-carrying vessels.

Mr. Euler cited many things which, he said, Canada had done to assist the United States in enforcing its liquor laws—Canada had agreed to the 12-mile limit treaty; officials give information as to clearances for United States ports; the government insists upon bonds for liquor-laden vessels entering Canadian ports; the export houses which formerly shipped to the United States had been closed; the provincial authorities were the only ones permitted to import intoxicants, and the number of liquor export docks had been greatly reduced, he said, adding that when liquor was exported to the United States the duty was paid.

Mr. Woodsworth charged that the granting of clearances for liquor ship-

North Haven, Me., May 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A man describing himself as Robert Tondera, 24, an inventor and aviation mechanic, of Mexico City, was arrested at midnight, after repeatedly attempting to reach the Morrow home, where Col. Lindbergh, his fiancee and the women of the Morrow family are staying. He was held as a suspicious person. Residents here say that it is the first time in 200 years that a person has been held on that charge.

As there is no lockup on the island, Tondera was taken to Rockland by Sheriff Harding. He told the sheriff he came to see Col. Lindbergh. Asked why he picked out the noted flier, the man said that he wanted to reach "the highest man in the business."

Morgan Firm to Answer For Morrows and Flier

North Haven, Me., May 21 (A.P.).—Request for confirmation of a reported extortion plot against Constance Morrow, 15 years old, daughter of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, brought a statement at the summer home of the ambassador today that all announcements regarding the activities or plans of the family or of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, fiance of Miss Anne Morrow, would be made through the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York.

The statement came from one of the four men who have been on guard at the 83-acre estate since Saturday. The guard said he was "authorized to make the statement for the family."

Mr. Morrow resigned his membership in the Morgan banking firm when he accepted appointment as Ambassador to Mexico.

AVIATORS MAY LEAVE MAINE AT SAME TIME

No Start to Be Made Until Weather Clears, Says American Pilot.

ROME AND PARIS FORM FLIERS' DESTINATIONS

One Is to Follow Lindbergh Route; Other to Touch Spain on Way to Italy.

New York, May 21 (U.P.).—Storm conditions south of Newfoundland held two crews of aspiring transatlantic flyers to American soil today and threatened to keep them waiting impatiently for most of this week.

Dr. James Kimball, of the New York Weather Bureau, who has given the starting signal for most ocean flights begun on this side of the Atlantic, issued pessimistic reports to three Frenchmen who are ready to hop from here to Paris, and to two Americans about to attempt a nonstop dash to Rome.

The latter pair, who are at Old Orchard, Me., said they would not hazard a start in anything but the most favorable conditions.

To Follow Kimball's Reports.

"We will follow Dr. Kimball's reports to the letter," said Roger Q. Williams, who will pilot the Bellanca monoplane Green Flash on the 4,700-mile hop for Italy.

Williams and Lewis A. Yancey, his navigator, spent the day making minor adjustments on their plane, almost a replica of that flown by Clarence Chamberlin from New York to Germany.

When they leave they will follow a route over Cape Sable, then eastward to Cape Ortega, Spain, Marseille, Corsica and Rome. They will not be equipped with radio, but will feel comparatively safe because most of their route being over steamship lanes.

Armeno Lotti, jr., owner of the plane in which the French flyers, Jean Assolant and Rene Le Fevere, are preparing to follow the "Lindbergh Trail," also was disappointed by the bad weather, but said he likewise would take no chances, even though he has a larger and better-equipped plane than Williams and Yancey.

Lotti and Assolant left by train tonight for Old Orchard, where they will look over the beach runway with a view to starting their ocean hop from there. They said they would rather start from Roosevelt Field, but that at present it was too muddy to use. The runway at Roosevelt Field is only a mile long, while that at Old Orchard is 2 miles long and the sand hard packed.

Possibility of Race Seen.

Old Orchard, Me., May 20 (U.P.).—The start of the first transoceanic airplane race of the 1929 season, between the American monoplane Green Flash and the French plane Bernard-191, may be made from the beach here, it was learned today.

Lewis A Yancey, copilot of the Green Flash, in which he and Roger Q. Williams hope to set a new distance record by flying to Rome, today received a telegram from Armeno Lotti, jr., indicating that the French plane may make its ocean hop from the Maine coast.

The Bernard-191 is at present at Roosevelt Field, New York, awaiting

Air Records Attacked In Scattered Hops

(Associated Press.)

These are busy days in the air.

One refueling endurance flight began Sunday, another began and ended yesterday, a third and fourth may be started before the week is out.

Two Atlantic flights from America to Europe will begin this week.

The Army completed its flight to New York from Dayton, Ohio.

The endurance flight that began Sunday was at Fort Worth, Tex., and in the third day of flight the two-man crew showed no signs of wearying.

The endurance flight beginning yesterday was at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., a three-man crew using a pickup device for refueling. Failure of the refueling device, however, brought the plane down less than six hours after the take-off.

The endurance flight scheduled for later was at Wichita, Kans., by a two-man crew with a refueling plane.

Miss Viola Gentry plans to take off in a few days with a man companion in a refueling attempt at the world record.

NEW YORK BOMBED; PLANE COMES HERE

FIGHT WITH STORMS TOLD

Fresh from a successful night raid over New York, the Army Air Corps' bomber landed in the mud of Bolling Field at 11 o'clock last night. An hour later its crew of five had received orders by radio from their base at Dayton to remain at Bolling overnight.

The message from Dayton also stated that the refueling plane, piloted by Capt. Ross Hoyt, of Question Mark fame, and the Army's radio plane would proceed to Washington this morning. They were at Burgess Field, Uniontown, Pa., where they had been forced down yesterday by fog over the Allegheny Mountains.

This announcement made it appear likely that a refueling demonstration would be held at Bolling Field today or tomorrow.

Bad weather throughout the day spoiled the carefully planned nonstop flight from Dayton to New York and return. The original plan was to have the big twin-motored bomber refueled at Bolling Field this afternoon. After flying over Uniontown for a half hour, however, it took the most direct course for New York, arriving there about 8:15.

When the plane left Dayton, it carried 598 gallons of fuel, and arrived at Bolling with 398 gallons still in its tanks. This, members of the crew said, was enough to have taken it on through to Dayton.

Lieut. Odas Moon, pilot of the bomber, told a story of a long and strenuous battle with the weather, finally ending in triumph, despite a complete breakdown of the original plan to refuel in flight.

After leaving Burgess Field, the crew was faced with the problem of climbing over the fog-crowned mountains. They crossed at 6,000 feet, between two Three Musketeers Landed When Fuel Catapult Damages Tail.

OTHER CRAFT PASSES ITS 55TH HOUR ALOFT

Food and Gasoline Lowered to Fliers, Who Report Perfect Conditions.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 21 (A.P.).—Two commercial aviators, determined to set a new refueling endurance flight record, continued to soar above Fort Worth tonight.

At 11:40 p. m., central standard time, they had been in the air 60 hours 7 minutes, equaling the mark set last July by Adjt. Louis Crooy and Sergt. Victor Groenen, of Belgium.

The Army plane Question Mark, which set the present world record of 150 hours 40 minutes 15 seconds, carried a crew of five men.

The fliers, R. L. Robbins and James Kelly, were in good spirits, and the motor of their monoplane was functioning perfectly. Three refueling contacts were made today.

Tachometer Shaft Broken.

Robbins reported today the tachometer shaft broke last night. The tachometer records the revolutions per minute of the motor. A new shaft was obtained to be lowered to the plane at the refueling base today.

In one of his notes, Robbins said he had about recovered from air sickness which bothers him when Kelly pilots the plane. Medicine sent to him yesterday relieved the sickness, he said.

"We went to Bagdad last night about 12:30, but didn't go in," Robbins facetiously commented in another note. Bagdad is a night club on the Fort Worth-Dallas road.

Adds 100 Gallons of Gas.

At the refueling contact early today 100 gallons of gasoline were transferred to the Fort Worth. The planes were at a 2,500-foot altitude when the refueling began and dropped 1,200 feet before the operation had been finished.

Two more refueling contacts were made tonight. At 6:40 p. m., the supply plane transferred 110 gallons of gasoline, 4½ gallons of oil and food to the Fort Worth while the ships remained in contact for eight minutes. An additional 30 gallons of gasoline were transferred at 7:30 p. m., when the plane had been in the air 85 hours 47 minutes. The motor was functioning perfectly.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 21 (A.P.).—A damaged stabilizer, the result of failure of its refueling device, caused the Three Musketeers to make a forced landing here tonight less than six hours after its take-off in an attempt to establish a new refueling endurance-flight record.

Hook Tears Out Stabilizer.

The newly perfected device for picking up fuel from the ground did not work properly when the plane dropped down to refuel for the fourth time. A hook on the end of a cable suspended from the plane which is designed to operate a catapult that hurls containers of gas toward the plane struck a rope on the rebound. The hook became entangled in the rear of the plane, tearing a hole in the right stabilizer.

Unaware of the damage, the occupants of the plane continued in the air for more than an hour after the accident. The fliers, Lieut. H. B. Clarke, Martin Jensen and William Ulbrich, received their first notification that something was wrong from a New Georgia Convict Blames Discarded Wife for Arrest; Took Long Chances.

Chicago, May 21 (A.P.).—Robert Elliot Burns, graduate of a Georgia chain gang and editor of the Greater Chicago Magazine, laid down the editorial pencil today to go back to prison.

A fugitive from the prison camp to which he had been sentenced for a $4 holdup, Burns was arrested in his office here today on a tip he said had been given by a "woman scorned"—his wife. He told the detectives his magazine had been netting him $20,000 a year.

Burns related his story at the detective bureau. He had gone overseas with the Fourth Engineers from his home at Bay Ridge, a Brooklyn suburb, and upon returning had been a newspaper reporter in New York. He had drifted to Atlanta, made the rounds of the flop-houses, and in company with two

Lieut Clarke said repairs would be made tonight and the plane would take off tomorrow morning on a second attempt to beat the record of the Question Mark.

Second Hop Is Postponed.

Lieut. Clarke was manager of Roosevelt Field until it was recently bought by the Aviation Corporation and merged with Curtiss Field. Ulbrich is his former assistant. Jensen is the present holder of the world's solo endurance record.

Wichita, Kans., May 21 (A.P.).—The take-off here of a Cessna monoplane on refueling endurance flight was indefinitely postponed tonight. The pilots, Owen I. Haughland, of Buffalo, Minn., and Gene Shank, of Minneapolis, Minn., who had planned to hop off tomorrow, failed to receive a sealed barograph which had been ordered.

The pilots said they also would await sanction for the flight from the Federation Aeronautique Interantionale in order that they may receive recognition in event they exceed the present record.

Lotti, backer of the flight of the French plane, is expected to arrive here some time Wednesday to inspect the Old Orchard beach runway. Should he find the beach suitable, he will have the plane flown here from New York, Yancey was advised.

Giuslppe M. Bellanca, designer of the Green Flash, and Charles A. Levine, transatlantic aviator, also are expected to arrive here Wednesday.

The take-off of the planes will be delayed at least 48 hours, weather reports indicated today. The fliers were advised not to make departure Wednesday even if the weather clears here, as storm conditions over the Atlantic would make the flight dangerous.

Bicyclist Injured; R. R. Staples Held

Ralph R. Staples, 18 years old, of 3270 P street northwest, younger brother of Orville Staples, former District policeman, who figured prominently in the Burlingame police investigation, was arrested last night by police of the Third Precinct after an accident in which the automobile he was operating struck a bicycle and injured its rider, Robert Everette, colored, 29 years old, 1720 Seaton street northwest.

The accident occurred at 12 o'clock noon at the intersection of Eighteenth and K streets northwest. According to police, Staples took the colored man to Emergency Hospital after the automobile struck him. Everette was treated at the hospital for a sprained right ankle and bruises to his right side.

Staples was held last night at the Third Precinct on three charges of reckless driving, operating an automobile with defective brakes, and failure to exhibit an operator's permit. Staples was arrested several months ago in Virginia on a liquor-running charge.

Wiley Relinquishes Command of Fleet

San Pedro, Calif., May 21 (A.P.).—Two veteran "sailors" parted today, and it was "Good-by, Hank," and "Good-by, Bill," with warm, strong handclasps and moistened eyes to express their feelings.

"Hank" and "Bill" were Admirals Henry A. Wiley, retiring from 46 years of service in the United States Navy, and William V. Pratt, taking over his post as commander of the United States fleet.

CLINIC BLAST DEAD UNWARNED, REPORT

RECOMMEND NEW RULES

Cleveland, Ohio, May 21 (A.P.).—Findings of the first completed official investigation of the Cleveland Clinic disaster revealed tonight that the deadly poison gas killed many persons in the building without giving them the faintest warning. The report was given by Will T. Blake, State director of industrial relations.

The gas was generated by smoldering X-ray films stored in a basement room, which had been ignited through spontaneous combustion. The explosion of the gas followed, Blake's representatives said.

Creeping silently through pipe tunnels in the building, the gas penetrated to many of the clinic rooms and snuffed out dozens of lives before its presence was known. Warning of the ghastly peril did not come to the building occupants until later, when some of the gas collected in the basement exploded.

The blast shook the building and shot more clouds of poisoned vapor through the structure. With scores already dead or overcome, a second explosion quickly followed. Dozens of doctors, nurses and patients crumpled to the floor as the lethal gas entered their lungs.

The 125th death of the disaster occurred today. It was Dr. George W. Belcher, 33, one of the clinic's specialists, who had fought six days against the ravages of the poison he had inhaled as he rescued others from the death-gripped building.

Dr. Belcher, a specialist in bladder diseases, had the presence of mind to cover his nose and mouth with a wet handkerchief as he risked his life to save others, but the protection was insufficient. Late Wednesday, after the disaster, he collapsed.

Surviving Dr. Belcher are a widow and three small children. He was born in Belleville, Ill., and was a graduate of the medical school of Washington University, St. Louis.

The report of the disaster sent to Gov. Cooper names oxide of hydrogen as the gas that cost the heavy toll of lives, and calls it "more deadly than gase of the World War." Blake's report recommends the following rules for hospitals and clinics to avoid similar disasters:

1. That separate fireproof compartments be required for the storage of films in all clinics and hospitals.

2. That these compartments be used for no other purpose and that the films be stored in steel or other fireproof cabinets.

3. That hospitals and clinics of any size employ or designate a safety man, whose duty would be to make daily inspections.

4. That the division of factories and workshops and building inspectors proceed with an inspection throughout the State of methods and provisions now in effect in all hospitals, clinics, doctors' offices and any other places where films are stored.

Although Dr. Blake's investigation report is made, the inquest by Coroner A. J. Pearse continued. Among those to testify before the coroner today was Dr. George W. Crile, founder of the clinic, and his associate, Dr. William E. Lower.

"We never supposed there was danger of an explosion. The conditions surrounding preservation of the films, we thought, were entirely adequate," Dr. Crile told the coroner.

Dr. Crile testified he was a member of the clinic's board of directors, but was familiar with the executive functions of the building only in a general way.

Afterward the two doctors were closeted privately with the commission.

Bullets Close Career Of Chicago Racketeer

Chicago, May 21 (A.P.).—John Hand, a racketeer, came to his death today in racketeer fashion—three bullets in his head. Thus ended a career whose high spots were his arrest for the slaying of "Big Tim" Murphy and his conviction in Federal court on an antitrust charge in the candy jobbers' conspiracy.

Hand's body was found in his automobile early today, parked at a Cicero street corner. Officials said he had been dead four hours, shot through the forehead and the base of the skull. Hand was secretary-treasurer of the Candy Jobbers' Association of Chicago and an erstwhile leader in the cleaning and dyeing racket. He had appealed from a Federal prison sentence of one year imposed recently on conviction of the candy racketeers.

Chinese Nationals Recapture Canton

Rebels' Withdrawal Without Resistance Causes Some Surprise.

Shanghai, May 21 (U.P.).—Brief advices from Canton today reported suddenly shifting scenes in the battle between Nationalist government forces and the Kwangsi rebels. The rebels, who yesterday captured Samshui and forced their way on into the city of Canton, withdrew today and the Nationalist troops reentered the city, apparently without much resistence.

The advices received here gave no indication of severe fighting, and there was some mystery regarding the withdrawal of the rebels. It was recalled that the Kwangsi troops had advanced close to Canton previously and had withdrawn when it appeared Canton was ready to fall into their hands. The threat of Marshal Feng Yuh-Siang to attack the Nationalists from Honan Province continued today but there were no definite developments. Feng, who split with Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the Nationalist government, was believed preparing for conflict with government forces on the border of Honan Province.

London, May 21 (U.P.).—The Daily Express correspondent at Shanghai reported tonight the Lunghai Railroad officials had announced Marshal Feng Yuh-Siang had destroyed 20 bridges and all telegraph lines on the border of Honan Province as his troops withdrew to prepare for an attack on Nationalist government forces.

Tallulah Bankhead's Former Fiance Marries

London, May 22 (Wednesday) (A.P.).—The Express today says that Mrs. David Plunket Greene, a prominent London society woman who divorced her husband last October, has been married to Count Anthony de Bosdari in Berlin.

The engagement of the count and Miss Tallulah Bankhead, actress, was broken by mutual consent early this month. The count was engaged to another actress, Enid Stamp Taylor, in 1926, but that also was broken. His marriage to Josephine Fish, of Chicago, last year was subsequently annuled.

STRIKE CHIEF ASKS WHEELER TO SPEAK

REPORT HELD ONE-SIDED

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 21 (A.P.).—William F. Kelly, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, today announced that Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, had been invited to address a mass meeting of striking employes of the American Glanzstoff and American Remberg mills here Thursday afternoon.

Kelly's announcement came with a criticism of the report of Capt. Tom M. Henderson, of the judge advocate general's department, to Gov. Henry Horton, in which the situation here was said to be well in the hands of authorities and there was no need for martial law.

The union leader said Capt. Henderson confined his investigation to talks with civil and military authorities and did not discuss the situation with strike leaders.

Report Called One-Sided.

Announcement that Senator Wheeler had been invited to address the strikers was the only development of a day of investigation on the part of civil and military authorities and watchful waiting of the strikers, who tomorrow expect a decision on the legality of their picketing activities.

Approximately 50 strikers will face trial on charges of contempt of court tomorrow for alleged violation of an injunction granted the textile mills at the inception of the strike of 5,000 employes, prohibiting interference with the operation of the plants.

50 Strikers' Trial Today.

The more than two score strikers have been arrested at various times on several charges tomorrow will go before Chancellor Miller in chancery court to answer charges of contempt for alleged violation of the injunction.

Both civil and military authorities tonight were without a clew to the identity of the persons who shot up the house of one nonunion textile worker and set off twenty explosions of dynamite in the hills.

Reports of night riding in the deep hill sections where some textile workers live were received at military headquarters today and were under investigation.

Blasts Terrorize Hill Folk.

Residents of the Happy Valley area were terrorized last night by an explosion which occurred at regular intervals, but today National Guardsmen found only yawning cavities in the sides of the hills. Other than to frighten residents and cause guardsmen trouble in tracing down reports of property destruction, the blasts did no damage.

Kelly and other union leaders said they were considering sending girl workers to Nashville to picket the home of Gov. Horton as a protest against the use of National Guardsmen in the strike area.

As employes who have returned to the mills went to work this morning under military escort, scores of strike pickets lined the highways, but preserved order and made no move to interfere.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, who has been invited to address textile strikers at Elizabethton, Tenn., next Thursday, said yesterday he had as yet not given the invitation any consideration.

Hundreds Drowned By Floods in Irak

Toll of Raging Near East Streams May Mount to Thousands.

Basra, Irak, May 21 (U.P.).—Unconfirmed advices received here today asserted that hundreds of persons had been drowned in floods along the Tigris and Euphrates rivers during the last few days.

Early and unofficial reports said the death toll might run into the thousands. There have been heavy rains in the river area recently, and considerable damage to crops and towns was reported several days ago.

Officials here predicted that the crest of the flood would reach Basra late tonight or tomorrow. The torrent of water was reported at its height at Nasiriya, some 150 miles up the river from here. Nasiriya is on the Euphrates River. The Euphrates and the Tigris join less than 50 miles above Basra and become the Shat-El Arab, which empties into the Persian Gulf.

King Michael Elected Head of Jockey Club

Bucharest, Roumania, May 21 (A.P.). King Michael today was elected president of the National Jockey Club. The boy, who owns several Shetland ponies, immediately asked the governor to arrange a series of races for thoroughbred ponies.

Since this was by way of being a royal command, the governor is arranging for such races this summer in which Michael's favorite pony Black Beauty will be entered.

CRIME COMMISSION TO MEET TUESDAY

DRYS ARE NOW APATHETIC

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover's law-enforcement commission will meet here Tuesday, have luncheon at the White House and then be taken to the Cabinet room to organize.

Afterwards it should be able to determine whether the commission will try to settle the raging prohibition question or resolve into just another commission from which Congress in due time may get some ideas as to pleadings and procedure before the courts.

Generally commented upon yesterday as an outstanding commission, especially for the purpose that Mr. Hoover has in mind, that of disentangling the maze of legal procedure in order that justice may be made swifter, the conviction, nevertheless, grew that prohibition—the merits or enforceability of it—is to be about the least subject that it will have in mind.

It is a legal minded, not a prohibition minded body, it was pointed out.

This is just what Mr. Hoover promised in his inaugural address and in accord, too, with his subsequent utterances. And in this light it would not seem to matter whether the members of the commission are wet or dry, liberal or what not. Ten of the eleven are men whose life has dealt with the law, the administering of it. The strong belief is that an investigation by them will be one to determine how the laws may be best applied now, in so far as prohibition is concerned; how prohibition violators can all and more quickly be put in jail.

It was probably the President's campaign utterance that caused several quarters to cling to the idea that this commission was somehow to settle or pave the way to a settlement of the controversy between the wets and the drys. Mr. Hoover's utterances at that time concerned prohibition alone. It was to be an investigation of prohibition, its abuses and causes of abuses.

Even now there are those who insist that the commission, when it gets around to prohibition, must necessarily go into the causes of present conditions, and the wets are convinced that it will find these causes in the unpopularity of the law and come to a conclusion that they can not be removed. That would seem to be farfetched.

Wets and Drys Not Excited.

In addition, there are the President's recent utterances that he does not consider prohibition the major cause of the present breakdown in law enforcement. It may be possible to determine Tuesday whether he imparts this view to the commission. It would to a great extent serve as the key to its procedure.

It seems to be significant that both organized drys and organized wets are not excited about the impending inquiry. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is faintly clinging to a hope that it will in some way be able to inject the prohibition controversy into the inquiry. It is far from convinced that it will be able to do so.

It may be that it believes that regardless of what comes its case is safe with a commission of such a type. This confidence, and too, a contentment with the present administration seems to sum up the attitude of the drys in the House and Senate. The wets for that matter are willing to to rest their case with the commission if it would only go into the question from its controversial angles, instead of simply trying to improve upon enforcement of existing laws, which speaks highly for the choice of the members.

Likely to Lapse Into Study.

The bearing that the investigation will have on the prohibition controversy will to a large extent be determined by whether the commission decides to hold open hearings. If it does this, public opinion, it is believed, will soon steer it into the midst of the controversy. Its inquiry would be educational from day to day, and the public might be able to render its decision about the time the commission reached its conclusions.

Mr. Hoover's dislike for fanfare or trumpets, however, argues against this.

It is more likely that after one or two meetings with plenty of publicity the inquiry will develop into a quiet study, lost sight of in a short time, to bob up no more until a year or so from now when the commission reports, at which time newspaper men will be running around trying to recall just what commission it is reporting, how it started and why.

The wets say that if it is to be this kind of an inquiry they will not be lulled to sleep but will keep up their agitation right along.

(Associated Press.)

Commenting on the personnel of President Hoover's newly appointed law enforcement commission, Bishop James Cannon, jr., chairman of the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, last night said that "while it would be amazing if the entire personnel should be satisfactory to everybody, the commission should receive the undivided support of all good citizens."

Bishop Cannon's statement in full follows:

"It is evident that the President has given a great deal of thought to the selection of the commission. Now that it has been appointed, while it would be amazing if the entire personnel should be satisfactory to everybody, the commission should receive the undivided support of all good citizens, who will hope that it will study thoroughly all the facts in connection with lawlessness and crime and the administration of justice which have been growing steadily worse for the past 40 years.

"Of necessity prohibition law enforcement will be included in this study, not to determine whether the eighteenth amendment is a mistake and should be repealed, but to determine what educative and enforcement methods, including statutory legislation, will secure the best results in the Nation's conflict with probably its worst enemy, the liquor traffic, whether under the law or despite the law."

Dubuque, Iowa, May 21 (A.P.).—Fire which broke out before noon today at the Iowa gasoline station, at Potosi, Wis., near here and soon after spread to three huge oil tanks, brought out fire departments from Dubuque and Lancaster, Wis.

Nearby dwellings were endangered and firemen fought to prevent the spread of flames to another tank containing 7,500 gallons of gasoline. Fear was expressed that the tank might explode.

Rain Halts Goober Gallop On Second Day of Big Push

Peanut-Propelling Texan, Muscles in a Terrible State, Washed Out on Pikes Peak Nose-March, But Wait Until Tomorrow!

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 21 (U.P.).—Ole Jupiter Pluvius took a hand today in the prodigious Pikes Peak peanut push, a downpour of rain stopping Bill Williams, the Texan who has bet $500 that he can propel a peanut with his nose to the pinnacle of the mountain, a distance of 22 miles, in 22 days.

Bill had negotiated but six-tenths of the mile he had set for today when torrents of water made a continuance of the "Goober Derby" impossible, and Bill repaired to a motion picture theater to take his place on a sheltered stage and tell folks that there are 120,000,000 people in the United States and that he is going to be the first of that number to perform his chosen feat.

Bill will resume his task Wednesday morning with somewhat of a handicap to overcome and a prayer on his dust-covered lips that weather conditions will deal more kindly with him until he has won.

Those who are inclined to scoff at Williams' peanut push should have seen him limp to the stage.

"I'm one big ache," he said, and he looked it, "I use the same muscles all day long, with no chance to change, and it gets a fellow down."

Williams, whose home is at Rio Hondo, Tex., and who found that his trade as plasterer didn't keep him busy and affluent, has propelled peanuts many times, and when he conceived the idea of pushing a goober to the summit of Pikes Peak with his nose at the rate of a mile per day he got a chance to make a $500 wager, enough to pay all expenses if he wins.

Of course the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce did not cast a cold and glassy eye on the project, and there came assistance from that reputable source. Then a peanut company agreed to supply Bill with twenty welcome dollars each day of the push on the condition that the well-known peanuts were used to the exclusion of others and that Bill would appear daily adorned in white overalls with the company's advertisement on the back.

As for Bill, no one would pick him out of a crowd. He looks like most any little girl's father and, with his family, is stopping at a medium-priced hotel, where, since the first day of the push, he has spent most of his spare time trying to untangle his badly shuffled muscles.

$300,000,000 WON BY MELLON FAMILY

SHARES CLOSELY HELD

Pittsburgh, May 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Financial circles here calculated today that the fortune of the Mellon family has been increased by nearly $300,000,000 as a result of recent spectacular rises in the stock of the Aluminum Co. of America and the Gulf Oil Corporation of Pennsylvania.

The appreciation in the total of Gulf Oil stock since the first of the year has been $210,000,000. The Mellon family holds 90 per cent of it. On this basis, the Mellon share of the appreciation would be $189,000,000.

The increase in value of Aluminum Co. of America common stock since the first of the year has been $191,000,000. Standard financial statistics have it that 60 per cent of Aluminum common is owned by the board of directors and by A. W. Mellon and Maria T. Hunt. Sixty per cent of the $191,000,000 increase would give a profit of $114,000,000 to this group.

The share of this latter figure belonging to the Mellon family would probably carry their total appreciation well toward $300,000,000.

The stock of the Aluminum Co. rose from a low of 146 for this year to 288¾. This gives a profit of $137 a share. The stock climbed 33½ points last week.

The stock of the Gulf Oil Corporation gained 47 points this year, climbing from a low of 142½ to a high of 189. It rose 23 points last week.

The Aluminum Co. has approximately 1,400,000 shares of common stock outstanding. This gives the total profit at $191,800,000.

The Gulf Oil Corporation has approximately $112,000,000 in stock outstanding. Its stock is capitalized at $25 a share, which means 4,480,000 shares of stock outstanding. Multiplying the number of shares by the $47 increase gives the total increased valuation of $210,000,000.

W. L. Mellon is president of the Gulf Oil Corporation and R. B. Mellon is a director. R. B. Mellon is a director of the Aluminum Co.

OUSTER OF DOCTOR UPHELD BY SOCIETY

ADVERTISING MOVE CAUSE

Peoria, Ill., May 21 (A.P.).—The expulsion of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt from the Chicago Medical Society for "unethical advertising" was unanimously upheld today by the Illinois State Medical Society.

The issue of whether it is ethical for the medical profession to advertise as a public health measure, as defended by Dr. Schmidt, will be laid before the judicial council of the American Medical Association on a further appeal by Dr. Schmidt.

Both the executive council of the State society and its house of delegates were unanimous in their decisions against the Chicago doctor. He had appealed from the ouster decision on the grounds that the Chicago Medical Society was not justified in holding him responsible for the advertising of the Chicago Public Health Institute, in the first place, and furthermore because there was nothing unethical in the institute's public health advertising. The council, heard only the review of the law and the procedure in Dr. Schmidt's trial as set forth in the appeal.

Dr. Schmidt as president of the Illinois Social Hygiene League was ousted from the Chicago society for his connection with the Public Health Institute, which advertises for its patients suffering from "social diseases." The institute, described in its advertising as a nonprofit-making organization, had a contract with Dr. Schmidt under which all charity cases of the institute were referred to the hygiene league, a charitable organization. In return for his treatments the league was paid $12,000 a year by the institute.

Dr. Schmidt maintained this connection with the institute in no way made him responsible for, although he upheld, the institute's public health advertising policy. His outer created a disturbance which led to the resignation of Dr. Herman Bundesen, Cook County coroner and former president of the American Public Health Association, and that of Dr. Rachelle Yarros, noted woman physician, from the Chicago Medical Society. They were colleagues of Dr. Schmidt, of the board of directors of the Social Hygiene League.

The Chicago Medical Society in its ouster proceedings did not question Dr. Schmidt's personal integrity or practice as a physician or surgeon, the issue involving only the ethics of advertising and his connection with the Public Health Institute whose sponsors include many prominent Chicago business men.

Beauty Contest Bar Issued by Mussolini

Rome, May 21 (A.P.).—Beauty contests are forbidden throughout Italy as "grave inconveniences to the moral order" by orders sent tonight by the minister of the interior to all provincial prefects. Benito Mussolini combines with his several other portfolios that of the interior.

The order says: "In view of the extensive prevalence, especially during the summer time, of beauty contests with proclamations of queens, princesses, etc., and in consideration of the grave inconveniences to the moral order derived therefrom, similar forms of dangerous explcitation of feminine vanity as well as parodies thereof are henceforth forbidden."

BALM SUIT IS JOKE, SAYS GENE TUNNEY

Former Champion Says He Has No Knowledge of Action, Referred to Lawyers.

WOMAN SEEKS $500,000

Brioni, Italy, May 21 (A.P.).—James J. Tunney exclaimed, "I know absolutely nothing of the report," when informed today that papers in a suit for alleged breach of promise of marriage had been sent to Bridgeport, Conn., for filing. "It must be another joke," declared the former heavyweight boxing champion.

"When I am sued I let my attorneys worry," he went on. "I have all the worries I can handle right now here."

Tunney did not explain whether his last remark was in reference to the recent serious illness of his wife, the former Polly Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn., upon whom an emergency operation was performed for acute appendicitis. She had been reported progressing favorably.

Married Last October.

The former boxer expressed his thanks for the information that Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty was seeking $500,000 as damages for an alleged jilting by him. He has remained in Europe since his marriage in Rome last October 3.

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—George W. Whiteside, attorney for Gene Tunney, made public today copies of an affidavit over the signature of Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty and dated July 24, 1928, stating the former heavyweight champion was under no obligation to her.

Whiteside said that prior to her action today in preparing to file papers in a $500,000 breach of promise action, Mrs. Fogarty had made numerous threats of damaging publicity, culminating in insistent demands just before Tunney's last fight. Her claims were investigated at that time, he said, and found to be without merit.

Affidavit Clears Him.

The affidavit follows: "I made the acquaintance of John James (Gene) Tunney in Hot Springs in October, 1924. Our relations at all times thereafter were such as in no way to cast the slightest criticism or discredit upon him. I have no claim upon him of any kind and never did have. I had hoped to continue to enjoy his friendship, but that does not seem any longer possible for either of us. In the past I have said things about him to my lawyers that I now deeply regret because I know nothing that I could say that would cast the slightest discredit upon him, and should my name ever be used with or without my knowledge in the future in any way to reflect in the slightest manner upon him I wish to make this solemn declaration under oath that may be published at any time, that he is under no obligation whatsoever to me and never was and that his character and conduct to my knowledge are of the best."

Bridgeport, Conn., May 21 (A.P.).—Legal papers in a half million dollar suit in which the allegation is breach of promise to marry, to be docketed, by Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty against James J. (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion of the world, tonight weighed down the pocket of a deputy sheriff, who had headed for court to file them and stopped short of his destination.

House, Accounts Attached.

The suit became a matter of record when Deputy Sheriff Michael T. Ryan, of Stamford, received the complaint and accompanying papers from Deputy Sheriff Maley, of New Haven, and attached property, including the old house, which Tunney intended to transform into a colonial country home for his bride, who was Polly Lauder, garnisheed any possible bank accounts in Stamford and Greenwich banks and entered records of his work with Town Clerk George R. Close, of Stamford.

4 JOY-RIDING BOYS DIE IN AUTO CRASH

FIRE ENVELOPES MACHINE

Revere, Mass., May 21 (United Press). An afternoon joy ride of six Revere High School youths ended in a tragedy which claimed four lives and perhaps fatally wounded a fifth member of the party here late this afternoon.

The four who lost their lives when the automobile in which they were riding crashed through the guard rail of the Lynn traffic artery bridge at Point of Pines were: Elliot Sandler, James Jimjimian, Jack Davis and Barney Stein, all about 20 years old and students at Revere High School.

A fifth member of the party, Arthur Sehocher, is in a critical condition at a Chelsea Hospital and may die. The driver and owner of the touring car, Louis Weiner, escaped with slight injuries.

The party was proceeding toward Lynn, and apparently the automoolile skidded on the rain-drenched bridge, hitting first the left side and then the right side. The machine broke through the guard rail and fell to the tracks below.

It immediately burst into flames. Police and firemen, called to the scene by a bridge tender nearby who saw the fire, fought a stiff battle before they were able to extricate the bodies of the youths.

As far as could be learned there had been no witnesses to the accident.

The two deputies then came here, but Mr. Ryan decided he had done a day's work and said that instead of filing the papers in superior civil court as was looked for earlier in the day he would keep them in his pocket overnight.

Connecticut law does not require that the documents in a suit be filed immediately with the clerk of the court when attachments have been made, the copy of the complaint left with a town clerk having the same legal status in preliminary stages of actions as the filing with a court clerk. The return day will be May 30 and the plaintiff has until that date in which to file the papers in court. Counsel for Mrs. Fogarty desires to have the case called up on June 4, when court comes in for its session.

A copy of the complaint which sets forth Mrs. Fogarty's claim against Tunney on file at Stamford says that she met Tunney early in 1925, when he was training at Hot Springs, Ark., and that on May 29, that year, she obtained a divorce from John S. Fogarty at Fort Worth, Tex. Five days later, she avers, and "on subsequent days," Tunney proposed to her and she agreed to marry him. She is "ready to comply with the request now," the complaint runs, but the retired champion "married another person." The identity of that "other person" is not described.

To set up her claim of damages, Mrs. Fogarty says she suffered such "mental shock" because of Tunney's marriage that she has been under care of physicians at Fort Worth and New York ever since due to a nervous condition.

Mrs. Fogarty has a son, Merrill, aged 10.

The land which Tunney bought comprises 90 acres. The tax records indicated that it was assessed for $14,000.

TEST MEETS SUCCESS

Panama City, May 21 (U.P.).—United States naval authorities at Balboa announced tonight that tests conducted in locating a submarine at an unknown position will result, they believe, in the assurance of prompt aid for all submarines stricken at sea.

United States submarines operating from Balboa within a few hours succeeded in locating and giving air to the submarine S-11, which had submerged itself as would a submarine that had encountered disaster.

"The operation was highly successful," said tonight's announcement of the test. "It is not believed that further trouble will be experienced in locating any sunken submarine."

The "rescue" ships in the test used an "S. C. I. nonelectric aquatic tube," which picks up and magnifies sound.

The submarine S-11 left Balboa at 6:30 a. m. Friday and was submerged. It reported at 8 o'clock that all was "ready," and the submarine tender Mallard and two submarines, S-12 and S-20, left Balboa to locate the S-11, whose position was not known.

The sunken craft was permitted to use its oscillator for an hour and a half in the manner which would be employed by a wrecked submarine, if possible. After that the members of the crew tapped on the hull of the ship with hammers to guide the rescuers by the sound, which was picked up by the sensitive apparatus on the S-12 and S-20.

After cruising for an hour in the waters where the S-11 was last reported, the S-12 heard sounds indicating the sunken vessel was some 3,000 yards from Taboguilla Light. The Mallard was notified and headed for that position, where air bubbles were sighted at 10:30 a. m.

The Mallard established contact with the S-11 off Taboga Island in 87 feet of water and went through a submarine rescue drill, blowing out the flooded compartments of the S-11 with an air hose. At 5:05 p. m. the S-11 rose to the surface.

RAIL RATE INCREASE DOUBTED BY HOOVER

O'Fallon Case Decision Is Not to Cause Rise, Says President.

ROAD HEADS BACK BELIEF

(Associated Press.)

Confidence that there will be no increase in railroad rates as a result of the Supreme Court decision in the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad valuation case was expressed yesterday by President Hoover.

The Chief Executive, replying to inquiries of newspaper correspondents at his regular Tuesday conference, made this single sentence statement:

"I am confident that there will be no increase in railroad rates as a result of the O'Fallon decision."

There was no explanation as to the reason for this confidence, but coincident with his announcement expressions of similar views were made by Interstate Commerce Commission officials and some presidents of trunk line railroads both in the East and the West.

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said his line "has no thought of requesting any general increase in rates," adding that he saw nothing in the decision to cause any change in the policy of the road with respect to rate advances.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, expressed the opinion that the decision would have no immediate effect whatever on railroad rates. He agreed with other officers of the big carriers that it would afford a guide for the Interstate Commerce Commission in fixing lawful valuation of the roads as a basis for the calculation of so-called excess earnings as provided in the transportation act.

P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central Lines, took the position that the decision "does not appear to provide the occasion for any program at this time looking to general increase in railroad rates, which must always be largely influenced by commercial conditions."

The view that the decision would be a good thing for the country as a whole was voiced by Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern.

"It will encourage further development and improvement," he added, "and probably will not adversely affect rate structures because rates have been and will continue to be made on what the traffic will reasonably bear."

pals had held up a Fulton County grocer for a purse of $4. They were caught, and Burns' sentence was six to ten years.

"I had served about three months on a road gang in Campbell County swinging a sledge," Burns said, "when I thought of a chance to escape. We were all shackeled with heavy chains. There was a big negro next to me who could swing a hammer with the precision of a machine.

"One day when the guards weren't near us I had him take a swing at the steel shackel on my ankle. If he had missed it would have been my leg. The blow cracked the band and a little later I went into the bushes and slipped it off."

He escaped to Chicago and met Emily Pacheo. The woman found one of Burns' letters from his father in Brookfield, Mass., and learned of his Georgia prison record.

"She was 52 and I didn't want her, but she told me she wanted to marry me and she had the goods on me," Burns declared. Burns is 36. They were married, he said, and then one day he met another girl. He offered his wife $60 a month if she would release him, and, Burns related: "She said she would, so I went back to my work and thought everything was all right. I've been doing pretty good with the magazine, netting about $20,000 a year. Then the detectives walked in today. Emily had tipped them off and told them all about me."

Peru Revolution Report Is Denied

Bolivian Bulletins Said to Be Caused by Shouting of Students.

La Paz, Bolivia, May 21 (A.P.).—The semiofficial newspaper, El Norte, this evening posted bulletins saying that a military coup had been attempted at Lima, Peru. El Diario also printed reports of serious disturbances. It was believed here that a censorship had been imposed in Peru.

Lima, Peru, May 21 (A.P.).—Reports that a revolution has broken out here are wholly untrue. A few students shouted in the streets but did not affect public order.

Buenos Aires, May 21 (A.P.).—The Peruvian Ambasador here tonight vigorously denied that a revolution had begun in Lima. He said he had just received cables treating of official affairs which showed that Peru was completely normal.

BANK COUNCIL URGES RAISE IN REDISCOUNT

Favors 6 Per Cent Rate for All Federal Reserve Institutions.

STRIKES AT SPECULATION

(United Press.)

The Federal Advisory Council recommended at a special meeting yesterday with the Federal Reserve Board that the board approve rediscount rate increases to 6 per cent for all Federal Reserve banks requesting such raises.

Recommendations of the advisory council, which comprises representatives of each of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts, were made public by the board after its five-hour joint session at which the credit situation was surveyed extensively.

The text of the council's recommendations, which it authorized the Reserve Board to release for publication, follows:

"The Federal advisory council has reviewed carefully the credit situation. It continues to agree with the view of the Federal Reserve Board expressed in its statement of February 5, 1929, that 'an excessive amount of the country's credit has been absorbed in speculative security loans.'

"The policy pursued by the Federal Reserve Board has had a beneficial effect, due largely to the loyal cooperation of the banks of the country. The efforts in this direction should be continued.

"The council notes, however, that while the total amount of Federal Reserve credit being used has been reduced, 'the amount of the country's credit absorbed in speculative security loans' has not been substantially lowered.

"Therefore, the council recommends to the Federal Reserve Board that it now grant permission to raise the rediscount rates to 6 per cent to those Federal Reserve banks requesting it, thus bringing the rediscount rates into closer relation with generally prevailing commercial money rates.

"The council believes that improvement in financial conditions and a consequent reduction of the rate structure will thereby be brought about more quickly, thus best safeguarding commerce, industry and agriculture."

Rediscount rates in all twelve Federal reserve bank districts are now on an even level of 5 per cent, as the Federal Reserve Board last week approved increases by the two Western banks which had maintained a 4½ per cent rate. San Francisco, the last of the reserve banks to come to the 5 per cent level, adopted its new rate only Monday.

Making public the council's recommendation, an almost unprecedented action, virtually assures a general raising of rediscount rates at least in the important money centers. Such action has been contemplated for some time by the board, but it has hesitated to act for fear rediscount raises might have an adverse effect on general business conditions.

In view, however, of the fact that commercial money rates have prevailed a full per cent above the rediscount level for many months, it appears probable the board has finally decided discount rate increases are necessary to remove the disparity between the two classes of money rates.

Whether the raise of a whole per cent will be approved throughout the reserve system is debatable, though the council's recommendation for such raises may lead the board to permit the banks to place 6 per cent rates in effect generally.

Capone's Judge Gets Threats; Commendation

Philadelphia, May 21 (A.P.).—Edward P. Carney, police magistrate who held "Scarface Al" Capone, and his pal, Frank Cline, in $35,000 bail each so as to make it difficult for them to raise the bond before the grand jury could indict them for carrying loaded pistols, has received nearly 50 letters and postal cards threatening his life, and about an equal number commending him for his action. They came from Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Richmond, Va.

Carney says he regards the threats as a joke. Capone and Cline are serving a year each in the county prison here for toting the guns.

Miami-Central America Mail Plane Over Sea

Miami, Fla., May 21 (A.P.).—A Pan-mail service between Miami and Central American Airways plane, carrying approximately 12,000 pieces of mail, was winging its way over the Caribbean this afternoon on the first direct air tral American points. U. S. SEEN HEADED FOR DEBTS MERGER

COOLIDGE NOTE RECALLED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

America has at last yielded to European entreaties and has made the long-awaited initial move toward adjustment of the reparation and debt problem, which promises interesting developments for the future and forecasts reconsideration of these questions on an international rather than American basis.

This is the reaction in diplomatic circles here and in European capitals to the welcome news that the Hoover administration has agreed to sacrifice $30,000,000 of America's Army costs and an uncertain amount in reparations claims under the 2¼ per cent allotment in order to encourage other creditor nations to reduce their claims against Germany. The American sacrifice is regarded for a variety of reasons as the outstanding event in connection with the progress of the committee of experts now meeting at Paris.

The amount of the American sacrifice is not considered important from the European standpoint, but the reasons behind it are viewed as of the most far-reaching significance. Europe sees, rightly or wrongly, the dawn of a new American policy which wipes out the policies of the Harding and Coolidge administrations and forecasts America's tardy but effective merging of reparations owed by Germany to the allies and debts owed by the allies to the United States.

Considered Entering Wedge.

It is only a step in the direction of the program which Europe has been persistently but vainly attempting to map out for America, and it is described as a very cautious step, but it is viewed as the entering wedge in the prearranged plan to place America's relation to Europe on an entirely new basis.

"Our hope of success is now very strong," one of the experts is quoted as stating in Paris, and the French viewpoint is reechoed by the Petit Parisien, which states: "The American action seems to have a wider bearing, going far beyond the present situation and constituting perhaps the first promise of sympathy for Europe's difficulties and of indulgence for settlements to come."

The basi idea involved—the willingness of the nUited States to sacrifice the money belonging to American taxpayers—if the creditor nations will cancel a like proportion of debts owed to them by Germany—fits the debt-reparation-merger plan like a glove. That is precisely what Europe has been asking for all along. In their campaign to bring about cancellation or partial cancellation of the debts they owe to America they have been broadcasting their willingness to forego collection from Germany if America would forego collection of like amounts from them.

Cancellation Aids Europe.

The proposed rogram on army costs accomplishes this in an indirect way. The allies excuse Germany from paying stipulated amounts under army costs, while America, by cancelling Germany's army cost debt to her, releases additional millions to the fund out of which Germany is to pay reparations to the allies. The whole program of the creditor nations is based on getting all that Germany will have available to pay, and America's release of more than $30,000,000 adds this amount to the sum which the allied nations will garner and use for various purposes, including further strengthening of their military and naval establishments in advance of the next war.

Uncle Sam, therefore, would represent the only nation actually losing anything, but this occasions no surprise to those who have felt all along that any European financial settlement plan in which America was involved would leave the United States in the position of making the only real sacrifice. Furthermore, the European statesmen have maneuvered the United States into the position where America must now sacrifice or appear in the role of obstructing peace and stability in Europe. This is the maneuver upon which Europe has been counting since the World War, to finally bring about a change in the American policy.

It is by no means certain, however, that President Hoover and Congress will permit the game to be played out altogether according to European rules. The millions which it is proposed that America shall sacrifice belong to the American taxpayers and are held in trust by the Government. This money can not be used as a gift or a symbol of unselfishness without the consent of the people, represented in Congress, and there are already advance rumblings at the Capitol.

Recommendations Not Binding.

Until the recommendations of the experts have been critically examined it will not be possible to ascertain just how America is to make the sacrifice or just how the Coolidge policy on Army costs has been changed. The recommendations will not be binding and the governments probably will send representatives to meet in conference before agreement is reached on the recommendations. By the time this conference is held, Charles G. Dawes will be at his post as American Ambassador to Great Britain and will be in a position to fathom the new wrinkles of the allied plans.

Gen. Dawes and Frank B. Kellogg, Ambassador to Great Britain, were responsible for frustrating efforts of the allied governments in general and Great Britain in particular to take advantage of America in the matter of Army costs when the Dawes plan was in the process of formation at London and accepted by the governments in Paris.

Then, as now, the European powers sought to persuade the United States that a generous self-sacrificing policy would add to America's prestige and promote world peace. Mr. Coolidge declined to be influenced by these European efforts. He noted the fact that Great Britain and the other allies had appropriated in advance huge sums for their own army costs and had then asked America to leave German reparations untouched so that all the proceeds would be available to them.

Coolidge Assailed British Tactics.

Under direct orders from Mr. Coolidge, Mr. Kellogg sent a note to the British government under date of January 4, 1925, which definitely ended the campaign to persuade America to be self-sacrificing in the interest of European stability and world peace. The Kellogg note contained the following paragraphs:

"Notwithstanding the right of the United States to be paid its Army costs on the same footing as the allied powers, the latter, including his majesty's government, took for themselves the funds available for this purpose. Thus, by the arrangement of 1922 between the allied powers, Great Britain received 500,000,000 gold marks in cash to apply on her army costs, which had accrued prior to May 1, 1921. And, as I have said, this was taken with definite notice of the claim of my government which, however, for all practical purposes, was ignored. I have no desire to review the course of the later negotiations which were due to the insistence of the United States that its right and equity should be respected or to the difficulties raised by his majesty's government in the course of the negotiations which finally resulted in the army cost agreement of May 25, 1922, but I think it but fair that the forbearance of the United States in this matter and the fact that its appropriate reimbursement was withheld and finally extended by agreement over a period of years should receive appropriate consideration in determining its general equity."

Kellogg Pressed Claims.

Mr. Kellogg pointed out that the American Army of Occupation was maintained at the request of the allies and that America's right to obtain an arrangement for reimbursement was repeatedly frustrated until May, 1923, when it was reluctantly recognized owing to the insistence of the United States. Mr. Kellogg's note contains the following:

"I must repeat that my Government is unable to reach any other conclusion than that the allied powers have no right in law or equity to take for their own benefit all the payments that Germany can make and deny participation to the United States for its proper claims."

The fair treatment which Americans finally received in the matter of army costs, as well as in the arrangement for the 2¼ per cent reparations payments, was due to the flat refusal of President Coolidge, Mr. Kellogg and Gen. Dawes to consider any of the European appeals designed to promote self-sacrifice and generosity on the part of the United States Government.

Europe was left with the hope for better luck at some future time and the present meeting of the committee of experts has reawakened the European hopes and anticipations.

ALLIES ACCEPT SIX GERMAN CONDITIONS

Paris Settlement Depends on Two Demands Which Creditors Refused.

NEW PARLEY PROBABLE

Paris, May 21 (A.P.).—The barometer of the reparations conference went up today with the announcement that the allied delegates had finally agreed on their reply to certain conditions which the German delegation had proposed on acceptance of Owen D. Young's reparations settlement plan.

The reply was in the form of a letter to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht. It will be transmitted to him tomorrow with the tentative draft of the second Dawes committee's report.

This report, embodying the German conditions and reservations made by the creditor countries respecting them, was virtually completed this evening.

When the Germans have received it, both sides will finally be at close grips with one another, and in reparations circles it is thought that the final issue can be delayed no more than a week.

Three Held for Discussion.

According to the best information, the allied experts accepted half a dozen of Dr. Schacht's conditions. They reserved three for further discussion after the German delegation has taken cognizance of their views.

There remain two conditions which the creditor experts have thus far rejected, and these will furnish the material for the decisive negotiations with Dr. Schacht.

One of these conditions is understood to be the German demand for the right to convene another conference of experts to revise the settlement now under discussion whenever the reich's economic situation appeared to justify it.

The other concerns postponement of reparations payments for two years whenever the financial situation of the German treasury warrants it. Under the Dawes plan transfers are subject to protection whenever they are likely to disturb the German exchange, but payments within Germany to the agent general of reparations continue under any circumstances.

Germans Demand Revision.

The creditor experts maintain that it is sufficient to protect transfers on part of the protected annuities and that postponement of payments within Germany are inadmissible.

The tug of war between the Germans and their creditors will come on these two conditions.

It was said tonight in German circles that unless the creditors accepted the revision clause the German experts could not agree to the report as it was drafted.

The report, as it will be presented to the Germans tomorrow with its covering letter, virtually is a reply to Dr. Schacht's conditions, which were not presented to the creditors directly, but incorporated in the report itself.

As soon as Dr. Schacht has studied the changes made in the report, a plenary session of the committee will unite the two groups for a decisive struggle.

Expect Decision in Week.

Expert circles think that the final outcome of the conference will become apparent before the end of the week, though revamping the report and final reparation of the annuities will occupy the delegates far into next week.

The sensation caused by the American note to Mr. Young and J. P. Morgan, consenting to reduction in the American share of annuities, has quickly subsided.

The action of the American Government was greatly appreciated by the European experts as an indication of willingness on the part of the United States to cooperate in a settlement. But since the amount of reduction involved is only about four million marks a year (approximately $1,000,000) and the annuities under discussion amount to 2,050,000,000 marks (approximately $492,000,000), it is said the decision taken at Washington could in no event have an important bearing on the result of the conference.

Whatever proves to be the outcome of the present committee's work, the opinion has now become general that a new international conference must be called to apply its recommendations, if it succeeds, and to resume negotiations, if it fails.

Aristide Briand, Gustav Stresemann, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister of France, Germany and Great Britain, are expected to take up the question during the session of the council of the League of Nations at Madrid next month.

The only thing absolutely agreed upon between the allies and the Germans is the establishment of the "bank for international settlements." The experts still are working on details of its organization, but it will remain or a special committee, chosen by the powers interested, to do the actual work of adopting the statutes putting the bank in operation.

This bank would replace the reparations commission and the functions of the agent general for reparations. S. Parker Gilbert, present agent general, is said to be anxious to profit by the opportunity to return to other occupations at home.

The annuities now under discussion by the allies called for 37 payments of 2,050,000,000 marks (about $492,000,000), twenty annuities of 17,000,000,000 marks (about $408,000,000), and one of 900,000,000 marks (about $216,000,000).

Zeppelin's Amount Of Gas Inadequate

Decision on Ousting Several Passengers to Be Put Up to Eckener Today.

Cuers, France, May 21 (A.P.).—A fresh problem over the return of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin to its home hangar at Friedrichshafen developed tonight, when it was found that the available French supply of hydrogen was less than is needed to lift the load planned.

The French delivered a little more than 2,000 cubic meters of the gas, but it was estimtaed that another 3,000 would be needed. Decision whether some of the passengers, guests or members of the crew would be asked to give up their places has been left to Dr. Hugo Eckener, whose return is expected tomorrow. The dirigible will be ready for the flight on Thursday or Friday.

Fourteen of the original 18 passengers have remained here to fly back to Germany. Seven French naval officers accepted the invitation of Dr. Eckener to make the trip.

HOUSE STANDS FIRM AGAINST DEBENTURE

(Associated Press.)

House members of the farm relief conference committee stood firm yesterday in their contention that the export debenture plan must be eliminated from consideration before an agreement can be approached on differences between the House and Senate farm bills.

Senate members of the committee insisted the House itself ought to be permitted to have a roll call vote on the debenture section, but House conferees declared they could not ask this because that branch considered the section an invasion by the Senate of the House's right to initiate revenue legislation.

Although the meeting for the second time broke up in total disagreement, the conferees were not pessimistic about the ultimate outcome of their negotiations.

McNary and Leaders Confer.

In preparation for another meeting of the conference committee today, Chairman McNary, of the Senate agriculture committee, talked over the situation with House leaders. They were unable, however, to conclude on anything that might speedily help the situation.

"We will meet again tomorrow, but I don't know what for," McNary said smilingly yesterday.

House members of the conference committee took the position that they could not take back a report to their branch saying the conference had disagreed because of the debenture section. They contended that the Senate conferees must first agree to drop the plan and then the committee could proceed with a discussion of other differences in the farm bills.

Senators Reiterate Stand.

Senate members reiterated that they preferred the House to take a roll call vote because this would enable them to make a more effective report to the Senate and permit them to suggest that the Senate recede from its position on the debenture section. The debenture plan, the Senate members suggested, was bound to figure in the tariff bill if it lost its place in the farm measure. Therefore, they held that if the House was strenuously opposed to the plan, a roll call vote might as well be taken now, in the prospect that the issue would be settled for the rest of the special session.

In return, the House members argued that the farm bill passed by the House had the approval of President Hoover and that he would veto any measure containing the debenture plan. They maintained it was useless to continue negotiations so long as the debenture section was not eliminated.

On the Senate floor Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, reaffirmed his belief that the Senate had a right to initiate the debenture plan. This was considered a forerunner for another long debate in the Senate should the conferees finally recommend that the legislation be omitted from the farm bill.

Blazing Steamer Races For San Francisco

San Francisco, May 21 (A.P.).—A fire which threatened destruction of the British steamer Trevanion, en route to Victoria, B. C., from Antilla, Cuba, was reported to have been brought under control when the vessel passed the San Francisco lightship, fifteen miles outside of the Golden Gate on her way into this port today.

News of the vessel's plight was received in wireless messages to Norton & Lilly Co., her agents here, and the Marine Exchange. The ship's crew was making a valiant fight against the flames, which, the report said, were confined to number three hold. Fire boats and bay tugs were speeding to aid the vessel while coast guard stations along the shore were keeping watch for her.

SUGAR RATES DELAY TARIFF ACT IN HOUSE

Leaders Fail to Agree on Opening Schedule for Amendment.

BILL BITTERLY ASSAILED

(Associated Press.)

Inability of Republican leaders to agree on whether the proposed new sugar schedule should be opened for amendment is holding up consideration of the tariff bill for amendment in the House.

Asserting so yesterday, Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican leader, added that it was hoped to iron out differences today and to hold a Republican conference tomorrow morning to decide upon a rule under which the bill would be taken up for amendment.

Although members from sugar cane and beet producing States favor a rule which would prevent a separate vote on the proposed increased Cuban sugar duty of 2.40 cents a pound, many Republicans and Democrats want the new rate voted upon.

Representative Fort, of New Jersey, who is looked upon as an administration spokesman in the House, advocated on the floor yesterday a sliding scale sugar tariff such as has been under consideration in circles close to President Hoover, and which would be applied depending on the price of sugar. Representative Garner, of Texas, the minority leader, also favors this kind of duty, but whether opportunity will be offered those desiring to amend the schedule hinges on the scope of the rule to be adopted.

Representatives Hold Conference.

Representatives of the beet sugar interests held a conference yestreday with several of the Republican leaders, but none of the conferees would divulge the purpose of the meeting.

While this and other conferences were going on, the Republican members of the ways and means committee met but reached no decision on changes in the bill suggested by complaining House members.

The proposals for duties on hides, leather and boots and shoes were said by Chairman Hawley to be offering the chief difficulty. Some reports had it that a committee amendment, carrying a duty of 10 per cent on hides, from 12½ to 15 per cent on leather and 20 per cent on shoes, had been agreed upon, but these lacked official confirmation.

The action taken by the Republican committeemen on the proposed changes will be discussed at the Republican conference Thursday, and if a majority of the membership is satisfied, leader expect little difficulty in having an amendment-limiting rule agreed upon.

Labor Leader in Conference.

The majority leaders also conferred during the day with some labor leaders, including Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who were said to have urged higher protection for pottery, ornamental glass, bottles and some printing paraphernalia.

During debate on the measure, Representative Fish (Republican), New York, criticized as "improper" and "horse trading" a speech delivered Monday by William R. Castle, Assistant Secretary of State, before the Canadian Club at Montreal, in which he was quoted as having said that reasonable assurances from Canada for the development of the St. Lawrence waterway would destroy the strongest argument for an increase in American tariffs on Canadian products.

Representative Hill, of Washington, emerged in debate yesterday as the first Democrat to declare for the bill.

Representative Greenwood, of Indiana, one of the several Democrats who opposed the bill, characterized Representative Fort, who had declared he would vote for it, as one of the leading "spokesmen" for the administration and a "high priest of superprotection."

Travesty and Fraud, Says Quinn.

He said the New Jersey member had opposed every farm relief bill except the present one and "now he comes forward with an apology for this monstrosity of a tariff bill which members from farm States on his side of the House have picked to pieces."

Representative Quinn, a Mississippi Democrat, described the measure as "a travesty, a fraud, a deception and a sham."

Representative Burtness (Republican), North Dakota, declared the people in his State were "bitterly disappointed" over the proposed rates on building materials and over some increases in rates granted farm products.

Representative Selvig (Republican), Minnesota, said there still was time to make the bill "an effective instrument in reestablishing our greatest industry, agriculture, upon a sound and stable basis."

Representative Hull, of Tennessee, a Democratic member of the ways and means committee, introduced a bill to repeal the flexible provision of the tariff law.

NORRIS' FREE PRESS SPEECH CONCLUDED

Papers' Purchase by Power Trust Decried in Two-Day Senate Talk.

ALABAMAN TO BE CALLED

(Associated Press.)

Concluding a two-day speech against activities of power interests in the newspaper field, Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, urged publishers yesterday to reject offers of purchase from the "power trust."

The Nebraskan pointed to the disclosures before the Federal Trade Commission that the Interantional Paper & Power Co. had bought stock in newspapers, and expressed the belief that "every newspaper in the country has had the opportunity to sell out to the power trust."

"You know, I know, God knows," he declared, "that we can't have a free country without a free press. How long is the struggling giant of human liberty to remain asleep while this power trust binds and ties it?"

Norris again delved into particular situations in various parts of the country. He referred again to the Mobile, Ala., newspaper situation, and to the contention that Ira C. Copley, owner of a number of papers in Illinois and California, still had public utility stock.

Reading a telegram from Copley denying this charge, Norris said he joined with the publisher in urging that the Federal Trade Commission summon him to be questioned on that point.

The commission announced later that representatives of Copley had requested that he be given a chance to appear, and that the request had been granted. The publisher will be allowed to testify at his convenience and no date has been set.

flaunt its rules. I do not see any particular reason why we should be afraid to enforce our rules against them, and I hope we will do so. If we are afraid, then there is not much use in having rules."

Borah Says Begin at Home.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, interposed that "if we can succeed in enforcing the rules against ourselves we will not have any trouble with the newspapers."

Reed complained that two years ago when he proposed to deny the privileges of the press gallery to any newspaper that "conspired with some traitor in the chamber to divulge these things against the rules of the Senate I was made the butt of a considerable amount of ridicule among the newspaper paragraphers who have the privilege of attacking without response."

He added, however, "that does not matter in the least; they will do it again tomorrow."

Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, said the story was "inaccurate" in that respect because he voted for a "Coolidge nominee." Lenroot was originally nominated by Mr. Coolidge. He declared "if you show me he is a Hoover nominee I will change my vote."

MECHANIC ARRESTED ON MORROW ESTATE

Inventor Seized as He Insists on Seeing Lindbergh; Held as Suspect.

PLOT ON GIRL ADMITTED

He carried a little black bag, and his actions quickly attracted the attention of the guards around the Morrow house. After his actions had become more suspicious and he had tried several times to reach the Morrow home it was decided to take him into custody.

Selectmen Lewis, Stone and Crockett went to a private home where Tondera is staying just before midnight. Search of his bag revealed nothing more suspicious than a passport and extra clothing, but it was decided to hold him, temporarily, at least, and Constable Haskell took him into custody.

Admit Threatening Letters.

Boston, May 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Police today admitted that threatening letters demanding $50,000 under penalty of death were received a week ago by Constance Morrow, 15-year-old daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, and prospective sister-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. It became known tonight that the police are searching for a Massachusetts registered car in which the woman lingered near the spot in Westwood, where the money was to have been deposited.

Detectives, aided by the town police of Westwood and Dedham, have been working quietly on the case ever since the first of the two letters was received by Constance at Milton Academy, where she is a student.

They are convinced that a woman is responsible and that she is the same one who made similar demands on the parents of Frances St. John Smith, the parents of Kenneth Rawson, who went to the Arctic with McMillan; Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of the former Governor of Massachusetts; Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, woman political leader; Mrs. Larz Anderson, widow of the former Ambassador to Switzerland, and several others.

The woman always incloses the last verse or two of a poem in which the parents bid farewell to their loved ones, and leads up to the threats of torture.

Lindbergh Took Girl Away.

Col. Lindbergh took his "kid sister" to North Haven the day before the extortioner's ultimatum expired. Meanwhile, a Cambridge girl, impersonating Constance Morrow and resembling her closely, was around the academy grounds. Next day she drove over the prescribed route to Dedham for the rendezvous. Before she arrived, however the woman was gone.

The woman has never carried out the threats and despite long vigils and carefully prepared traps, has remained uncaught nearly four years.

During that time she has caused great alarm in many families. Her threats have always been the same. She has demanded a deposit of ransom at the same point on the lonely Westwood road, but each time she has failed to appear.

Inspector Edward P. Flannagan, of the Dedham police, said tonight the car was of local registration and was seen in the vicinity of the Westwood road at the time Miss Morrow had been warned to leave the ransom.

Col. Lindbergh was first informed of the threatening letters after he returned from a visit to the Morrow residence in Mexico City, and after arrangement had been made for the visit to the North Haven home of the Morrows off the Maine coast. He was making ready to pilot his favorite plane from New York to Maine when appraised of the fears for Constance's safety.

Detectives on Guard.

Lindbergh then switched planes, as the movements of his own plane might be watched. He arranged for the use of a different type machine, sufficiently large to accommodate Mrs. Morrow and Anne, with Constance as the added passenger to be taken aboard at Mitchel Field.

New York detectives were engaged to keep a close guard over Constance. They arranged to cover her every movement with armed men, and for her departure from Milton unannounced except to school authorities and her parents. The arrangements were completed only a short time before her scheduled visit to the Gap in the wall of Westwood, where she was to leave 50,000 dollar bills which she was to obtain from her father. Her impersonator took that trip, deposited the package supposed to contain the ranson, and departed without molestation.

No One Appears.

The watch maintained over the cache had been set in the dead of night, hours before the time set for the school girl's visit, and was maintained for hours afterward. No one appeared to take the ransom.

It was at this same "gap in the wall" that watchers waited for the arrival of the person who demanded a $50,000 ransom from Frederick H. Rawson, wealthy Chicagoan, whose son, Kenneth, sailed with Donald McMillan to the Arctic regions and returned to Wiscasset in June, 1925. Several weeks before the time of arrival of the explorer's ship at its home port on the Sheepscott River, the elder Rawson received a letter in which his son's death was threatened if $50,000 in dollar bills was not deposited near the gap in the wall at Westwood.

As in the Morrow case, the would-be extortioner pretended to have learned of the trip which had been set at the rendezvous and renewed the threats of torture and death, and as in the Morrow case, inclosed a selected section of a poem, the closing stanza of farewell to a child.

In January, 1928, a short time after Frances St. John Smith disappeared from Smith College, her father, St. John Smith, wealthy New Yorker, received a letter demanding $50,000 ransom for his daughter's safe return, with a penalty of torture and death if the demands were not complied with. Another poem was inclosed, and it had to do with the sorrow in a father's heart when his loved one will be taken from him.

Threats Are Renewed.

Again the trap was set and again came the warning that it had been discovered, and threats renewed, yet no visit was ever made to the spot within 100 yards of the gap in the wall where the ransom was to be left.

A $50,000 demand made upon Mrs. Anderson required her to deposit the money in $1 bills on the Jackson estate near which Grove street runs, and the threatener later wrote that she had discovered the trap set to catch her and again failed to visit the scene.

Mrs. Bird also was threatened with harm if she failed to leave $50,000 in $1 bills in a cache on the Jackson estate, the same place in which Mrs. Anderson was to leave her money. Mrs. Guild was ordered to leave her $50,000, in $1 bills, behind the wall on Gen. Clarence Edwards' estate, within a few feet of the gap in the wall at which Miss Morrow was to pay her ransom.

The Morrow letters were follow-ups of those which had gone before. They were printed in pencilled letters, in an apparent effort to destroy all traces of handwriting, but the characteristics were exactly similar. In every case the letter writer has chosen a time when the intended recipient was in the news.

Mexico City, May 21 (A.P.).—Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, today refused to comment on the report that the life of his daughter Constance had been threatened unless $50,000 were paid.

The Ambassador did not seem worried and was busy preparing for his departure to the United States. He expects to leave tomorrow or Thursday.

layers of clouds, one hiding the jagged peaks below them, the other veiling the sky.

Weather reports, Lieut. Moon said, had indicated good weather along most of the route, with clouds but no rain. However, just as they reached the Delaware River south of Easton, Pa., they met an unexpected visitation of the worst the weather could do.

"It was peculiar," Lieut. Moon said, "but we hit darkness, rain and fog all at the same time. We had been expecting showers, but nothing like the heavy rain we met there.

"We flew down as close as we dared and went on through it. Luckily, it didnt last long, but we were blind for a while."

The earth inductor compass failed between Uniontown and New York and the pilots were forced to rely on their magnetic compass.

After circling around over the Delaware River, the bomber finally fought its way out of the fog and once more picked up its course. Near New York heavy fog forced it down to an altitude slightly under 1,000 feet, and it picked its way carefully until suddenly the Statue of Liberty loomed out of the mists.

This was about 8 o'clock. The big ship flew around for a few minutes broadcasting, and then turned to the southern end of Governors Island, where it "laid its eggs." Theoretically these were three great demolition bombs; actually they were magnesium flares. The effect was worth the efforts of the crowds which had turned out to see the "bombing."

All three flares were dropped in the water to avoid danger of fire. Several messages were also dropped in Central Park. One of these, however, became intangled in the trailing radio antenna and was not discovered until the bomber landed here.

Leaving New York, the great ship headed west, its destination momentarily unknown. About 9:30 o'clock Bolling Field received a message to expect it here. Preparations were made to receive it and give it service if necessary.

Meanwhile the skies had cleared and a brilliant moon lighted the field brightly. It was a perfect night for refueling in the air, had the fueling ship been on hand.

Evidently Lieut. Moon hoped it might have flown over from Dayton, for he circled the field several times before coming in to land. His first question, after the plane had been taxied to the line was an inquiry if Capt. Hoyt were on hand.

The crowds which had been attracted to the field during the afternoon in the hope that the refueling contact would be established were gone. A tiny knot of officers and enlisted men of the post watched the giant biplane swing onto the field, its two landing lights searching the ground, and come to a perfect landing. In common with other planes which have ventured on Bolling Field after rains, it stuck in the mud before roaring to a stop on the line.

Its tanks were filled with the expectation that it might be ordered to proceed to Dayton, while its crew sat down to a hasty meal of sandwiches and coffee in the operations office.

When the bomber will take off for Dayton again was not indicated in its orders last night. The only key to its probable mission after yesterday was the notification that the refueling plane and radio plane would be sent here today.

Its crew of five consisted of Lieut. Moon, pilot; Lieut. E. L. Eubank, relief pilot; Lieut. J. P. Richter, first pilot ever to refuel a plane in midair, in charge of refueling; Lieut. Charles Skow, radio officer, and Capt. Bradley Jones, navigator.

ments intended to be taken into the United States contrary to the prohibition laws of that country had created a suspicion that powerful interests were behind those who were evading the American laws. Every step should be taken to clear up such suspicions, he told the House of Commons, "by removing the present undesirable situation," which, he added, encouraged bootlegging. Mr. Euler replied that nearly 100 per cent of the ships engaged in liquor smuggling were owned and manned by United States interests.

Mr. Woodworth contended that refusal of the Dominion government to take action along the lines suggested by the United States constituted an unfriendly act toward that country. He charged that the present practice encouraged lawlessness in Canada.

HUGE AREA IN SOUTH MENACED BY FLOOD

HOOVER MAY SEND AID

Memphis, Tenn., May 21 (A.P.).—Swollen streams tonight had spread anxiety over low-lying sections of several States, but hundreds of men working at dangerous points in the levee system had succeeded in preventing any fresh breaks.

The most desperate fights were along the Mississippi River. Ten miles south of Hickman, Ky., the old Reelfoot levee was crumbling and engineers sought a way to let the water flow through it gradually and against a new dyke a quarter of a mile to the east. If this can be accomplished it was believed a crevasse could be averted in that stretch of the embankment which protects a large acreage in Lake County, Tenn.

Precautions against a crevasse were taken, however, with the sending of the steamer Kankakee, equipped with lifeboats, for use in an emergency. Five boats were standing by near Hickman.

Mounds Landing levee, north of Greenville, Miss., continued to resist the pressure of the Mississippi. A loop box was under construction there to strengthen the weakening section. J. S. Allen, chief engineer of the Board of Mississippi Levee Commissioners, said conditions were improved, although the seriousness of the situation had not been removed.

Dispatches from Washington said President Hoover would issue orders permitting convicts to work on Government projects in the flood areas if an emergency arises. An offer of Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi to send convicts to Mounds Landing could not be accepted because of regulations against use of convict labor on Federal works. Army Engineers do not believe the Mounds Landing Dyke presents an emergency situation.

NAVY PRISONER WINS FREEDOM IN COURT

Former Ensign, Dropped From Rolls, Illegally Held, Judge Rules.

GOVERNMENT TO APPEAL

Norfolk, May 21 (A.P.).—Judge D. Lawrence Groner, of the United States District Court, held today that the naval authorities had no jurisdiction in the case of former Ensign Beverly E. Wilson, of Kingsville, Tex., declaring the Navy could not legally hold Wilson, as the former ensign had been dropped from the rolls of the Navy by order of the President three months after he disappeared from the naval station at Newport, R. I., in 1927.

An appeal was noted by the Government and Wilson's bond was fixed at $2,500.

The decision of Judge Groner automatically released the former ensign from the custody of the naval authorities, as petitioned in a writ of habeas corpus brought on behalf of the young man's father, Judge B. F. Wilson, of Kingsville, Tex.

Beverly E. Wilson was graduated from the Naval Academy, Annapolis, in 1926, and shortly after married a Miss Schroeder, of Baltimore. He was assigned to duty at the Newport naval training station. While on duty there he disappeared and was dropped from from the rolls by the order of the President.

Last February a brother officer recognized in Private Nelson, of the United States Army, stationed at Panama as a member of a detachment, the former ensign. The naval authorities claimed jurisdiction and took the former ensign into custody, confining him to the reservation at the naval training station at Hampton Roads.

Former Ensign Wilson said he had lost all memory of what had occurred in the interim. It was said that he was suffering from an injury to his head suffered in an automobile accident which occurred shortly before he disappeared.

PACKARD CONQUERS front wheel "shimmy"

and its many dangers!

BALLOON tires brought greater riding ease to motor cars. Four wheel brakes introduced a new factor of safety.

But with all their advantages, these two great improvements set up a new problem for automobile engineers—front wheel "shimmy," with its attendant and dangerous steering wheel "whip."

Cars with balloon tires of low air pressure developed a peculiar fore wheel "wobble" at high speeds — even on fairly smooth roads. Braking, applied to front as well as rear wheels, frequently aggravated it. This condition was accepted by many as a more or less necessary evil—to be partially offset by "wheel-balance," guarded against by strict directions as to tire pressures.

But not by Packard. Packard developed and introduced new steering control—refined and perfected today into the unique and exclusive Packard Shock Absorbing System.

No danger—no fatigue

All Packard cars today permit the use of balloon tires, with not a trace of the dangerous, fatiguing front-wheel "wobble." No need to clench the Packard steering wheel in a vise-like grip. "Shimmy" is positively eliminated—no front wheel vibration is translated into steering wheel "whip."

So easy and safe is Packard steering that the car can be guided over the most uneven roads—and at high speeds—with only the finger tips touching the wheel.

Let us demonstrate it

May we demonstrate to you the comfort and safety of Packard steering? We will gladly put the Packard Eight of your choice into your hands for a trial drive.

Packard now builds three complete Straight-Eight lines, at three distinct ranges of price. The Standard Eight (reduced in March) is priced from $2275 to $2675—the Custom Eight from $3175 to $3850—and the Eight De Luxe from $4585 to $5985—at the factory. Individual custom cars are also available to order on the De Luxe chassis.

If you prefer to buy out of income, you will find the Packard Payment Plan most attractive. Many take possession of their new cars without any cash outlay—and with the small monthy payments made smaller because the used car allowance exceeds the down payment on the new car.

THE REPARATION AGREEMENT.

The experts dealing with German reparations have reached an agreement, the terms of which will be communicated today to Dr. Schacht. The experts accept, with some modifications, the terms he offered in behalf of the German government.

It appears that the concessions tentatively made by the United States brought about the agreement among the experts acting in the interest of the allied powers. They could not bring themselves to agree upon the annuities to be paid by Germany, nor upon the reparation of these annuities among themselves, until the United States tentatively agreed to accept a reduction of its claims by $1,190,000 a year for 37 years. Then the allied experts haggled over a difference of only $2,400,000, but apparently they managed to agree, either by actual concessions or by reservations to Germany's proposals.

America's concessions have aroused the warmest gratitude in the European breast, if gratitude is a keen appreciation of favors to come. Now that there is a prospect of reversing the American attitude, British and French opinion paints rosy pictures of "revision" of the war debts, which in plainer English means cancellation of them. The late allies are willing to be easy with Germany if the United States will transfer to the backs of its own taxpayers the debts owed by the allied powers. But it is noted that the allies were stubborn to the last degree in dealing with Germany, and refused to make mutual concessions among themselves until the United States led off.

The arrangement now proposed must be ratified by the governments, including the United States Government. Congress will pass upon the whole transaction. If it should appear that the United States is making the only actual concession, or is shunted aside while the allies first collect proportionately larger reparations, there will be bitter opposition to the proposal; but if the American concessions, although small, have evoked generous concessions from the allies for the sake of cleaning the European slate, then it is not probable that Congress would object to the readjustment. A condition, however, should be imposed, to the effect that the concession made is not to be regarded as the forerunner of a readjustment of debts. Public opinion in the United States is fixed in opposition to the cancellation of the debts owed by European governments. No valid reason has ever been offered in support of cancellation. Every moral and legal consideration calls for the repayment to the American taxpayers of the money loaned to European countries.

STRAWBERRIES ARE IN!

The weather this May may be of the capricious April variety, but who cares, in view of the fact that strawberries have come into the markets in profusion? Let the cold rain drum its way monotonously into an already saturated earth. Let the wind that bears but little promise of springtime whistle through the trees. Frail humans may be housebound by the weather, fretting for the arrival of typical May, but they partake of the fruit that bears in its fragrance and flavor eternal springtime. Strawberries are in, and they are ample recompense for delayed warmth.

Down at the Department of Agriculture sits a scientist devoting his entire attention to strawberries. George M. Darrow is his name, and he is known as a strawberry breeder. With infinite patience he crosses parent varieties of the berry, wild and cultivated, placing the pollen from the flower of one on the pistil of the flower of another. The strawberries of the United States, he explains, are all descended from two wild American strawberries, one a native of the Pacific Coast and the other a native of Eastern United States, but there are many other wild berries that have played no part in the development of the cultivated kind. In one of the untried wild ones may lurk a valuable trait that could be bred into the present strawberry to make it even more desirable. Mr. Darrow is attempting to make such improvements.

May success crown his efforts! May he discover a better berry for shortcakes, if that be possible; a better berry for the canner and a better berry for the ice cream maker. And may he develop a plant that will bear earlier in the season, so that springtime may be brought to the soul of mankind long before the last chill wind of winter departs into the northland.

AIRPORT LEGISLATION.

The joint congressional commission considering Washington's proposed airport has determined not to report a measure until it has ascertained whether or not there is a possibility of the project being considered during the present session. Senator Bingham, chairman of the commission, is of the opinion that the matter is important enough to be regarded as of an emergency nature, and he hopes that it will be found possible to consider it during the session. Conferences with leaders of the Senate and House are to be held today and the commission will meet again tomorrow to decide whether or not it is worth while bringing out a measure at the present time.

The local airport need may well be considered of an emergency nature. Last summer witnessed an astonishing development of commercial aviation, and this summer promises to witness an even greater development. Everywhere new air lines are being projected and new airways laid out, but Washington, because it possesses no satisfactory airport, is passed by. An airport of the size and kind needed by Washington can not be built quickly and it is highly important that work be started at an early date.

Leaders of the Senate and House should agree to find a place for airport legislation on the calendar. Matters of far less importance are scheduled for discussion during the present session, and in view of the fact that an unusually comprehensive investigation has been made, the airport bill could be got through in short order, without delaying action on other measures.

LORD ROSEBERY.

The death of Archibald Philip Primrose, fifth Earl of Rosebery in the peerage of the United Kingdom, removes from the political field of Great Britain the last of the upholders of the ancient Whig tradition and probably the last of the great Liberals who identified themselves heart and soul with the policies and fortunes of Gladstone. Born in 1847, as son of the then Lord Dalmeny and of Lady Catherine Stanhope and thus descended from two famous families, Rosebery was educated at Eton and Christchurch College, Oxford. Already in his college days he kept a string of race horses and, conscious of his powers and personal attractions, he vowed that he would marry a great heiress, become prime minister of Great Britain, and win the Epsom Derby. All three ambitions he achieved. In 1878 he married Hannah, daughter of Baron Meyer de Rothschild, the richest heiress of the time; he became prime minister on the retirement of Gladstone in 1894; and he won the derby three times, twice in consecutive years while he was still holding the highest office to which a British subject can aspire.

The premiership was, however, no bed of roses. The partisans of Sir William Harcourt were furious because their leader was passed over in favor of Rosebery; the Irish nationalists were alienated by the prime minister's declaration that home rule for Ireland must be postponed until sanctioned by the votes of England, "the predominant partner" in the union; and his imperial policy gave offense to the "little Englanders." About this time the first minister described himself as "plowing a lovely furrow," an expression wittily and with telling effect crystallized into the current cockney slang of the period as: "Lord Rosebery, 'e dunno where 'e are." The ministry fell on an adverse vote on a minor measure in June, 1895, and thereafter Rosebery never held public office again.

As an orator and a writer the nobleman who has just died enjoyed a deservedly high reputation. Any one who heard him at his best in the House of Lords could scarcely forget the experience. The handsome presence of the speaker, his limpidly clear language, now rising into loftiest eloquence and now issuing from his lips barbed with biting irony and cutting satire, and his unfailing sense of humor placed him easily first in an assembly that during his lifetime was never lacking in oratorical ability. Descended through his mother, herself a brilliant court beauty at the court of Queen Victoria, from the great Earl of Chatham, Rosebery was naturally attracted to that family. Hence his masterly monograph on "Pitt" in 1891 and his study of "Chatham" in 1910. He also wrote on Peel, Cromwell, Napoleon, and Lord Randolph Churchill. His writings, as well as his speeches, are remarkable for the polish of their style.

Rosebery had always an air of detachment. His attitude toward public office is well summed up in his own words:

> There are two supreme pleasures in life. One is ideal, the other is real. Ideal is when one receives seals of office from his sovereign. Real pleasure comes when he hands them back.

BETTER ENGLISH.

A few years ago the National Council of Teachers of English took an active part in the establishment of better American speech week. A reform in the ordinary method of speaking English in this country was then, as it is now, very badly needed. In scarcely any other section of the population was it, or is it, more urgently needed than among students in high schools and undergraduates of colleges and universities, two of the categories that come most directly under the notice of the teachers. To the reform project, therefore, the teachers of English in many parts of the United States gave, for a time, an apparently enthusiastic support. But the various "weeks" and "days" set aside for other special purposes, in the accomplishment of which the schools and colleges were supposed and often even urged to collaborate, led to an inevitable reaction. School routine was more and more invaded to the serious detriment of its basic object, until finally a cynic, with a sense of humor and a clear perception of the eternal fitness of things, demanded the setting up, during the scholastic year, of at least one "school week," in which the assignments of the curriculum might receive an average amount of attention. Thereupon "speech week" lost its charm and gradually fell into a condition of innocuous desuetude.

Such a denouement is sincerely to be regretted if for no other reason than this that, from the combined effects of ignorance, carelessness and neglect, the purity of English speech is in grave danger. It is in danger not only among the hoi polloi but even among the elect. Not every high school teacher, not every university professor, is as careful in the use of the national language as the standards of good taste—to put the matter on no higher plane—would seem to postulate. It is notorious that many persons, of both sexes, holding such positions are guilty of faulty pronunciation and of slipshod grammar; and as for those of them who indulge in a Doric accent, in provincialisms, and in as yet unsanctioned slang, their name is legion.

It may well be that one week in the year, specially set aside for a drive toward the correction of speech defects, is not enough. Assuredly it is not the ideal solution of a problem which is becoming ever more and more pressing. Correctness in the use of language should be the concern of every day and even of every hour. Educational leaders, imbued with zeal for the proper employment of speech and for the best interests of the youth committed to their care, may easily be able to devise a movement which will have a better basis in psychology and in method than that which has gone into the discard. If so, they ought to be up and doing without delay, for they have it in their power to render a great national service.

THE CASE FOR CUBA

By ORESTES FERRARA,
Cuban Ambassador to the United States.
In the North American Review.

Cuba's economic condition during the last three years has been disastrous, due to the fact that sugar, the one great crop of the island, has been selling at less than cost. * * * The Fordney-McCumber act places a tariff of 2.20 cents a pound on sugar, and as Cuba receives a reduction of 20 per cent, the true rate may be considered as 1.76 cents a pound. At the present time sugar placed aboard ship in Cuba sells for less than 1.80 cents a pound; hence the tariff is practically a 100 per cent ad valorem tax.

Despite this extremely high protection, sugar production within the United States has dropped from 1,200,859 tons in 1921-1922 (the year the Fordney-McCumber act was passed) to an estimated 1,094,000 tons this year. It seems a logical inference that if 100 per cent ad valorem is not enough protection to develop a domestic production that could supply the entire demand of the United States, then 200 per cent could not do it either. The only effect such a change would have would be to cause the mills and fields of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines to increase their output, under the stimulus of fabulous profits. They, and particularly the Philippines, would supply the United States with the sugar which today comes from Cuba. Nor could this latter development be prevented by limiting the importations of Philippine sugar to 500,000 tons, as has been proposed by some, since the Philippines, making a profit of 200 per cent on the 500,000 tons of duty-free sugar, could, under a new and higher tariff, create a gigantic industry strong enough to force its products over any tariff barrier no matter how high.

Such considerations as these cause Cuba to believe that her true competitors in the American market are not the Continental producers, whom she regards with sympathy in this hour of shared economic distress, but those countries which are at present appended to the United States in one way or another, the widely scattered insular possessions, less identified economically with the United States than Cuba because, for one reason, of their less favorable geographic situation; countries of small consumptive capacity and of standards of living not superior, certainly, to those of Cuba.

From this competition, difficult to justify on a rational basis, arise many strange phenomena. Cuban sugars imported into the United States in 1927 paid $128,484,000 in duties. If the importations from the other islands, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines, had paid the same rates, the additional amounts accruing to the United States Treasury that year for the 1,689,000 tons brought from these countries would have been $59,452,800. In other words, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines, because of their political relationship to the United States, receive from the people of this country a subsidy on this score alone amounting to almost $60,000,000 annually.

Another abnormality resulting from this competition is the unnecessary long ocean haul it entails, which serves no useful purpose and adds to the cost of the producer. While Cuba, under compulsion, decreases her shipments of sugar to the neighboring market of the United States and increases her sales to Asia, the Philippines, whose natural market is Asia, ship sugar to the Atlantic ports of the United States.

Still another effect of this unnatural competition is the loss it has caused American industry and agriculture. Whenever in the past Cuba has been prosperous, she has been a good customer for American goods. In 1920, a year of unusual prosperity, Cuba's purchases in the United States amounted to $404,386,000. Since that year they have decreased, with the waning of Cuba's after-war prosperity, but they still amount to about $128,000,000 annually. In this respect, the records of Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines are not to be compared with that of Cuba. Their combined average annual importations from the United States during the past ten years have been less than those of Cuba alone.

Cuba is struggling under a load that is too great for her to bear. She has but one hope: it is that once again the Government of the United States, whose kindly disposition toward her has been tested and proved so often in the past, will continue the just and far-sighted policy of McKinley, Roosevelt and Root, so that Cuba may be in fact what her clientele and her geographic situation 90 miles from the American coast intended her to be in nature, the main source of sugar supply for the people of the United States.

THE FRONTIER OF PROGRESS.

By dangerous research and experiment, the horizons of knowledge grow ever wider, yet there always remains the frontier where enterprise is in hazardous contact with the unknown, observes the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Along this frontier accident takes tragic toll, the persistent price of progress. Here hopeful speculation must stand the test of trial, and the odds are closely balanced between victory and failure. Failure, indeed, with all its sad consequences, proves often the last clue to success, so that the world's good sense applauds the venturesome pioneer whether he wins or loses in his daring quest for a safe foothold on new knowledge. The ultimate victory is a monument to the fallen no less than to those who have triumphed.

Even in a world at peace, dangerous lines of battle are always drawn. On the frontier are men of science, extending the territory of human knowledge against the hazards of the unknown. Often we are shocked by some outpost tragedy, which seems to say that men have gone too far in daring exploration and investigation. Yet by virtue of such sacrifices and the spirit that urges them, the world at large knows a broader and safer life behind the lines of progress.

There Were No Patriots When All Men Belonged to One Tribe.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE greatest enemy of peace is patriotism.

Patriotism is a survival of the narrow provincialism that was universal when cities had walls and every stranger was an enemy.

Patriotism is sectionalism gone mad.

These United States function as one country, yet their people are not one in spirit. East, West and South feel superior to one another and resent one another.

Neighboring States have their jealousies, also; and rival cities in competition for trade or other advantages feel an enmity that is bitter and unreasonable.

When towns, counties and States dislike and envy one another, they may use commercial weapons to wage expensive war, or they may be content to boast of their own advantages and sneer at the claims of a rival; but they do not take up arms or endeavor to destroy one another's property by force, for the superior power of the Federal Government would not tolerate strife between them.

They do not fight because they dare not—or perhaps because they are too civilized—but the feeling that animates them is in all particulars identical with the "patriotism" that prompts nations to make war.

If it is noble to be ignorant of the world outside your immediate neighborhood—to think your small section and your acquaintances the salt of the earth—to envy the good fortune of other people and other sections—to love the thing to which you are accustomed and hate the thing of which you are ignorant—then patriotism is noble, for that narrowness is patriotism.

If nations inspired by this patriotism should fight, then counties and cities stirred by the same feeling should fight in the same way. The size of the district one loves should not lessen the obligations of patriotism.

Leaders with axes to grind have encouraged and glorified patriotism throughout the whole of history, for they had need of cannon fodder and men fight best when told they are fighting in a noble cause.

The truth is, there could be no patriotism without ignorant provincialism.

If cities that are rivals can live in peace, and sections of America that scorn and deride one another can remain partners in government, then all nations, despite their differences, can belong to one federation and settle their family quarrels without guns.

Since hatred between units of a nation isn't patriotic, and the very existence of patriotism depends upon the existence of an outsider, the obvious solution is to make all nations units of one government and leave none outside to hate.

Family pride can pick no quarrels if all are one family.

SOUTH AMERICAN INDIANS.

A few words about the South American Indians off the beaten track at the sources of the Amazon, says The London Graphic. There are various races, and their ethnology has not yet been sufficiently studied to enable us to say whether they descend from a common stock or whether they are closely affiliated to the Red Indians of the northern hemisphere. They differ from these widely in appearance, in color, and in speech, though, as if to disconcert the anthropologist, there are many words common to these Matto Grosso natives and the North American Cherokees or the Sioux, and also, on the other side, to the Peruvian Incas.

The theory most generally accepted is that there are three main races: The Tupis from the southwest; the Cariboos from the north, who are much fairer than the others and in whom white blood is suspected, and the Tapayas, about whose origin all is conjecture.

Lately there has been strong evidence that there was communication at one time between these Indians and the ancient Egyptians. The types that one meets with in the Matto Grosso district have close points of resemblance with the old Egyptian stock such as we find depicted in the hieroglyphics. The men are short, not more than four or five inches above five feet, their features suggest a mixture of the Egyptian and the Mongolian, as exemplified in the high cheek bones and the eyes, and their complexion is copper colored. They are broad shouldered, muscular; and as they stand, almost naked with their rounded muscles showing beneath the shining skin, they look like bronze statues. The women are still smaller, but astonishingly handsome, and the men are very jealous of their good name.

VALUE OF GAME.

Wild game and birds have a money value, which may be estimated roughly for any particular State, says the Boston Globe. In New Hampshire, for example, game and birds return to the State every year a value at least of $6,500,000, W. C. Henderson, associate chief of the biological survey in the United States Department of Agriculture, told the convention of the New Hampshire division of the Izaak Walton League of America, a few days ago.

For New Hampshire the annual economic return of game and birds is arrived at by adding the following items: Valuation of flesh, fur and feathers, $400,000; for insect destroying services of birds, $1,500,000; for recreational values, in connection with the general tourist business, $3,000,000, and for returns due to game alone, $100,000 from license fees, and $1,500,000 for general expenditures by hunters.

Valuation of birds as insect destroyers is based on general surveys in the Eastern States, according to Mr. Henderson. In this section the breeding bird population is estimated to average about one pair to the acre, with fully as many migratory birds spending a shorter time in each locality. Taking the nominal value of 10 cents a bird for its services in killing insects, the total amounts to $1,500,000, which is conservative, because many birds are worth much more than 10 cents for such services.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Striking Parallelism in the Lives of Florence Nightingale and Clara Barton—Mrs. Gilbert's Poetic Tribute.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your issue of May 15, there appeared an editorial entitled "Florence Nightingale," in which this suggestion is made: "The date (of her birth) should be marked with appropriate ceremony, each year by every civilized nation. The whole world is a debtor to this heroic and saint-like woman." In which I most heartily concur, but there is another heroic woman, belonging to the whole world and yet peculiarly our own, for whom I would urge the same claim: Clara Barton, Civil War nurse and organizer of the American Red Cross.

When the poet Keats, who passed as they were coming, wrote the following prophetic lines:

> "Great spirits now on earth are sojourning
> . . . . . .
> And other spirits there are standing apart
> Upon the forehead of the age to come;
> These, these will give the world another heart
> And other pulses. Hear ye not the hum
> Of mighty workings in the human heart?
> Listen a while ye nations, and be dumb" . . . .

it is as if he beheld the vision of these girl babes "waiting on the forehead of the age to come."

There is a striking parallelism in the careers of these two English speaking women, born an ocean apart.

Born within sixteen months, they died within eight months of each other, each in her ninetieth year. Each devoted the richest years of her womanhood to the alleviation of the sufferings of the defenders of her country. Only ore the proud title bestowed by government, "The Lady in Chief;" the other was designated by her government by the poignant title, "General Correspondent of the Friends of Paroled Prisoners," and later, "President of the American Red Cross."

As "The Lady of the Lamp," Florence Nightingale appealed to the imagination of the civilized world. As "The Angel of the Battlefield," Clara Barton foreshadowed that greater title, "The Greatest Mother in the World."

The poet, Longfellow, paid an unfading tribute to the English heroine. In "The Angel of the Battlefield" I have sought to epitomize the career of her American contemporary, for a prophet must not be without honor in her own country!

World Trade Conditions Ignored by Tariff Makers—How Long Can Exports Keep Up?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the enigmas which goes unexplained in Congress is how a representative can present material which in itself argues against wholesale tariff increases and at the same time support an extra high tariff. Representative Treadway finds that the bill before the House would increase approximately 1,000 rates, and he favors it, and yet he says:

"It would not be common sense for this country to prevent importations from other countries to an extent which would eventually result in a lessened demand abroad for our exports." He proceeds to quote figures to show the widened breach between the value of exports and imports. During the past six years the balance of trade in favor of the United States has been $4,135,802,000. This country has exported goods valued at $28,471,169,000 and imported goods valued at $24,335,367,000. How long can exports so greatly exceed imports before the foreign markets will disappear?

Many factors besides the tariff enter into foreign commerce. Trade continues in spite of high duties in many cases, but if duties are increased so as to shut out foreigners from American markets there must be an ultimate reduction of international trade. This fact makes little appeal to the individual manufacturer or to the individual congressman who is working for the special interest of his State. But it is a fact that can not be ignored by those who have the future welfare of the Nation at heart. Conditions of world trade justify only those changes in the present tariff schedule which are necessary to equalize competitive conditions.

OLD REPUBLICAN.

The Netherlands Has Two Capitals, The Hague and Amsterdam.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I state a seeming anomaly and ask for an explanation of it?

Schoolbooks, encyclopedias, geographies and maps give The Hague as the capital of Holland. The Netherlands Consulate in New York says that Amsterdam is the capital. A Hollander tells me he has been taught that Amsterdam is the capital, that the queen is compelled by law to spend a certain number of days each year in that city; that the sovereign's baptism, marriage, coronation must be performed there. On the other hand, the seat of the government and the foreign diplomats are all located at The Hague.

Is there, perhaps, something in the constitution of The Netherlands making both cities capitals, or, if not, what is the real capital, or what is the status of each city?

A. K.

New York, May 11.

The Netherlands Legation advises The Post that The Hague is the seat of the government and the court, and that Amsterdam is the legislative capital of the Netherlands.

Washington Public Buildings Should Have a Bath.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Washington is generally conceded to be a city of beautiful white buildings, but, sad to say, it seems that many of your public buildings are very much in need of an honest-to-goodness cleaning. Notable examples are the Union Station and the Treasury. It is a shame to have such beautiful architecture marred.

Pope Pius to Leave Vatican on May 30

Brief Excursion to Be First Made by a Pontiff Since 1870.

Rome, May 21 (A.P.).—The long and eagerly awaited announcement of the first departure of Pope Pius XI from the Vatican was made today. The excursion, simple and brief in itself, has great significance as being the first such liberty taken by a Pontiff since the loss of temporal power in 1870.

The Pope selected the Corpus Christi procession to St. Peter's square on May 30 for the event. It was his desire to make his first exit from the Vatican bearing the blessed sacrament and blessing the populace with the host and in order that he may be closer to the people, he will make the procession on foot.

After a mass at St. Peter's, the procession will go out through the central door of the basilica, turn to the right, or Charlemagne, portico and enter the colonnade near the Cavalleggeri gate. It then will cross the square to resume its march in the colonnade on the other side, beginning near the Porta Angelica and terminating before the steps of St. Peter's.

An altar will be erected there from which his holiness will bless the crowd.

The Return Of OLD KING BRADY

Revised by MERLE W. HERSEY

TRACKING A "TRICKSTER" TO TENNESSEE.
CHAPTER IV.
Captured by the Moonshiners.

In the third chapter the Bradys leave Knoxville for the Cumberland Mountains. Boston Ben and his wife are on the same train. There is a wreck. Harry saves Mrs. Bohrman. She warns him against following Boston Ben on the moonshiners' trail. Boston Ben puts up a proposition to Old King Brady.

OLD KING BRADY never learned why Senator Dingwell was concerned in the whisky deal, but the fact remained that he was the one who procured the pardon of Boston Ben from the Georgia State convict camp. As Old King Brady listened to the story Boston Ben told him, they had entered a dark defile which led up the mountainside, and suddenly both were startled by a loud scream from Mrs. Ben, who had gone on ahead.

"Heavens! What has happened to my wife?" cried the crook, and, digging his heels into his horse's flanks, he dashed ahead. His concern was evidently genuine and Old King Brady followed with all possible speed.

Around the turn the old detective saw what the trouble was—it was a case of hold-up. Ten Tennessee mountaineers were drawn up across the trail. Three were on mounted horses, the others were astride mules. All were armed with long, single-barreled rifles. As Old King Brady rode ahead he studied the faces of the men and was struck with the strong resemblance which one of them bore to Mr. Benjamin Bloomer. Boston Ben was beside himself with rage.

"What in thunder is all this?" he stormed. "Since when, Pete Pood, have you forgotten Leila? Put that gun down, man, or——"

"Hold on, Yank!" broke in the man addressed. "When Leila married you she forfeited all rights in these yere mountains."

"You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, boys!" screamed Mrs. Ben, dropping her Boston accent and speaking pure Tennessee.

"My father was one of you, and I reckon my brothers are, too. Such fools! Look er-yere, hain't we bringing in another prize?" She waved her hand toward Old King Brady, who sat motionless in his saddle.

"Hit hain't no use, Leila," rejoined Pete Pood, "our mind is made up. You and your men have got to go prisoners to our camp. If you are wise you'll take things easy, or hit may be the wuss for you, too."

Boston Ben's face was white as death. Words came to him after a minute and he addressed the leader, "Pete Pood, you and your men are making the mistake of a lifetime. Will you do me the favor to let me talk with you alone?"

"No, I won't," growled Pete, whom Old King Brady felt certain was the author of the letter found in Bloomer's Boston office.

Without further parley they were searched and a revolver taken from each. The small revolvers which the Bradys carried in their secret pockets were not found. They were then lifted upon their horses and securely tied to their saddles. Then they started up on the mountain.

After half an hour they came out upon a narrow table of land, which extended back to a second rise of several thousand feet and stretched north and south for a long distance. A short, dark path through the pines, which covered this tableland brought them to a point where the dried-up bed of a stream crossed their path.

The End of the Climb.

"Halt!" shouted Pete Pood, as they reached this spot. "Blindfold all but Leila, and do it quick!" The Bradys had to submit to this, and for over an hour their horses climbed a rough trail. Then, suddenly, came a challenge, and a password given. Then on again for ten minutes. The next thing they were cutting Old King Brady loose, and had removed the cloth from his eyes. The detective noted they were in a deep, dark glen, not over fifty feet wide. In the center was a group of rude log huts. Slatternly looking women and many half-naked children were playing around, paying little attention to what was going on.

Harry and Leila were just vanishing around a turn of the glen followed by some of the riders. Boston Ben stood near Old King Brady. Pete now stepped forward and addressed the detective.

"What is your name?" he demanded.

"J. C. Spalding," replied the detective. He was sure now that he was in a moonshiners' camp.

"Old man," said Pete, "if you want to get on the right side of me, answer my questions without any palaver. How came you with that man?"

"By the merest chance, replied Old King Brady, and he went on to tell of meeting Boston Ben on the train, and the wreck following.

"So that's hit," drawled Pete, when he had finished, "let me tell you something, old man, that 'ar feller is the slickest trickster in Tennessee. He filled you up with a yarn about hidden whisky, didn't he?"

"Well, he did tell me such a story——"

"Hit wor a lie," said Pete, "his idee was to bring you hyar and bleed you. He thought he was still one of us, but he hain't dealt the cards fair with us, and his day is done. You ma, get out of this with your life—or you may not. Have you got any money with you now?"

"I have a trifle," replied the detective. "Do you want it?"

"Sure, and we want them fine clothes of yourn, tew, for them's worth money next time any of us gets to teown."

"Heavens, man! leave me my clothes. I'm an older man than you are. Show some respect."

"Waal, all right, if your roll is any size, yew may keep your clothes."

Old King Brady turned over $200. It was not all he had—but enough to satisfy them for the present.

"Now, then," said Pete, pointing to the first hut in the row, "that's whar you and Ben are to stop till the captain comes. You can walk about hyar, but ef you strike the guard at either end you will be shot dead. And don't speak to any of the women unless they speak first, as you value your life." Having said this, Pete Pood mounted his horse and rode off down the glen, followed by most of his men.

Old King Brady sat down on a bench outside his hut. No one paid any attention to him. At last Boston Ben came to the bench and sat down.

"I suppose you think this is a put up job, and that my being held a prisoner is all part of the program?"

"I might—if I did not know you are the notorious Boston Ben."

The trickster turned a puzzled face upon Old King Brady. "I'm not going to deny it. But it is beyond me to imagine how you know. I suppose you are in disguise, but I don't know you."

Old King Brady had sensed the danger to Ben as well as himself, so he decided to reveal his identity. "I am in disguise"—here he quickly removed his derby, pressed it flat and deftly concealing it, he produced the old white felt from a secret pocket, shook it out and clapped it on his head. "Do you know me now?"

"And why?"

"Because you will escape—you always do. Save me from these fiends, and my wife also. My life is sweet to me as yours is to you; I want something more, and you shall help me get it—and that is—revenge!"

The Escape.

Young King Brady had been taken on to a second group of huts, about a mile further down the glen. Here lay a number of whisky barrels in front of the entrance to a cave, and made it plain to Harry that here was the location of the moonshiners' secret still. Instead of being freed Harry was lifted down from his horse and placed on a dirty bed in a log hut, where his feet were also tied. He was left alone for many hours. The sun went down and no one came near. At last he slept for a few minutes. He was roused by a slight noise at the window. Some one climbed in, landed on the bed and stepped off on the floor.

Harry knew that it was a women he had to deal with. She dropped to her knees and began to run her hands over his body. He felt a knife, and started to turn over when she murmured: "I won't harm you. I have come to set you free!" Oh! what a relief! At last she cut the bonds. He knew now it was Mrs. Ben.

"You are risking your own life to save me?" he whispered.

"I am, indeed, but we must be quiet. You climb out of the window and crouch down. I shall have to step on your back in getting out." Harry followed the program without any waste of time.

"I am ready!" he whispered. "I will do whatever you say."

"What I am doing now is for my husband—they have determined to kill him, and I will save him if I have to kill Pete Pood with my own hands." She spoke so fiercely that Harry was positively afraid of her. "Do you see those rocks up there? We have to climb them," she continued.

At last they reached the level and stood among the pines, looking down upon the camp.

"Rest now," said Mrs. Ben. "All now depends upon the boy. If he is caught he would be killed. He would go with us if he dared."

"Who is he?"

"My cousin. Are you armed?"

"My revolver was taken from me," said Harry, not daring to reveal that he had another concealed.

"I had better keep mine—I'm probably a better shot than you, but you shall have my knife." She handed him a knife a foot long, then said, "Let me tell you something, Mr. Spalding. If we win, you take your father and get away as quick as you can. Don't trust my husband. He is a bold, bad man, but I love him just the same, and—but here are the horses now!"

In a moment a tousle-headed boy appeared, leading two poor, half-starved horses. "I thought I'd never get the chance to sneak them out of camp, Lile," he whispered. "Say, I'll go with you if you say the word."

"Let the boy go with us," said Harry. "We can ride double. And if he needs some money I'll let him have $25."

Mrs. Ben agreed finally and mounted her horse.

Toady climbed up on the other horse and Harry swung up behind him. They led the way, with Mrs. Ben following.

JONES LAW DECRIED BY WORKERS' CHIEFS

I. C. Hamilton Is Named for State Federation of Labor Presidency.

GOV. RITCHIE IS ASSAILED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 21.—Irvin C. Hamilton, this city, member of the glassblowers' union and member of the Maryland House of Delegates, will again head the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor for another year, having been placed in nomination for president yesterday without opposition. The election takes place tomorrow.

Others placed in nomination are: First vice president, Newton A. James, Washington; second vice president, William A. Allamong, Cumberland; third vice president, R. A. Pickson, Washington, D. C.; fourth vice president, John D. Mines, Baltimore, and Jochn Locher, Washington; fifth vice president, C. E. Young, Baltimore; sixth vice president, W. J. Jones and C. Piviol, both of Baltimore; seventh vice president, John Giest, Hagerstown; secretary, Frank J. Coleman, Washington; treasurer, J. E. Toone, Washington. Both Baltimore and Salisbury are seeking next year's convention.

Henry Broening, Baltimore, former State president, and C. J. McCay, Cumberland, head of the Baltimore & Ohio shopcrafts, assailed Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, E. Brook Lee, speaker of the House, and James J. Lindsay, Democratic floor leader, for their alleged part in having killed the bill to increase workmen's compensation. The word was passed for its defeat and a paid lobby helped to do it, it was charged. Secretary Coleman said he knew money was paid to defeat the bill.

Wheeler Resolution Indorsed.

A resolution was adopted indorsing the Wheeler resolution in the Senate calling for the appointment of a committee to investigate conditions in the textile mills in the South. The alleged use of militia to defeat the workers was also condemned. It was ordered that telegrams be sent to Senators Millard F. Tydings and Phillips Lee Goldsborough, of Maryland, calling on them to support the Wheeler resolution.

A resolution was passed condemning the action of the Great Atlantic Tea Co., in discharging employes of the store who affiliated themselves with the Washington Retail Clerks' Union.

The candidacy of Saul Praeger, attorney, of Cumberland, for the Democratic nomination of attornew general, was indorsed.

Delegate C. J. McKay, of Cumberland, speaking in behalf of Mr. Praeger, criticised the reported candidacy of David A. Robb, of Cumberland, for the Republican nomination for governor, and also criticised Representative Frederick N. Zihlman for his alleged unfriendly attitude in the Congress of 1922 toward certain labor legislation.

Jones Law is Denounced.

A resolution, offered by Cornelius S. Ryan, president of the Web Pressmen's Local Union, Washington, D. C., denouncing "the fanatical Jones law" and the Volstead act generally was adopted. The Jones law was characterized as "an assault on free government that defeats temperance and moderation in the use of alcohol."

Collective bargaining and cooperation between employers and wage-earners, the five-day work week and better wages were advocated by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor in an address at a public meeting at the State Armory.

President Green stressed the importance of joint conferences on wage questions between employer and employe with the idea of stabilizing industry, improving the conditoion of the worker and his family, increasing the prosperity of all the people and eliminating unemployment.

Ferdinand's Widow Dies in Lisbon at 93

Morganatic Wife of King Has Lived in Seclusion Since His Death.

Lisbon, May 21 (A.P.).—The last echo of Portugal's royal idyll sounded this morning in the death of Eliza Hensler, 93 years old, morganatic wife of the late Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg, king consort of Portugal.

Eliza Hensler was a beautiful young American opera singer of German origin who in 1860 sang at the Lisbon Opera House. Ferdinand, then a widower and regent of Portugal, fell deeply in love with her. He conferred upon the opera singer a title of Countess Edela and married her despite the opposition of the court and people of Portugal.

They lived happily together for a quarter of a century until Ferdinand's death in 1885. From that time on Eliza Hensler, Countess Edela, lived in nun-like seclusion at her private palace in Lisbon.

Blast of Dynamite Kills 3, Injures 3

Sioux Falls, S. Dak., May 21 (A.P.).—A dynamite explosion killed three men and seriously injured three others today. They were working in a Wisconsin Granite Co. quarry.

The dead are Louis De Bella, Jack Johnston and Albert Abraham.

Superintendent H. J. Gallagher, Louis Borges and Chester Rudd were taken to a hospital. Borges and Rudd were believed to have been blinded.

The explosion was caused by a "dud" charge of dynmamite left in the hole some time ago, it was reported.

Frank Hennegan, the only witness who was unhurt, said fresh dynamite had not been put into the hole which the men were working and that a supply of caps nearby on the quarry cliff had not been exploded. The hole had not been worked for some time and Hennegan believed that an old charge of dynamite had been exploded accidentally.

MERGER APPROVED BY PRESBYTERIANS

Montreat Assembly Finally Votes Union With North America Branch.

MATTER TO PRESBYTERIES

Montreat, N. C., May 21 (A.P.).—Union with the United Presbyterian Church in North America was approved today by the sixty-ninth general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, and the matter now goes to the presbyteries for their consent.

Adoption of the plan of merger presented by the ad interim committee on closer relations was by a decisive "yes" and "no" vote. A substitute motion by Dr. W. M. McPheeters, of Atlanta, that the matter be returned to the committee for addition of all possibl einformation in regard to the proposed union was defeated by a standing vote of 175 to 83.

Debate was led by Dr. McPheeters, who vigorously opposed the proposal. He was supported by W. L. Frierson, of Chattanooga, an elder; the Rev. S. B. Lapsley, of Craigsville, Va., and the Rev. C. Morton Hanna, of Raphene, Va.

Dr. S. L. Morris, chairman of the ad interim committee, defended his report and answered Dr. McPheeter's attack on the merger plans. The Rev. William Hauck, of Atlanta, and the Rev. S. J. Patterson, of Merrillton, Ala., also supported the report from the platform.

Business Is Pushed.

The assembly was pushing through its business today in an effort to adjourn by noon tomorrow.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the International Christian Endeavor, editor of the Christian Herald and pastor of Marble Collegiate Church, New York, addressed the assembly at its afternoon session.

Just before the debate on unification started, the assembly voted to approve a section of the report of the standing committee on religious education indorsing the continuance of the Christian Endeavor as one form of recognized young people's work.

Wide interest throughout the South has centered on the question, and several overtures have been made toward discontinuing the Christian Endeavor, with a definite denominational young people's program substituted.

Dr. McPheeters, addressing the assembly in opposition to the union, charged that the report of the committee on union did not provide "sufficient reason." It did not give enough light on the matter, he said.

Status Quo Praised.

Explaining to the assembly that he wished to "tell it a few things I always told my students," Dr. McPheeters, a member of the faculty of Columbia Theological Seminary, of Atlanta, advised "stand where you are until you see some better place to go."

"Don't mistake mere motion for progress," he said. "Progress is wisely directed motion toward a real objective. Be static if necessary, remembering that our logic tells us the status quo has the presumption in its favor, until that is a reason to change our status."

He charged the assembly that it would be a disgrace for any question to be considered, with vote of acceptance or rejection except on evidence of facts, and that it was a duty of the body to accept the evidence.

"This is a solemn hour before our church," he said. "I've been given no solid reason for this union. I do not feel that because union is in the air, as Dr. Morris so ably stated to us, that external organic union should follow as a necessity to spiritual unity."

Early Days of Stock Mart Told by One of Founders

Capital Bourse Began Operation in 1881 With Membership Fee of $25; Seat Now Costs Sum Ranging Into Four Figures.

The story of the Washington Stock Exchange was told members of the Columbia Historical Society at the Cosmos Club last night by Albion K. Parris. He and Charles C. Glover, sr., are the only living original members of the exchange.

Mr. Parris, founder of the firm of Crane, Parris & Co., investment bankers, who has the added distinction of having the only continuous membership on the exchange since its organization, related that while general attempts were made to establish a board of brokers in Washington prior to 1881, none survived for a period longer than a few months, chiefly because they had not substantial support of banking interests and because of the small number of securities at that time.

On October 24, 1881, however, five brokers met at 1429 F street and formulated a call for organization of the present Stock Exchange. They were D. Wesley Middleton, Henry D. Cooke, Arthur E. Bateman, John W. Corson and Holmes E. Offley. At the organization meeting October 26, in addition to the foregoing, there were present: George P. White, Charles L. Bradley, Charles P. Williams, Frank C. Middleton, Samuel E. Middleton, William N. Barnard, J. W. Ker, Charles C. Glover, J. Cooke, jr., Lester Bartlett, J. Stanley Brown and Brainerd H. Warner. On November 2, membership was increased by election of Mr. Parris and Frank E. Middleton.

First Call in 1881.

Early meetings of the exchange were held in the building occupied by W. D. Cooke & Co., near F and Fifteenth streets, and here the first call was made November 6, 1881.

Membership was limited to 20, started with 19, and on March 7, 1887, was increased to the present figure, 40. The membership fee was originally $25, but the demand for seats caused an advance during 1881-86 to $50. In 1903, seats had advanced to $2,550, and to $5,000 in 1903-04, three seats selling at $10,000 each during 1905 and 1906. From 1907-13, seat prices receded to $7,450 and $4,000, and owing to quiet business in 1914-24 declined to $400. Prices came back to the four figures later, however.

As far back as 1900, the exchange contemplated a building of its own, an attempt also being made during this year to increase membership list to 50 at $1,000. Both moves failed. The exchange, after having had various locations, moved into its present one at 726 Fifteenth street northwest in 1917. The volume of business transacted last year amounted to $1,986,041 in bonds and 88,745 shares of stock.

Foreign Bourses Cited.

The speaker also dealt with the stock exchange from an internationally historical standpoint, saying the oldest in existence is the Paris Bourse, founded in 1726, which was followed by the London Exchange 47 years later.

Unorganized buying and selling, however, was a common practice in several great cities of the world prior to the formal existence of stock exchanges, he explained, history recording the "Change de Paris" in the fourteenth century and a flourishing business in stocks a hundred years before the London Exchange.

In the United States, Philadelphia cites the organization of its bourse in 1790, and while the old bourse is still in independent operation, the Philadelphia Stock Exchange is not its successor. The New York Stock Exchange formulated its constitution and secured permanent quarters in 1817, but as far back as 1792 some 24 brokers used to meet and transact business in haphazard fashion.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 21 (A.P.).—Widening of the congressional breach over the export debenture plan, together with flattening out of demand from buyers, put wheat values on the downgrade today. The drop in prices carried July wheat to below any quotation which that delivery had heretofore touched this season.

At the finish, wheat was unsettled, ¾ to 1⅞@1½c net lower; corn, 1¼ to 1⅜c down; oats, ½ to ¾c off, and provisions exactly unchanged.

Word from Washington that for the second time within 48 hours representatives of the Senate and House had disagreed concerning the export debenture method of farm relief, and that the split today had intensified, became public here at a time when the wheat market was about bare of any orders to buy. Upturns which prices earlier had scored were quickly more than wiped out, and for a while during the final hour the market showed a maximum setback of nearly 3c a bushel, compared with the day's top figures. At the last, however, something of a rally was in progress.

Persistent feebleness of export call for wheat from North America operated as a noticeable bearish factor, especially in view of a prospective burdensome carry-over of supplies at the end of the season, July 1, and because of apparent likelihood of increased accumulations soon from the harvest of the new domestic winter crop. Throughout a good part of the day, however, offerings of September and December deliveries of wheat were readily absorbed by commission houses, December in particular. In some quarters this temporary enlargement of buying was linked with assertions that prevailing prices of United States wheat certainly do not represent anything for the farmer's labor and that a situation of this kind can not continue.

Better weather for corn planting and in particular no rain overnight in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri or Iowa led to active selling in the corn market today and to a consequent downward swing of prices right from the start. Oats eased owing to sympathy with corn.

Provisions were somewhat firmer early, but reacted later, influenced by declines both in grain and in the value of hogs.

Because he is leaving the city, George C. Mitchell, delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations and former president of the Kalorama Citizens Association, resigned as delegate at last night's meeting of the organization, held in St. Margaret's Church Hall, on Connecticut avenue. His successor will be named later by the executive committee.

A resolution was adopted commending the campaign to have pedestrians observe the traffic law as well as motorists, but, at the same time, urging the pedestrians, when within the law, be given their full rights. Particular emphasis was placed on conditions at Dupont circle, where members charged pedestrians crossing with the proper lights were endangered by motorists who disregarded the signals.

CLOSE ORGANIZATION URGED BY DE PRIEST

OPENS MEMBER DRIVE

Before an audience of more than 2,000 persons Oscar De Priest, representative from the First District of Illinois, last night at the Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church, Fifteenth and M streets northwest, spoke on the value of close organization of local and national branches of the Association for Advancement of Colored People. The occasion marked the beginning of a membership drive of the association for the current year.

Edward H. Morris, grand master of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, introduced the speaker. Others on the platform were Judge James A. Cobb, Neval H. Thomas, Garnet C. Wilkinson, Archibald S. Pinkett, Morris Lewis, Julia West Hamilton, Dr. Walter H. Brooks and the Rev. W. H. Thomas.

Representative De Priest outlined a program of education in which he has engaged since coming to Congress, including free distribution of 10,000 copies of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution to colored teachers, preachers, social and political workers.

Help Must Come From Within.

He stated that he was not opposed to educational qualifications for voters in any part of the country, but that he believed, with a fuller understanding of their constitutional rights, the negroes of America would be able to effect an organization which could bring to pass a Federal elections law for supervision of tests to which voters were put in their respective voting districts.

He warned the negro not to expect this to be done in his behalf by any one else except himself, through close organization.

"The time has come," he said, "for the negro to carry all of his own burdens, political or otherwise. He who will not fight for citizenship rights has no business with those rights. Every city with a respectable negro population, and every hamlet, should be organized, block by block, and card indexed for such organization as would make the present National Association for Advancement of Colored People seem but a spasmodic body. Millions of dollars are needed for accomplishment of the political and civic purposes of the negro in America."

Needs Aid in Congress.

With reference to his position as the only negro representative in more than a quarter century, DePriest expressed the hope that he would be "given company" at the next election, to assist especially in enforcement of section 2 of the Federal Constitution either by reduction of representation of certain States or by passage of a Federal elections law. This law, he said, will be passed when the proper agency can certify to a majority of members of Congress negro voters organized to demand such legislation.

"The National Association for Advancement of Colored People," he said, "should find and see qualified negro voters wherever possible in every congressional district, and then use its power on hundreds of representatives whom it would by these means be able to hold where they belong."

Reserve Corps Posts Accepted.

Robert B. Curtiss, 1440 Belmont street northwest, has accepted an appointment as second lieutenant in the cavalry branch of the Reserve Corps, and Walter Pinkus, 826 Marietta place northwest, has accepted similar appointment with the engineers.

NATION IS CARELESS, FREIGHT MEN HEAR

RAILROADS' SAVING CITED

The United States is the most careless nation on earth, R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, told members of the freight claim division of that association yesterday, when they met in thirty-eighth annual convention at the Willard Hotel.

"Losses, resulting from carelessness, amount to millions of dollars annually," said Mr. Aishton. "This constitutes a serious drain on the financial resources of the industries of this country. But this amount is nothing compared with the enormous loss in human life that takes place each year, attributable to carelessness on the part of somebody. Carelessness is one of the worst scourges that faces this country, for the reason that it not only causes a tremendous monetary loss, which easily could be averted, but it also frequently brings suffering to the innocent."

Aishton declared that engineers have estimated the waste in industry at $10,000,000,000 a year, a substantial part of which may be attributed to carelessness. The country at large and railroads in particular are alive to the effects of carelessness and are doing all in their power to prevent additional losses.

Through organized efforts railroads have reduced from $119,833,127 in 1920 to $37,146,813 in 1928, or 69 per cent, the amount of freight claims paid growing out of losses or damage to shipments, Aishton asserted.

Additional figures on the reduction of the amounts paid on freight claims were presented to the members in convention by J. D. Shields, of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. The reduction in the last year was $2,155,816, 5.6 per cent under 1927, he reported. Shields lauded the prevention program being followed by all agencies engaged in freight handling and pointed out that this reduction in claims paid was made in the face of almost double the volume of traffic handled.

Reports Are Received.

H. T. Lively, general claim agent of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, of Louisville, Ky., presided at yesterday's session. Reports from various claim conferences were made by the following delegates: C. L. Jellinghaus, eastern; J. W. King, Virginia; D. H. Crenshaw, southeastern; P. C. Archer, Chicago; H. D. York, central; J. L. Townsend, Canadian; R. L. Truitt, southwestern; H. R. Grochau, northwestern; and R. A. Podlech, Pacific coast.

Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont will address the convention this morning at 10 o'clock, followed by J. H. Butler, general manager of the Department of public relations of the Railway Express Agency, Inc. Officers and members of the general committee will be elected in the afternoon.

Families of the delegates will make a trip to Arlington National Cemetery this afternoon. The delegates will be received at the White House at noon.

Fire Rescue Squad No. 2 was summoned and worked over her for 30 minutes without reviving her. The grandchild found a gas jet on the kitchen stove open beneath a dishpan filled with clothes, which had been set to boil.

Business Women Hear Baxter College Head

Dr. Harry Upperman, president of Baxter College, Baxter, Tenn., was the principal speaker last night at the annual dinner of the Business Women's Council, held at the Epiphany Church, 1317 G street northwest. He spoke on education and needs in the South.

Other speakers were Miss Ethel Bagley, president of the council; Dr. William A. Eisenberger, and Mrs. Anna Gotta. The Rev. Fred Coombs Reynolds, pastor of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, gave the invocation, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Lucius C. Clarke.

Handshaking Time Is Cut by Hoover

President Will Greet Callers Only Half-Hour Each Week, He Decides.

By systematic steps President Hoover has cut down the ordeal of public handshaking from a daily mob scene to half an hour each week. Beginning next week the President will shake hands with public callers only on Wednesdays, from 12:30 to 1 o'clock. During inauguration week Mr. Hoover received hundreds of callers daily, the one-day record exceeding 2,000 handshakes.

In the second and third weeks of his administration the President received lines of callers on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. Since that time the handshaking has been established on Mondays and Thursdays.

It was denied at the White House that the reduction would go any further, although the physical exactions of the custom have become an increasing burden on the President. Mr. Hoover, early in office, suffered as have his predecessors from a sore wrist and forearm.

New York Avenue Fire Forces Three to Flee

Fire of undetermined origin caused about $1,000 damage to the top floor of a three-story building at 1015 New York avenue northwest early last night.

Willie Black, colored, a tenant, turned in the alarm. Spencer Robertson, colored, and his wife, other roomers, made a dash for safety through a skylight. Fire trucks and a large crowd blocked the avenue and held up Baltimore and Annapolis street cars for 26 minutes. The lower floor of the building is occupied by the P. Y. Washington Paper Co. and the Eureka Employment Exchange.

Towel Aid to Cleanliness.

Roscoe C. Edlund, of New York, general director of Cleanliness Institute, told the Linen Supply Association at its annual meeting yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel that "the little white towel peeping from the rack is a greater urge toward cleanliness than any number of health lectures." He urged members of the association to advertise more extensively and to use every means of enlarging their service to the public.

$144.36 Taken From Store.

Gaining entrance through a transom over a show window, robbers opened a combination safe at the Sanitary Grocery Store, at 104 Park avenue, Takoma Park, early yesterday, and took $144.36 in cash, according to reports to police of the Thirteenth Precinct. Charles H. Bowen, manager of the store, discovered the robbery when he opened the place for business yesterday morning.

Man Struck by Taxi.

William J. Harris, 33 years old, of 420 Sixth street northwest, was struck down by a taxicab, driven by George T. Morris, of 2131 O street northwest, yesterday morning in front of 940 E street northwest, according to police reports. Harris was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was reported to be suffering from face and scalp lacerations. No arrest was made.

I want to tell you how I coaxed him to eat—

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

"Once I was worried

Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from fresh vegetable drugs and would not harm the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red-blood-cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

Dartmouth Singers to Be Heard at 9 Tonight. Yankee Fiddler at 8:30. Spanish Program at 7. Jolly Scot on WOL.

The Dartmouth Glee Club will be heard in the program that the Kolster Radio Hour will offer at 9 o'clock tonight from WMAL. This Glee Club can claim to be the best organization of its kind in America by virtue of its winning the National Intercollegiate Glee Club contest at Carnegie Hall in New York City. Eleven glee clubs in all disputed with Dartmouth for the championship, including winners of regional contests for the South, Ohio and eastern Pennsylvania, besides five clubs which were entitled to enter the contest without previous competition.

Included on their program will be the official college song, "Men of Dartmouth," which was written by Prof. Henry R. Wellman as the climax of a musical comedy given by the Dartmouth players. They will also sing some of the songs of Richard Hovey, one of the most picturesque sons of Dartmouth, who wrote the famous "Stein Song" and the "Hanover Winter Song."

Annette Hanshaw will again be featured in the Van Huesen program from WMAL at 8 o'clock, contributing "Heigh Ho, Everybody" and "That's You, Baby."

Charles Althoff, "The Yankee Fiddler" will be the featured artist of the program that the La Palina Smoker will present at 8:30 o'clock.

The Kansas Frolickers, featuring Norman Brokenshire, will broadcast at 9:30 o'clock.

A program made up entirely of Spanish compositions will be heard in the Mobiloil Concert at 7 o'clock. The orchestra, under the direction of Frank Black during the absence of Erno Rapee in Europe, will open the hour with the fourth and fifth movements of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnol." "Wee Willie" Robyn will contribute a tenor solo, "Rosita," while Elizabeth Lennox, contralto, will sing "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen."

Frank Black will also conduct the Happy Wonder Bakers immediately following in a half-hour presentation. "From Sunrise to Sunset," "When Dreams Come True," "Lover, Come Back to Me" and "La Paloma" are among the selections.

Current trends in national affairs will be summarized by Walker S. Buel, capital correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer in a "Political Review from Washington" at 6:45 o'clock from the studios of WRC.

Mrs. Ethel Nicholas Nock will speak on "The American War Mothers" from Station WJSV at 8:30 o'clock this evening. The Manassas Fiddlers and Fran Trappe, the one-man band, will be heard during the latter part of the evening.

FROM the time we don a feminine bed-jacket for coffee and rolls, until the other end of the clock appears, this season we may virtually live in jackets. They have mounted to unprecedented importance and have a prototype for every occasion.

To complement the tennis dress or to brighten the golf costume, the model at the left in the illustration is a smart note. Brilliant yellow linen, printed in red, is the fabric of this jacket, and it is lined with red linen. This type of jacket is smart when quilted and is sometimes made so that it may be reversed.

On summer afternoons, the jacket will be seen over the teacups and across bridge tables. Here, it will be developed in silk crepes, and its lines will be less swagger than the sports jackets. The model in the illustration is an excellent example of this type and lends itself smartly to the new three-tone color combinations. Here, it is made of navy-blue crepe de chine, but it would be equally effective in rose with cream and white incrustations at the neckline.

The evening jacket has taken great strides since the tentative appearance of the bridge jacket. Sometimes, it is designed as an integral part of the costume, and sometimes it is used in place of the evening wrap. Consequently, its range of fabrics is wide. Tulle, net, georgette crepe, chiffon and silk crepe are used for the light jackets, which are actual parts of the evening gowns, and velvet—transparent, panne or chiffon—moire and dull-surfaced satin form the separate type. The jacket of prune silk crepe in the illustration emphasizes the prune tones in the printed crepe gown and has the popular down-in-back line.

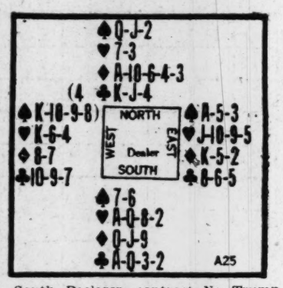
"Misplayed hands I have met."



South Declarer, contract No Trump West led the Spade Ten. Dummy played the Jack, and East won with the Ace. East led back his partner's suit and West expecting that his King of Hearts would be an entry, won the trick with the King and cleared the Spade suit. North's Queen won the third Spade trick and South discarded a small Heart.

The Declarer then ran four Club tricks, giving him a total of five tricks and next finessed his Diamonds. The finesse lost and East then led a Heart. The Declarer refused the Heart finesse, winning with the Ace; and then led out his Diamonds, discarding two losing Hearts on dummy's two good Diamonds, thus making a total of one Spade, one Heart, four Diamonds and four Clubs—ten tricks.

Was this hand played correctly?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The correct play of the hand would have been for West to duck the second trick, permitting dummy to win with his Queen of Spades. Of course it was possible that Declarer would have to finesse Hearts and that West could get in with the King and run his Spades, but it was much better for West to establish his Spades while East probably had a Spade to lead. In that event the Spades would be run, regardless of whether East or West obtained the lead; and the Declarer would be placed in the awkward position of losing the game, no matter to which adverse hand he lost a finesse.

Played in that way, the Declarer doubtless would win tricks 3, 4, 5 and 6 with Clubs, and then feel obliged to risk his Diamond finesse. East would win as before, but this time would have a Spade to lead; and West would win three Spade tricks which, added to the Ace of Spaes which took the first trick and the King of Diamonds, would save game.

Decision on Radio Chains Is Deferred

WATCH THE SCORE

Although it has been before them for several months, the Federal Radio Commission has deferred action upon the chain broadcasting order until next October. This order, which limited duplicated operation on cleared channels on stations more than 300 miles apart, has several times been postponed and if no action had been taken it would have been effective June 1.

Despite the fact that there has been no official expression on the subject, an impression prevails that there are only two members of the commission who would oppose striking the order off the books entirely. The opinion has been further expressed that if Congress were not at present in session and the commission did not fear criticism from the Hill, the order would have been taken off the books at this time.

No one could be found at the commission who pretended to believe that the regulatory body would ever put into force an order which would make it impossible for chain stations broadcasting the same program to be closer together than 300 miles. Nevertheless once the gesture was made, the commission seems to be going through the motions of seriously considering it.

Congress may have to stick it out, but the Federal Radio Commission will defer to the well-known summer-heated Washington and hold as few hearings between June 15 and September 3 as possible. If anything of an urgent nature comes up, the commission will probably take whatever action is necessary, but, generally speaking, the cases which can wait will go over.

The commissioners will take advantage of this summer siesta period to travel about their respective zones, and informal hearings may even be held during their travels, but there will be no undue exertion during the summer months.

Kenneth Fickett, the announcer, was reading his part in the Harbor Lights program into the "mike." He came to the stage directions and read them, too. After the program Fickett apologized to the actors for his mistake.

"What mistake?" asked the actors.

The bombardment of Fort Sumter, the battle which opened the war between the States, will be reenacted over Station WLW next Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock.

An interesting point to be brought out will be the fact that, although she was an invalid, the wife of Maj. Robert Anderson, commander of the Union forces, came to Charleston all the way from New York to see her husband before the battle. With her was Peter Hart, an old soldier, who became the hero of the Northern side when he nailed the Stars and Stripes to the stump of the flagpole when the top was shot away.

THE famous star of the stage and screen, Alla Nazimova, was born this day, 1879, in Yalta, Crimea, Russia. She was educted in Zurich and Odessa. She received her dramatic training in Moscow.

After playing in stock for some time in her native land, the actress came to America with a Russian repertoire company. When the company failed, she remained in America, learned the language and became successful on the American stage.

THE SINGING BIRD.

I heard a little singing bird
Early upon a tree.
"Day after day," the thought occurred,
"He sings for men like me.

"Almost precisely to the hour
With song he floods the air.
I wonder just what mighty power
Compels him to be there.

"He neither asks for men's applause
Nor cares if mortals hear.
What is the motive, what the cause?
Why comes that song bird near?

"Still would he sing though none were nigh
And this a wilderness;
Still would he brave the summer sky
And voice his happiness."

Thus puzzled, at my window seat
I lingered, wondering
Who guessed man's need for music sweet
And fashioned birds to sing?

EVENING gown decolletages are showing an interesting variety this season, and several new tendencies have recently appeared. As we have told you, the favorite is the round or square decolletage, which is moderate in the front but extreme at the back, frequently exposing the entire back to the waistline.

But the new note of which we speak (new and yet very old) is the noticeable reappearance of two very lovely decolletages—the Empire and the Second Empire!

• • • •

The Second Empire decolletage is rather similar in cut but differs in that there are no straps over the shoulders, the entire bodice coming below the armpits.

Needless to say, only lovely ladies with very lovely shoulders will adopt this revival, which is very charming for one who has the right to wear it—and anything but charming for the others!

More About Liquid Air.

YESTERDAY I told you some strange things about the substance called "liquid air." It is simply common air with the heat taken away, pressed to a certain point. One hundred "gallons" of common air will make about one gallon of liquid air.

There is doubt as to who first learned to make liquid air. It may have been a Swiss scientist named Pictet; but the honor has been claimed for others, including Olzewski, a Pole. One man who made liquid air among the first—about 40 years ago—spent $3,000 to obtain a single ounce! Nowadays, liquid air is expensive, but it does not cost nearly so much to make an ounce.

Liquid air being poured into "cartridge" holder to be used as explosive.

Liquid air has been used in blasting. In this case, it is mixed with oil and charcoal. When set off by means of a firing primer, this mixture has terrific force. It is fully equal to nitro-glycerine in power, and is safer in case of a "misfire." When a misfire occurs, the liquid air evaporates in a few minutes, leaving simply the oil and charcoal.

As I said yesterday, liquid air is at a temperature of about 325 degrees below zero. That is very cold, but it is not the coldest thing that has been made. A German scientist, Prof. Onnes, obtained a temperature of 459 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit scale! That is the record to date.

Scientists speak of "absolute zero," which means a point where nothing could be colder. They think that would measure 461 degrees below zero.

If the earth were to become as cold as "absolute zero," all life would pass away, of course. There could be no motion of either air or water.

What Today Means to You

MAY 22

"GEMINI."

IF May 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.; the danger periods are from 9:30 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The broken threads of a web of friendship will be mended May 22, as the result of a kindly mood into which you are thrown by the benign astrological influences in force at this time. Happiness and contentment are the rewards of the day.

The child born on May 22, will be level-headed, shrewd, and industrious. It will desire independence of action and thought, and will want to be captain of its own ship at an early age. It will be anxious to leave youth and all its pleasures behind.

You are much inclined to put all your eggs into one basket. Your affections, your talents, and your hobbies. You will absolutely give your heart to one person, and upon that person you will center the largest part of your affections and emotions. This trait makes you a very devoted, slavish and unselfish friend, wife or husband. It opens the way to an enthralling happiness, or a real tragedy, should you trip up, as you have no other basket upon which to call.

You concentrate upon one ambition. You are never torn by minor interests, but you train and work with one object in view—you back one horse, your pet talent, and if you win, you will reap a rich harvest. Your mind is that of a specialist, you are very wise in one or two subjects but your general knowledge is rather meager. You concentrate upon so few people and so few interests that your life is rather cramped and narrow.

You are orderly, energetic, and punctual to a fault. You are always busy at your work, or doing something for the few whom you love, while the rest of the world goes by unnoticed. You are happy in your own sphere, and bored when out of it.

Successful people born May 22: Tench Coxe, political economist. Arthur Tappan, reformer. Charles H. Haswell, civil engineer. Worthington Whittredge, artist. Christopher C. Langdell, educator. Jacob G. Schurman, educator.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

MANY FORMS OF COLITIS.

D. M. writes:
What is colitis?
What causes it?
How can it be overcome?

REPLY

Inflammation of the colon of large intestine. Among the varieties are mucus colitis, amebic colitis and spastic colitis, due to various infections. Acute bacterial dysenteries are forms of colitis. The answers to questions two and three depend on the kind of colitis.

NEEDS MASSAGE TREATMENT.

Mrs. A A. writes: I have a son who broke a leg above the knee (femur) and he had it in a cast for twelve weeks and now the knee is stiff and terribly sore. The knee was not injured in any way. What can be done to bring the knee back to normal, or will it be permanently stiff?

REPLY.

He should be able to get rid of the stiffness and swelling. The leg should be treated with massage and passive motion.

TWO YEAR OLD BABY.

Mother writes:
1. How much should a two-year-old baby girl weigh?
2. Should she have a little meat? She has soups, vegetables, potatoes, cereals, eggs, toast, a small amount of catfish. She has had very little sweet. She gets a little bacon now and then. The baby is healthy and I want to know the above to satisfy my own mind, as I hear so many different things.
3. How many hours sleep should she have?

REPLY.

1. About 28 pounds.
2. Yes.
3. At least 14 hours. Fifteen would be better.

DAY'S GAINS OFFSET DECLINES IN STOCKS

LATE RALLY IN COPPERS

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—The stock market labored under the pressure of a steady stream of nervous liquidation during most of today's session, although rails and utilities made substantial progress toward higher levels, and a rush of short covering in the coppers in the last half hour caused a moderate rally throughout the list.

Although the St. Louis & O'Fallon decision after more mature consideration failed to inspire further violent operations for the advance in the rails, traders were inclined to regard the decision as the outstanding long pull bullish development of the year, and several of the carrier issues were under steady accumulation. It was pointed out that it will be a long time before the effects of the decision will be reflected in earnings, but that it permits the railroads to prepare for the future with renewed confidence.

The late rally in the coppers was attributed to reports of substantial progress at the reparations conference. A large short interest had developed in this group since trading in copper futures below 17 cents started on the National Metal Exchange. The short selling, however, failed to bring out any considerable volume of stock, and the brightened prospect of a settlement of the reparations tangle, which would undoubtedly stimulate foreign consumption of the red metal, was a signal to cover.

Credit Situation Still Crowded.

The credit situation, however, still hovered like a dark cloud over the market. Call money held at 7 per cent all day. New York banks withdrew $25,000,000 in loans, only to place it back in the market at the same rate, after loans in the outside market had commanded 8 per cent. This action was highly perplexing to traders.

Time money held at 9 per cent for the shorter maturities, and 30-day money was said to be lending even higher in some cases. With no prospect of a clearing of the money situation for several weeks, many traders and even some large pools were inclined to lighten their holdings.

The day's news included reports of a slight decline in steel mill operations, advances of 17 to 41 cents a barrel in Mid-continent Crude Oil prices, and an advance of 1 cent a gallon in wholesale gasoline on the Atlantic Coast.

Phelps Dodge placed its new stock on a $3 annual dividend basis, equal to $12 on the old, which paid $10. Motor products declared an extra cash payment of $5, in addition to the quarterly of 50 cents.

Many Losses Returned.

Although the late rally failed to cancel many losses, and left the market highly irregular, the Associated Press price indices indicated that the total gains more than offset the declines. The cross currents of buying and selling carried the day's total sales to 4,409,120 shares, the largest turnover in more than a week.

The action of some of the motor stocks was particularly unsettling in the early trading. Chrysler dropped more than 3 points to 74, a new low for the year, contrasted with a high of 135, and General Motors sagged more than a point to 76¾, also a 1929 low, but it made up its loss later. Rumors of a decline in output were current. With the unusually keen competition in the industry, it is felt that a falling off of business would considerably effect earnings.

In the rails, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atchison and New York Central sold up 6 points or more. Anaconda, which has been sagging persistently in recent weeks, became a leader, the new stock mounting 7 points to 106½. The old stock sold ex-rights at 106¾. Greene Cananea and Kennecott also made fair gains. American & Foreign Power, American Water Works and Commonwealth Power were strong points of the utilities, mounting 3 points or so. Oils were firm with the rising prices for crude and refined.

Rally in General Electric.

General Electric regained 9 points of yesterday's 20-point drop, and Allied Chemical, Auburn Auto, Montgomery Ward, Packard, St. Joseph Lead and Curtiss Aero closed 2 to 6 points higher. Radio showed strong resistance at 90, and jumped to 94 in the closing deals.

Burroughs Adding Machine, after chalking up a new peak at 329¾, then tumbled to 314, and closed at 317, off 11. Case Threshing dropped 17 points, and closed off 11. International Telephone, Electric Auto Lite, Detroit Edison, Sparks Withington and Phelps Dodge sold 3 to 9 points lower. Federal Mining tumbled 15 points to 220 in a small turnover, 90 points under its 1929 peak.

In the commodities, wheat futures again broke a cent and more a bushel on better weather and the beginning of harvesting in the Southwest, and corn lost a like amount on bearish Argentine estimates. Cotton eased off for a time, but closed barely steady.

HORSE SENSE
—It Would Seem— UNRELIABLE

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, May 21.—The extreme difficulty of selecting the winners of horse races in advance of the races has been demonstrated twice again lately in two prominent events of the Spring racing season, the Preakness at Baltimore and the Kentucky Derby at Louisville. There was a great difference of opinion but all shades of opinion were very plausibly presented and liberally supported with wagers, or investments. It stands to reason assuming that the element of the public which makes a vocation of following the horses has reasoning powers, that only one shade of opinion can be correct in any one race, one other shade somewhat less correct and a third shade just slightly correct.

This racing element always has the appearance of being the most knowing group in the entire range of sport, not even excepting the prize fight public, and yet only a small proportion are right at any one time which naturally leads one to suspect that they are not as knowing as I have always given them credit for being.

Last year when I was covering the races at Baltimore on the day before the Preakness, I did a very nice investment business at the windows down under the grand stand, winning about $25 by a system of my own, with a maximum investment of $6. My plan was to assemble all the selections of all the clairvoyants as published in the newspapers and racing papers, eliminate all horses selected by them, and select some horse from the remainder by the same system that one follows in selecting a number to bet on at roulette. My system in roulette is to peer intelligently at the table and finally say, "I am going to bet on this number."

That night I was discussing wagering with a young man who bets, according to his information and deductions, and when I explained my system, he laughed in a very annoying manner and went around the hotel lobby telling other people who joined heartily in the laughter, but later on I asksd him how much he had won that day, wagering according to his deductions and information and he said, "I lose $50."

In spite of this I decided that my system was not sound and promised to let him teach me to wager the next day. He told me not to bet anything on the first two races, as the horses were a lot of $2 pigs, but led me down to the little cottage where the jockeys are kept and struck up a conversation with a jockey friend of his.

My coach then advised me to bet the $25 I had won the day before, and as much more as I cared to invest, on this jockey's horse, so I wagered $35 and the horse ran sixth or seventh or somewhere along in there.

All my understanding and overhearing of the wagering business favors the roulette system of selection, because even the most knowing people I have met in the horse and gambling business assure me that it is impossible to beat the races. If one must lose, it seems idle to study the ways and means of losing so intently.

Recoups His Horses on a Steed Not Recommended.

At one of the tracks recently—a friend who is in the clairvoyant business, marked my program for me and I wagered on these horses without success all the way down to the last race of the day, when I recouped all losses by reverting to the roulette system and betting $5 on a horse which had not been recommended. On the way out of the track I encountered the clairvoyant's wife and asked her if she had been wagering her husband's selections that day.

"Oh, no," she said, brightly. "We can't afford to play papa's picks."

Another friend in the clairvoyant business once came to the end of the season in New Orleans with no funds owing to the factor of error in selecting winners. On the last day of the meeting he was much worried about the cost of transportation back to New York and when his wife mentioned a desire to bet $10 on a horse which was quoted at 40 to 1, he was tempted to tap her lovingly on the chin and take the $10 away from her. However, there were strangers about, so he could only plead, "Mamma, don't be a damned fool all your life. Give papa the ten bucks."

But it was Mamma's $400 that car-

Indian Spring Field Led by Pitt's 78

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

HARRY G. PITT, of the Manor Club, and Middle Atlantic champion, yesterday led the field in the first day of the qualification round of the Indian Spring annual spring invitation golf tournament. Although more than 125 golfers teed off, Pitt was the only player able to break 80, having a consistent score of 39—39—78. Charles W. Cole, jr., a member of the Indian Spring Club and former public links champion, although out in 39, required 41 strokes for the homeward journey, for a total of 80, two strokes behind the leader. J. Monro Hunter, jr., son of the Indian Spring Club professional, was third, with 82.

The remainder of the field, numbering more than 150 contestants, will attempt to qualify today, and includes many of the leading District golfers, among them Page Hufty, of the Congressional Country Club, and winner of the recent Chevy Chase Club invitation event. Last year the medalist was Joseph Beger, Georgetown University, with a card of 75.

The score of 78 made by Pitt yesterday was all the more creditable because the course was heavy and slow after the recent rains, and more than once, even with long drives and well-played irons, he was short of the greens with his second shots.

Misadventures on Greens Cost Pitt Several Added Strokes.

He could easily have reduced his score some four or five strokes, however, but for misadventures on the putting greens, taking three putts on the second hole and missing putts of not over 2 or 3 feet on the fourth and fifth. On the eleventh hole, however, he scored a birdie 3 by running down a 10-footer. His 6's on the fifteenth and sixteenth holes were due to difficulties encountered in the rough. The cards of the three leaders were:

Out—
Pitt	5	5	4	5	5	3	5	4	3	—39
Cole	5	5	5	5	4	3	5	4	3	—39
Hunter	6	5	5	3	5	3	5	5	4	—41
In—
Pitt	4	3	5	4	3	6	6	3	5	—39—78
Cole	5	4	5	5	3	5	5	4	5	—41—80
Hunter	5	3	5	6	3	5	6	3	5	—41—82

Hunter also was handicapped by his putting, taking nine strokes on the first three greens and again three-putting the thirteenth green.

When all the scores had been turned in at the conclusion of the day's play only 55 contestants had been able to score under 10, and cards of 95 tied for the fortieth place. There were 12 cards of 85 and under, indicating that any figure in the low 80s will qualify in the championship flight, while 92s or 93s may get into the fifth and last sixteen, although under more satisfactory weather conditions today the scor-

Miles, Princeton Star, Accepts Ga. Tech Job

Princeton, N. J., May 21 (U.P.).—Mike Miles, Princeton football star, who graduates in June, told the United Press today he had decided to accept a job as back field coach of the Georgia Tech Football Eleven. He will report at Atlanta September 1.

He will take the place of Don Miller, one of Notre Dame's original "Four Horsemen," who goes to Ohio State.

Miles was recently voted the "best all-round athlete of the class of 1929." He has played full back on the varsity eleven for the past three years, and has been mentioned for several All-American teams.

"I like Georgia Tech very much and was favorably impressed the short time I spent there recently," he said today. Miles said he was considering studying law at Georgia Tech along with his coaching activities.

LABARBA 8-5 CHOICE OVER CHOCOLATE

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, May 21 (A.P.). — Kid Chocolate, grinning boxing masterpiece in ebony, will flirt tomorrow night in Jess McMahon's big fight barn in the Bronx with the same fate that overcame Al Singer, the other brilliant little fellow promoters were banking on for a gala open-air season.

Possessed in large quantities with whatever it takes to faithful through the turnstiles, the flashy Cuban negro bantam will face the busy fists of Fidel Labarba, young San Franciscan Italian, with the odds at least 8 to 5 against his winning. In this respect he is slightly favored, for Singer was a 4-to-1 favorite when the little Filipino, slugging Ignacio Fernandez, knocked out the Jewish idol last Friday night.

Bout Between Little Fellows Has Created Much Interest.

Tomorrow night's match has created more interest here than any other battle of little fellows in years. Chocolate, riding high on a wave of popularity that packed the winter fight clubs week after week, has yet to be beaten in 156 matches.

The colorful Cuban, likened in action to great negro boxing masters of the past, still has been able to knock out almost half his opponents with crackling right-hand punches. Last August he fought his first match here for a purse of $30.

Labarba Has Edge in Experience, Speed and Aggressiveness.

Labarba, one-time Olympic boxing champion and professional flyweight titleholder until he retired to enter Stanford University, has an edge in speed, aggressiveness and experience. In his final ring fling before returning to college, Labarba has waged a winning campaign in Australian and Western rings. He is a brisk, smart boxer with a powerful left hook to the head and body.

As an added spice to the ten-round battle, the New York State Athletic Commission has promised to recognize the winner as the world bantamweight champion, provided he performs in a fashion worthy of a titleholder. The title has been vacant here since Charley Phil Rosenberg forfeited the crown on the scales in February, 1927.

Umek and Richman Tied on Bunion Lap

Monahans, Tex., May 21 (A.P.).—While Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., and Pete Gavuzzi, England, battled for the lead in the Bunion Derby today, Sam Richman, New York legionnaire, and Giusto Umek, of Italy, continued their duel for third place and breasted the tape together to capture the fifty-second lap.

They ran the 38 miles from Odessa, Tex., to Monahans in 4:17:05. Salo and Gavuzzi tied for third place today in 4:52:10. Richman and Umek set a pace of almost nine miles an hour despite a cold rain. Umek still is more than thirteen hours ahead of Richman, and Salo's lead over Gavuzzi remains at 21 minutes 30 seconds.

Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., was fifth in 5:12:05, tied with M. B. McNamara, Australia. Philip Granville, Hamilton, Ontario, tied with Joe Spangler, New York, for seventh place.

Horton Smith Sets Record In France

Makes 6 Birdies on Last 9 Holes; Has Pair of 66s.

By J. E. ANGLY
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

ST. CLOUD, France, May 21 (A.P.).—Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., who will be 21 years of age tomorrow, was the whole show today in the international golf competition at St. Cloud.

With two record-breaking rounds of 66 he ended the day 12 strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, an unheard of accomplishment here.

The lanky, blond Missourian can sit back tomorrow and say "show me" to the field of 70 professionals from England, France, the United States, Spain, South Africa and Argentina, who looked like very ordinary golfers today as Smith clicked off birdies all over the course to run up a 36 total of 132.

Smith must play another 36 holes tomorrow, but unless he suffers serious injury or fails to break 90 it is difficult to see how he can fail to win the 72-hole medal competition with such a start.

No French championship ever has seen such golf as Smith uncovered today. Par of the course is 71. He was five under par this morning and again five under this afternoon, and no one else in the best field ever assembled in France succeeded in breaking 70 during the two rounds today. In his sensational 36 holes, the Joplin boy had 4 fives, 20 fours, 8 threes and 4 twos.

Smith Cut Two Strokes Off Record Set by Boomer.

In shooting 66 under a blazing sun and with no wind to be taken into account, Smith cut two strokes off the course record set last year by the home club professional, Aubrey Boomer.

The Joplin pro's golf was not without flaw but every error—and they were few and far between—was offset by recovery shots worthy of Walter Hagen at his best.

Hagen, incidentally, was at his worst today, taking 44 to reach the turn this morning. He played better from then on but ended the day nineteen strokes behind the leader, his total being 151.

Henry Cotton with 144, Johnny Farrell and George Duncan with 145, Gene Sarazen, Boomer and Andre Boyer with 146 were the only players who appeared to have the slightest chance of giving Smith a run for the money which amounts to 60,000 francs.

The competitors teed off in trios and Smith was a member of one that came close to being the best. The two others were Boomer and Arnaud Massy, who won the British open the year before Smith was born. Boomer and Massy were among the leading scorers of the day but because they played with the

New York Suspends Renault for Fouling

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Jack Renault, veteran heavyweight, today was suspended indefinitely by the State Boxing Commission for fouling George Larroco here last night.

At request of the Pennsylvania commission, Max Waxman, Baltimore, and his stable of boxers, including Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, were reinstated.

GIANTS DENY DEAL.

New York, May 21 (U.P.).—Jim Tierney, secretary of the New York Giants, denied today that Jimmy Welch, outfielder obtained from the Braves in the Hornsby trade, and Jack Cummings, catcher, would be shipped to the Newark International League Club.

Bobby Jones' Entry In Amateur Assured

Del Monte, Calif., May 21 (A.P.). Assurance was received today that Bobby Jones, amateur golf champion, would defend his title in the national amateur championship classic at Pebble Beach next September 2 to 7. This word was contained in a telegram from O. B. Keeler, Atlanta newspaper man and close friend of Jones, to Roger D. Lapham, of San Francisco, a vice president of the United States Golf Association.

It was reported here that Jones intends to reach Del Monte a month in advance of play in order to become thoroughly acquainted with the Pebble Beach course.

TIGERS DOWN INDIANS, 2-1, IN 13TH

Tie Score in 9th and Win Mound Duel for Carroll.

DETROIT, Mich., May 21 (A.P.).—The Tigers came from behind today to take a thirteen-inning battle from the Cleveland Indians by a 2-to-1 score. The Tigers tied the score in the ninth inning of the duel and scored again with one out in the thirteenth.

Willis Hudlin went the entire distance for Cleveland, holding the Detroit batters helpless until the ninth. With one down, Heilmann doubled, Alexander reached first on a fielder's choice and Phillips scored the big first baseman with the tying run.

Lind Drops Throw to Even Count in Ninth Inning.

Tavener fielded Phillips' grounder, but Lind turned it into a run by dropping his toss for a force play. The winning run came from a pass to Roy Johnson, Rice's sacrifice and Stone's hard single to center.

Cleveland scored in the third when Jamieson reached first on an error, and Fonseca brought him in with a double to the scoreboard. Owen Carroll was the victim of that run and failed to get credit for the victory, although he held the Indians to seven hits in nine innings. Lil Stoner pitched the last three frames, giving but one hit.

Weak Attack Reflects on Pitching

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NEW YORK, May 21.—What's wrong with the Nationals?

This question has reverberated through the Capital City almost since the opening of the American League season. With today's scheduled double-header with the Yankees declared off early this morning because of rain, the writer decided to put the question up to Manager Walter Johnson and President Clark Griffith, who, with nothing to do, appeared glad of the opportunity to exercise their vocal organs.

"We simply haven't been hitting in the pinches," said Walter. "I'll admit that some of my players have disappointed me, that at times we have not played smart baseball, that on other occasions our base-runners have not made the most of their opportunities, while errors have hurt us, but if we were hitting as we should and winning games, our other shortcomings would be overlooked. It's only when a team loses consistently that the fans start looking for faults.

Nats' Few Runs Hamper Work Of Pitchers, Is Claim.

"As to trying, there is no question in my mind, but what the boys are giving me everything they've got," the Nats' leader continued. "And perhaps it is because they are tightening up and trying too hard that is helping keep them in the slump we're now in.

"There has been a lot of criticism about our pitching, but it has not been as bad as it is painted, and also may be blamed to the fact that our batters are getting so few runs. This has given the pitchers little confidence in their mates and the idea that they must travel at full speed all the way, with the result that they've often weakened near the end. If they had a few runs behind which to work, instead of generally being behind, they could save themselves at times like their opponents have been doing and probably be strong at the finish.

Will Revert to Bluege-Hayes Second Base Combination.

"Poor hitting in the pinches," the Nats leader repested, "has been our whole trouble." Johnson also added that he believes his opening season infield combination with Ossie Bluege at short and Jack Hayes at second is a better defensive one than that being used at present and when the Nat hitters recover from old "John Slump's" knockout punch, which he believes cannot be long now, he plans to shift back to it.

President Griffith's ideas are the same as Johnson's. "We've been getting better pitching than have the Yankees," he stated. "And yet you don't read much about their poor pitching for the simple reason that they've got a team of sluggers who manage to get more runs than their own pitchers grant. In baseball the hit is the thing and when a team is busting' the ball, other shortcomings are overlooked. I admit that we have not got what you might call a long-distance hitting club and that some of the others will outslug us, but when we're going right, we'll get our share of runs.

Goslin's Failure at Bat Is Severe Blow to Team.

"Look over your scorebook and you'll discover that we've gotten better pitching than our opponents and that we've fielded well. It's just a case of all parts of the machine not functioning together. And we won't win many games until our hitters do their part. Goslin, for instance, is our 'Babe Ruth' and yet, except for a homer off of a kid pitcher in St. Louis more than a week ago and a lucky double in the last series with Philadelphia, he hasn't gotten a hit in seven games.

"He was going better than in any previous spring when the season started but there never seemed to be any one on the bases when he connected. Then Johnson switched him in the batting order where he thought Goose's hits would get us some runs and he stopped getting them. And the others on whom we counted also have flivvered. Every once in a while, one has a good day, but we've been unable to get them in

ALTHOUGH elaborate preparations are being made for Washington's first bit of Davis Cup tennis to be played at the Chevy Chase Club tomorrow, Friday and Saturday when the United States and Japanese teams meet in the second round of the American zone play, there seems to be little doubt as to the final outcome.

So confident is the young team representing these United States that passage was booked yesterday on the S S Berengaria for June 5 to carry the new "big four" to Europe to engage the winning team of the European zone.

ACCOUNT, 34-1, WINS FEATURE AT CHURCHILL DOWNS

Kentucky Ace, Favorite, Third

CHURCHILL DOWNS RACE TRACK, Ky., May 21 (A.P.).—The Oakland Farm Stable's 5-year-old Account, a 34-to-1 shot, sprung a surprise in the feature event when he came home a winner over Amsterdam and Kentucky Ace, the latter the favorite.

Account, away to a good start and racing under slight restraint to the head of the stretch, came with a rush when called upon and overcame the leader to win in a drive by half a length. Amsterdam, away in front and taken into a comfortable lead, a length and a half in front of the others, saved ground wherever possible, but weakened in the final strides. He lasted to secure second place by a length.

Kentucky Ace, the favorite, never far behind the leaders, was forced wide on the last two turns, moved up determinedly on the outside through the stretch, but faltered slightly in the final drive. He lasted to take the short end of the purse. Grenadier Guard, a well-played second choice, was not equal to the task and finished in fifth position.

The winner enriched the Oakland Farm Stable to the extent of $1,150, and paid his backers the handsome price of $69.32 for a $2 ticket.

The afternoon's sport was marred by the falling of Lillyfield in the second race, when the filly, apparently going lame, fell and two other horses, Jimmalee and Princess Donna, fell over the prostrate animal. Luckily, the riders escaped injury.

Veteran Queen Towton Wins In Feature Race at Aurora.

Aurora, Ill., May 21 (A.P.).—The Faciview Handicap, a 6-furlong dash for 3-year-olds and up, saw A. G. Dunlap's 7-year-old Queen Towton victorious over the field of six fleet speedsters who faced the barrier for this afternoon's feature event. Queen Towton lost no time when the barrier was sprung, going into the lead immediately, and she showed her heels to the others the entire trip, passing the judge's stand half a length in front of Big Sweep, who raced closest in pursuit of the winner from the start, to finish second. Taddywawa came with a rush through the stretch, but the best he could do was third.

Queen Towton's time for the 6 furlongs over a fast track was 1:11 2-5, and the mutuels returned $6.02 for each $2 invested. The race carried a valuation of $850 to the winner.

Queen Towton campaigned with good success at Miami and Keeney Park early this year, but today's victory was her first since coming North. It was her third start at Aurora.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NORA D., $53.52, $16.38, $8.58; LADY WITT, $5.64, $4.94; JESSIE CAREY, $10.38.

NORA D., away well and escaping early interference, came through on inside entering stretch and, responding gamely to urging, wore leaders down. LADY WITT was sent into a long early lead first quarter, saved ground wherever possible, but could not withstand winner's rush near end. JESSIE CAREY loomed up dangerously midway of the stretch when taken to the outside, but then tired badly in the final test. MISS MOONLIGHT closed resolutely from a slow beginning. EVER BLUE also closed a good final quarter. MALLY JANE had to be taken up to escape early interference. SPOOKY broke down approaching the stretch turn. MAIDEN'S TRYST was crowded next inner rail soon after start and lost rider.

SECOND RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:52. Winner, M. Lowenstein's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GEORGE STACK, $9.88, $5.88, $4.94; LATCH KEY, $4.88, $3.52; BEECHWOOD, $6.04.

GEORGE STACK took command immediately after the start, held sway under steadying restraint and, responding well when threatened on the turn, drew out decisively. LATCH KEY worked way up on outside, came with a belated rush through stretch and, although continuing strongly, could not threaten winner. BEECHWOOD was pinched back soon after the start, lost ground improving position, but closed gamely when clear through stretch. MY DAN tired. LITTLE CHIP closed a gap. LILLYFIELD appeared to have fallen lame at head of the stretch and fell, JIMMALEE and PRINCESS DONNA falling over the prostrate animal.

THIRD RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Lebanon Junction. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good for all but Photos Star. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:14. Off at 3:15. Winner, Mrs. E. L. Swikard's ch. f. (2), by Supremus—Eyes of Youth. Trained by J. T. Taylor. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:48 1-5, 0:54 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUPRYSE, $4.42, $2.76, $2.36; STAR LASSIE, $5.00, $3.06; WILD DENISE, $2.94.

SUPRYSE, much the best, was reserved closely behind the pace to the turn and, taking command, drew far out the final eighth. STAR LASSIE began moving up at the head of the stretch and closed courageously under punishment. WILD DENISE, outrun to the last three-sixteenths closed gamely to outstay ELICE. Latter, much used in early stages, had nothing left when the test came. LELIA PEACHY went well for three-eighths. PHOTOS STAR was away poorly.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:39. Off at 3:41. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ACCOUNT, $69.32, $26.62, $6.02; AMSTERDAM, $23.16, $5.36; KENTUCKY ACE, $2.54.

ACCOUNT, away forwardly and racing slightly restrained to the home stretch, responded well and came with a rush last seventy yards to overhaul AMSTERDAM. Latter assumed the lead at start, saved all possible ground on the inside and only weakened final few strides. KENTUCKY ACE, never far back, but forced wide last two turns, moved up determinedly on outside through stretch, but faltered slightly last sixteenth. LANCER showed improvement. GRENADIER GUARD had no excuses and tired badly after reaching the stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Tyler Hotel. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:07. Off at 4:11. BUDDY BASIL raced well up from start, responded gamely to urging when clear through stretch and, continuing gamely, disposed of VESTA the last sixteenth. The latter was held closely behind the pace until reaching home stretch and, racing GARDNER DERR into defeat, held on well, but was not good enough. PRINCESS EDITH was taken back when in close quarters on far turn, came to the outside through stretch and held on gamely to outstay SYMPHOROSA. Latter, far back most of the trip, closed with good courage last eighth. NELLIE LYONS had no mishaps. GARDNER DERR began stopping after reaching the stretch.

SIXTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 4:38. Winner, Oakland Farm Stable's ch. g. BLAZE THE TRAIL, slow to begin, was rushed into contention and, responding gamely under punishment, gradually wore BETTY ANN down. Latter raced into a big advantage first three-eighths, but began tiring last eighth and just failed to last. HADES saved ground throughout while racing prominently, but could never improve position. FULL TIDE, outpaced to the stretch, held on courageously in the drive. TEA CRACKER closed some ground last quarter. ROLL 'EM DOWN ran out on the turn.

EASTERN GIVEN CHANCE FOR FIRST TRACK TITLE

Lincoln Park Team Strong In Field

Tech, With Edwards, Powerful But Not Well Balanced.

Friday's Meet Sure of High Interest as Season Ends.

THE interhigh school track meet, the next and final track event for teams in the local group, will be held Friday at the Central Stadium. Inasmuch as the competition will be purely local, quite unlike the C Club games of last week, when teams from neighboring sections competed, a real battle for honors should ensue between Tech, Eastern, Central and Western.

For the first time since the inception of the meets, the Eastern Team is given a chance at the title. Heretofore either Tech or Central have had the strongest teams and have been favored. Eastern will face one big threat, however, in Capt. Jake Edwards, of Tech, who literally ran away with the honors in the C Club games. Even though Edwards might duplicate his feats of winning the 220, 440 and shot-put, Eastern should pick up many points in the other events, especially in the field.

Where Tech has only Edwards as its consistent point scorer, Eastern has several who should shine in a meet of this kind where there will not be so many schools and athletes in competition. It is a foregone conclusion that Eastren has a better balanced team than Tech.

Central, Disregarded, May Spring a Surprise.

Central is not regarded strong because of its failures in previous meets this season. The Mount Pleasanters, though, have a wealth of material which might get in its innings and surprise.

Eastern, in the local end of the telegraphic meet recently staged by Devitt Prep in cooperation with Castle Heights, of Lebanon, Tenn., scored 51 points to lead the field with ease. Tech was third and Central fourth with 18 and 4 points respectively. Tech, however, competed without the services of Edwards and Reichman, who were competing in the Princeton interscholastics. With Edwards almost sure of 15 points and Reichman likely to score 8, Tech should give a real account of itself.

Friday's meet should abound with action and color. The meet should equal, if not outdo, others in the past for interest.

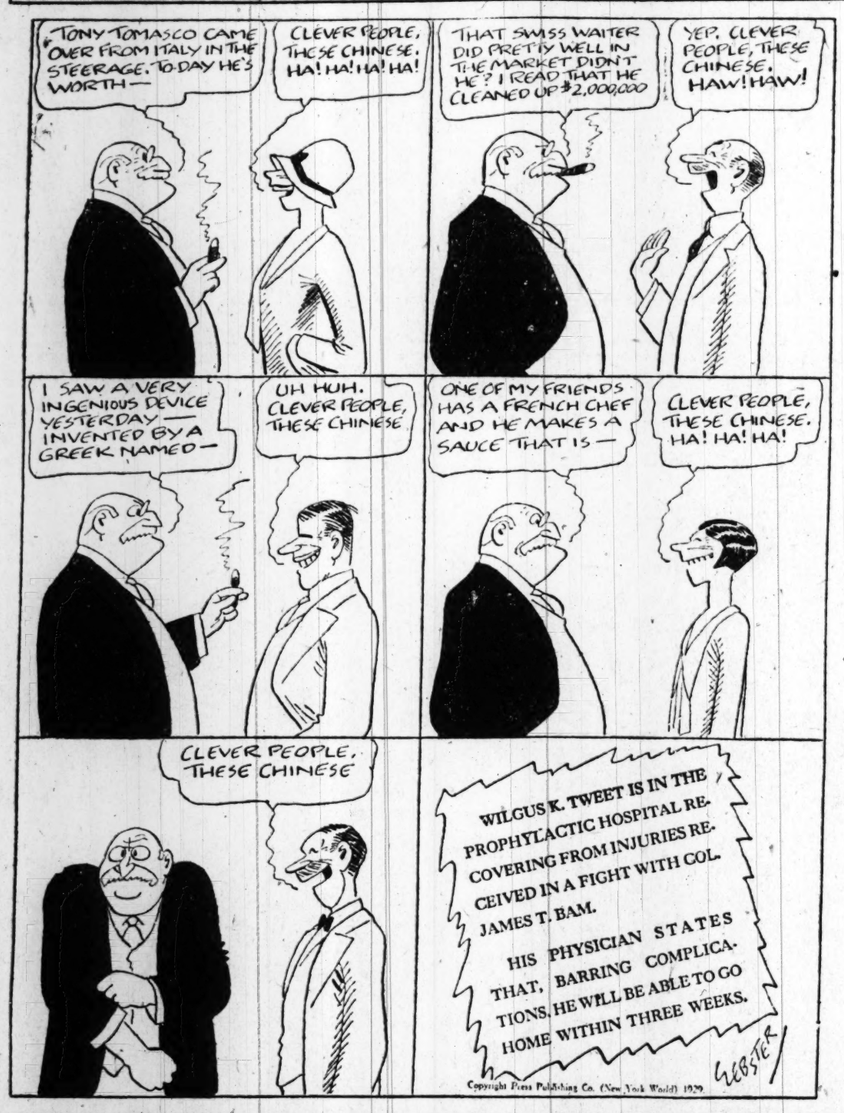
The Events Leading Up to the Tragedy ---By H. W. Webster



Pixlee, New G. W. Athletic Director, Starts Work Here

JAMES E. PIXLEE, newly appointed professor of physical education and director of athletics at George Washington University, yesterday began laying the foundation on which he hopes to raise the athletic status of the Colonial institution to new heights.

In a conference with Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the university, the former Westminster College athletic director of Fulton, Mo., and successor to H. Watson Crum at the local institution, obtained his first view of the task which confronts him.

Having had little time in which to survey the big task which he faces, Pixlee was not inclined to offer any definite panacea for the athletic ailments which President Marvin is convinced prevail at George Washington. President Marvin outlined the situation in general and explained to the new athletic director just what the university officials wish him to accomplish.

Expanding Intermural Work First Step of New Head.

With instructions to establish an efficient physical education department and develop more representative intercollegiate teams, the new head of the athletic department is certain that his first step will be toward expanding intramural work.

Any success to be attained in bringing a larger portion of the student body into closer proximity with the whole athletic program and in developing intercollegiate teams must come from the basic intramural work, Pixlee is convinced.

President Marvin explained to the former midwestern coach and athletic director that the principal reason for athletic deficiency at the university in the past may be traced to the fact that few students have been interested in these activities and physical education has been confined to a few rather than the majority.

Pixlee Made Good Record At Westminster College.

In Pixlee, the George Washington executive believes he has found the man to accomplish that which he and his aids believe is needed. At Westminster College, in 1922, when Pixlee assumed charge of athletic activities, that school was in much the same situation as now prevails at George Washington. Pixlee immediately reorganized the entire athletic department and last year had more than 50 per cent of the student body engaged in some intercollegiate competition.

The new athletic official will be introduced to the faculty and students tonight at a smoker to be held in Corcoran Hall at 8 o'clock. President Marvin and retiring Athletic Director Crum will attend.

Pixlee has made no plans for the 1929-30 year. He plans to select a coaching staff as soon as he becomes familiar with his new assignment. A successor to Crum as football coach has not been named.

Megaw's 410 Set Tops Masonic Tourney Field

That the Masonic Bowling League tournament promises to produce some of the season's best scores was indicated last night, which marked the start of action. The Trinity Team turned in a set of 1,701 to lead in that class, while W. E. (Reds) Megaw came through with a string of 410 to top the field in the singles. In the doubles, Deputy and Pratt gave the pairs a mark of 699 to shoot for.

The three leaders in each of the classes follow:

BERLENBACH AT GAYETY TONIGHT

Former Ring Champion Wrestles Maxos to Finish.

PAUL BERLENBACH, former light-heavyweight boxing champion, meets Jack Maxos, claimant of the Greek championship, tonight in a finish match, the feature of a wrestling program at the Gayety Theater beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Bobby Mainfort against Tom Clayton and Young Gotch against Young Kirschman are the supplementary attractions.

The Mainfort-Clayton match will be to the finish, best two out of three falls, while the Gotch-Kirschman set-to will be a time limit affair.

Many fighters have become wrestlers, but few have gone very far in the game. Paul Berlenbach's case is different. Before he took up boxing, he was something of an amateur grappler. Incidentally, he was one of the few wrestlers who ever made good in boxing.

Berlenbach, the boxer, used many tricks characteristic of the wrestler. As a wrestler there are noticeable in his work many traits of the boxer. He shifts with quick jerky motions, especially in taking headlocks, and in his leads there is great force, a sort of half punch. These moves are within the rules, but there are few men in the game today who can take them and last long.

Unless the rules are changed, it is a safe contention that "Old Paul's left hook" hold will be as famous as Gus Sonnenberg's flying tackle. That peculiar tackle alone, which consists in butting an opponent out of the ring, carried Sonnenberg to the wrestling championship. Many newspaper men and wrestling fans believe Berlenbach is sure to gain the heavyweight mat title.

On the Cuff Up to His Elbow, Mr. Keade Appreciates Joke.

Mr. Edward (Easy-go) Keade, the manager of pugilistic tiger-men, had a similar experience in Miami the year of the fight that failed between Gene Tunney and William Stribling. Mr. Keade was on the cuff, clear up to the elbow, as they say, at a hotel, and the landlord was beginning to show signs of restlessness. The day the prize fight was called off your correspondent collected several complimentary tickets and thought it would be a good joke on Mr. Keade to present them to him, because at that time very few people knew the scientific display had been postponed, without date. That evening Mr. Keade was around to thank your correspondent with tears of gratitude in his sensitive blue eyes.

"I peddled two of those tickets for $20 and knocked the mutuels for a two-to-one shot this afternoon," he said. "I am now on my way to the boat and will not have to work on the chain-gang, which would be very humiliating to one of my public position."

"But, Mr. Keade," I said, "the boxing contest has been called off, and you will be required to refund the $20."

"Toot, toot!" Mr. Keade exclaimed. "My boat is whistling. I will see you in New York."

FRENCH BEAT MRS. BUNDY, TILDEN

Youthful Team Wins in Mixed Doubles of Title Play.

PARIS, May 21 (A.P.).—America's tennis invaders were handed their first serious setback of the French hard court championships today as Bill Tilden and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy were eliminated from the mixed doubles.

The veteran American pair fell before the attack of the youthful French team of Mademoiselle Simone Barbier and Edouard Grandouillot, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4, with Tilden erring frequently. The French team never lost control of the situation except for a brief period in the second set, when Big Bill made his eleven aces count. In the last set the French team centered its play upon the United States No. 1 ranking star, and Tilden was not able to cope with the well-placed backhands of his opponents.

Miss Helen Wills and Miss Edith Cross, the California women's team, advanced to the second round when their scheduled French opponents defaulted after Mme. Danet had failed to appear at the appointed time.

Delay at Dressmaker's Causes French Women to Default.

Miss Marjorie Morrill, of Boston, likewise failed to appear on the court when her Australian partner, Matejka, did not arrive from Berlin. Miss Morrill was then teamed with DeMorpurgo, of Italy, and with the defeat of the Tilden-Bundy combination the Italo-American pair has been made one of the favorites in the tournament.

In the only other match in which an American was entered, Wilbur Coen, of Kansas City, and Edouard Borotra, of France, weathered the first round.

Dressmakers were responsible for the California tennis stars, Helen Wills and Edith Cross, reaching the second round of women's doubles without playing.

Mesdames Danet and Speranza-Wyns, of France, were down to meet the Americans in the first round at 3 p. m., but Mme. Danet sent word that they could not escape the modiste until after 5 o'clock. So the match was declared defaulted.

Maryland's Lacrosse Team Plays Hopkins

University of Maryland's Lacrosse Team will not do a great deal of toiling this week, but will save its energies for the game with Johns Hopkins in the Baltimore Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Of course the Old Liners will put in some work on each intervening day, but it will be in the nature of a tuning-up process and to perfect the technique of its offense and defense to adapt them to Hopkins' style of play.

Although they got some hard bumps in the game with Western Maryland last Saturday, the Old Liners are in good trim and should be on edge for the clash with Hopkins.

Four of the players will be ending their athletic careers for Maryland against Hopkins in the game Saturday, Emmett Loane, third defense, and Doug Smink, out home, who are Baltimoreans; Weller Holloway, first attack, and Gus Crothers, cover point. All the other players are sophomores or juniors.

Lawrence to Manage Eastern All-Stars

V. M. Lawrence, who last year managed the Kelly Midgets with success, will this week handle the Eastern All-Star Insects in the Capital City League. The Kellys are representing Victory Post under Manager Kleindienst.

Manager Lawrence has signed the following Insect players for the Capital City League race: Charles Crouzzo, Billy Bresnahan, Bert Shaffner, Douglas Morris, James Yates, Charles A. Hollidge, George E. Hollis, Vincent Dover, Charles E. Hays, Arthur Dover, Walter Hayes and Elmer F. Robertson.

Lawrence's Insect Team will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at 305 Tennessee avenue and on Friday will play the Panthers on Rosedale Diamond at 5 o'clock. A benefit card party is scheduled next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the manager's home.

June Graduations to Hit All of Public High Schools

THE coming June graduations are going to leave the baseball teams of the local high schools with little material for next year. Eastern, Tech, Central, Western and Business, all will be effected to the extent that they will practically have to rebuild.

Central will be the hardest hit. Eight of its regulars will graduate, namely, Schriver, Fisher and Beazley, infielders; Stein, catcher; Parks and Jorg, pitchers; and Milwitt and Blase, outfielders. Randolph, a utility man this year, will also graduate. The Mount Pleasanters ill retain Sanford Ross, pitcher; George Brandt, third baseman; Cumberland, second sacker; and White, outfielder.

Western's Greatest Loss Will Be Batterymen.

The champion Eastern nine will lose all of its regular infield, composed of McCullough, all-high first baseman, and Cappelli, Edwards and Fisher, also its regular outfield array of Shapiro, Ware and Eagle. Hanna, moundsman, will go, as will Curtin and Miles, while Wood, utility man, will also graduate. Eastern will have a wealth of material back, however. Noonan, McAboy, Zahn and Kessler, infielders; Plumb, Calevas and Hayden, outfielders; Snyder and Taylor, catchers; and Philips and Turner, pitchers, will return.

Gorman, first baseman; Drissel and Benner, outfielders; Sorrell and Brown, catchers, and Ensor, pitcher, will be lost to Tech. Those to return will be English, Wellens and Hedin, infielders; Minor and Chumbris, outfielders; Sklar, Loving and Crenshaw, catchers, and Price and Batson, pitchers.

Western's greatest loss will be in its battery department, from which Fletcher, pitcher, and Owens, catcher, will graduate. Others will be Hunt, shortstop; Eby, third baseman, and H. Thompson, Parks and Albert, outfielders. Freeman will be back to play first base for the Red and White, while Schneider will return to hold down the second-base job. Jim Thompson will be the lone outfielder to be back, while Charlie Albert will represent the tried pitching strength when candidates are enrolled next year.

Business will be without Leonard, pitcher; Brown, second baseman, and Newman and Sargent, outfielders. Of the regulars to return, Loftus, Finley and Ballenger, outfielders; Rich, first baseman; Chase, third baseman, and Singman, shortstop, are the most prominent.

Old Alex Beats Reds; Cards Gain 12-1 Verdict

Cincinnati, May 21 (A.P.).— "Old Pete" Alexander had Jack Hendricks' weak batters at his mercy today, the Cardinals inflicting the fifth straight defeat on the Reds, 12 to 1. Alexander granted only seven hits. His game was made safe in the fourth inning when the Cardinal artillery knocked two pitchers from the mound and scored seven runs.

Berlenbachs to Rewed, Divorced Wife Declares

Los Angeles, May 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. Rosanna Robinson, former wife of Paul Berlenbach, of New York, former light-heavyweight champion, announced last night that she and Berlenbach had been reconciled. Their remarriage was dependent upon her success in obtaining an annulment of her marriage to her present husband, Albert J. Robinson, broker, who is serving a term in San Quentin for grand theft, she explained.

Proceedings for the annulment have been started, based on the ground of fraud. Mrs. Robinson charged that her husband did not give his true name, Abraham Jacon Rubensen, or his correct age, when they were married at Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, last June 16.

The former Mrs. Berlenbach stated that she left Robinson two months after their marriage. He was indicted last October on 38 counts of grand theft, pleaded guilty to three counts and was sentenced to serve a prison term of one to ten years.

CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE HAS 48 TEAMS

8 Clubs Enter Senior and Insect Groups; Legion Game.

EIGHT teams will comprise both the senior and insect sections of the Capital City League this season, bringing the total number of entries in all classes to 48. When entries closed last night most of the strongest teams in these classes had filed contracts and franchise fees ready to seek the respective championships and the individual awards offered by The Post to the members of the title-winning teams.

The senior division race will probably be one of the most spirited seen in many seasons. The title contenders include the D. K. Kaufman Budget Boys, Bostonian Shoe, Montrose A. C., Brookland Boys' Club, Try-Me Aces, Miller Furniture Co., Roamer A. C., and Hartfords. These teams represent the select group of local teams in that class.

Insects to Start Play Saturday; Corinthians Will Compete.

The eight insect teams to start competition Saturday and Sunday are: Corinthians, Brookland Boys' Club, Eastern All-Stars, Gallaghers, Lionels, Georgetown, Clyde Milan and an unnamed playground nine. With the exception of the Georgetown and Eastern All-Star Teams, all clubs will play Saturday. The latter two named will play Sunday.

The George Washington and Stewart Walcott American Legion Teams will play today at 5 o'clock on No. 9 diamond. These teams were scheduled to play Sunday, but rain prevented a start. The managers of the two teams agreed to dispose of the postponement today.

Lincoln Post's Nine will be busy Saturday and Sunday in the legion series, meeting Spengler Post on Saturday and Walcott Post on Sunday.

Brethren Put Off Union of Churches

Ultimate Merger With Two Other Groups Deferred for More Study.

Lancaster, Pa., May 21 (A.P.).—Ostion on the proposed merger of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ with the Reformed Church and the Evangelical Synod of North America was deferred for further study by unanimous vote of the general quadrennial United Brethren Conference here late today.

A resolution presented by the commission on federation and church union, and passed by the delegates as soon as read, put the conference on record as favorable to "the ultimate union" of the three denominations, but said the conference should "not make undue haste in an undertaking of so great importance." It recommended the appointment of a committee of not less than 20 clerics and laymen to study the question.

The new commission would make its report at the next general conference, four years hence. Provision is made, however, for the calling of a special convention to act on the findings of the new commission in case speed is desired.

CONVERTIBLE BONDS ARE IN GOOD DEMAND

FOREIGN SUGARS FIRMER

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Bond prices shaded off today in a market that was featured by heavy trading in the convertibles, including several stock privilege rails. The volume of transactions was the largest in a week, but a generous share of the turnover was in bonds carrying share purchase warrants or conversion options.

The Associated Press averages, based on first and second grade rails, industrials and utilities, showed a dip to within three-tenths of a point of the year's low. Some of the industrial and public utility obligations were supported to fair extent, but price changes were inconsequential. Rails of all grades commanded considerable attention, holding fairly firm.

The convertibles reflected the indecision of the stock market by selling within wide price ranges, although the close found most of them below yesterday's final quotations. American Telephone 4½s were hardest hit, yielding 2½ points on a large volume. American I. C. Chemical 5½s and Alleghany Corporation 5s sold off fractionally. International Telephone 4½s were traded within a 2¼-point variation, selling as low as 120¾, but returning to 121½ at the close for a net loss of three-fourths. Atchison convertible 4½s were the strongest of the stock privilege issues and gained a point on the day on strong demand. Baltimore & Ohio 4½s refused to give ground and held steady throughout the session.

In the general list of railroad obligations, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific 5s changed hands in sizable blocks, showing a fractional gain. St. Paul adjustment 5s met with some inquiry and were taken with almost no price variation, while Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s, another speculative rail, also moved within narrow limits to close at yesterday's 49.

The foreign sugars, which have been conspicuously weak, were able to show some resistance to further selling, and one issue, the Cuba Canne Sugar debenture 8s, moved up 4¼ after touching a new low. Vertientes Sugar 7s closed at the new minimum of 84½ for a ½-point loss.

United States Government bonds were soft, showing declines of from a small fraction to nearly ¾. Foreign government and corporation obligations made few outstanding changes. French Republic 7s were well bought and moved up half a point, while the German Republic 7s gained ¾ on a smaller turnover.

Curb Review

New York, May 21 (A.P.)—Curb market stocks closed a day of confusing price moves generally lower, although earlier losses were greatly reduced in a late afternoon rally. The two-day decline has cut heavily into gains recently scored by the leaders.

Although call money held at 7 per cent all day, brokers repeated their warnings of a threatening money "shortage." Fears of an increase in the New York rediscount rate contributed to the nervousness of traders, who seem more and more inclined to stand on the side lines.

Some of the widest fluctuations occurred in the public utilities, although the leaders wound up with small gains to their credit. Electric Investors dived to 138 after opening at 141⅞, but snapped back in the last hour to 149 for a net gain of 4⅞. Electric Bond & Share duplicated this performance on a smaller scale, but the Insull Middle West Utilities closed about a point above the low price of the year. New buying came into Northwestern Power on the dip in expectations minority stockholders will receive an exchange of stock offer from United Corporation.

United Profit Sharing was pushed down to a new low on announcement the United and Schulte stores will abandon issuance of coupons to purchasers, although stated by the cigar trade, this company has branched out into the confection coupon field.

Aviation stocks continued their loop-the-loops, the Bendix issues tallying net gains in the final trading after several sharp dips. Fokker, however, closed more than a point lower and profit-taking cut down Western Air Express gain of yesterday.

In the high-priced issues Great Atlantic & Pacific continued its wide swings, touching 410 and finishing at 425, down 6 points. J. C. Penney, another chain store issue, was under pressure.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Early declines influenced by a relatively easy Liverpool cables and rather more favorable weather prospects were followed by rallies in the cotton market here today that carried prices ahead again in the later trading under realizing or liquidation. After selling up from 18.77 to 18.90, or 5 points net higher, July closed 18.85 while December closed unchanged after advancing from 18.75 to 18.89, closed at 18.85. The general market closed steady net 1 point higher to 9 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 7 points and after some little irregularity, active months sold 7 to 16 points lower. Today's quotations represented liquidation by recent buyers and some local selling which was evidently promoted by the cables and the expectation of somewhat improved weather in the South. May sold up to 19.57 and October to 18.63 under this early pressure but the offerings were not particularly large, and the market turned upward during the middle of the session, covering or rebuying in anticipation of bullish features in tomorrow's weekly Weather Bureau report.

Some uneasiness was also expressed with reference to overflow situation in the Mississippi Valley which probably contributed to the weakness. Old crop months were relatively firm on trade buying and covering which seemed to be partly against sales of the late deliveries including March. May sold up to 19.69 or 12 points higher than the level of the morning and 5 points net higher, while October advanced to 18.77 or a point above yesterday's closing quotations. The demand which was attributed largely to covering so far as the new crop months were concerned, tapered off at these figures, however, and in the later fluctuations Private cables reported Bombay selling and hedging in Liverpool. EXTRA SESSION BILL TO PROVIDE AIRPORT FOR DISTRICT SEEN

Sentiment in House and Senate Toward Project to Be Sounded Out.

Immediately after the Congressional Airport Commission had reached a decision to sound out sentiment in the House and Senate regarding possibilities of passing a bill at this session of Congress to provide Washington with an airport, the Chamber of Commerce, meeting at the Mayflower Hotel last night, reaffirmed its recommendation of Gravelley Point as the site for the airport.

Following a meeting of the Congressional Airport Commission yesterday, Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, the chairman, announced that he and his colleagues would consult with the leaders and determine whether there is any possibility of action at this session.

If the leaders are agreeable, the joint commission will report out a bill to the Senate. Bingham already has drafted a bill, but so far its terms have not been made public.

Senator Bingham and Representative Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland, who heads the House members of the commission, are hoping that the bill may be acted on at the special session, for they are convinced that there is a real and immediate need of an airport here.

More Information Expected.

The commission will hold another meeting tomorrow. By that time, Bingham and Zihlman expect to know how the leaders feel about letting the bill come up at the special session. If they are opposed to its consideration at this time, the commission will allow the matter to go over to the regular session beginning in December.

The action of the chamber in reaffirming its stand favoring Gravelley Point was taken on a report of its aviation committee. The report, which was presented by E. D. Merrill, pointed out that after going carefully into advantages offered by all proposed sites for the airport, it had concluded that Gravelley Point was most logical. The chamber, in adopting the committee report, decided to take no action at this time which might hinder the work of the Congressional Airport Commission.

The aviation committee also reported that efforts to obtain direct air mail between Washington and Pittsburgh had met with failure. The committee stated that it had taken up the matter with W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General in charge of air mail, and had been told that no new service would be put on until present routes were well established.

Recommendation was made by the committee that all merchants use air mail at every opportunity, pointing out that the success of obtaining adequate air mail facilities for the Capital City is dependent upon the volume of air mail developed here.

Traffic Laws Debated.

On recommendation of the committee of police and fire protection the chamber urged continuation of the present traffic regulations. There was considerable opposition to the committee report, but after speakers had pointed out that Washington's traffic situation is peculiar because of its wide streets, and that the present traffic regulations are adapted to Washington's streets, the opposition was withdrawn. The opposition favored the standardized plan of traffic control recommended sometime ago by the Hoover committee.

A resolution presented by Newton R. Harper, urging that the chamber arrive at the real facts concerning the range of temperature in Washington in summer and broadcast the facts to the world, was adopted.

The resolution pointed out that Washington has gained much undesirable publicity because of reports of its excessive summer heat, and urged that the fact be assembled in an effort to discredit such statements. Speakers for the resolution pointed out that Washington's summer range of temperature compares favorably with that of Philadelphia, New York and other Eastern and Southern cities.

The Rev. W. Coleman Neville, president of Georgetown University, made an address following the business session on "What Washington Offers to the Universities and What the Universities Offer to Washington." After that supper was served to all present.

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS AT STATION RAPPED

MENACE TO LIFE, IS PLEA

Describing the Union Station plaza as the "most dangerous spot in Washington," Representative Frank Oliver (Democrat), of New York, yesterday offered three suggestions to improve traffic conditions at that point.

The suggestions, contained in a letter to the District Commissioners, follow:

"1. Designate the inside drive of the plaza for one-way traffic from east to west, and the outside drive for one-way traffic from west to east.

"2. Have pedestrian lanes marked out as the extensions of the sidewalks of the feeder streets. Compel pedestrians to cross only at these places.

"3. If possible, have lights placed at the pedestrian lanes, so that there would be brief intervals in which the pedestrians could use the lanes with freedom. These lights would not hamper traffic from making left turns from one drive into the other, because between the 'islands' there are about four spaces which occurr between the feeder streets."

"To my mind," Oliver told the Commissioners, "it (the plaza) is the most dangerous spot in Washington. Its construction is peculiar: Two semicircles with two-way traffic on each, and the semicircles are separated by a chain of 'islands.' The effect of this is that cars are darting in all directions at once. A pedestrian there reminds me of a weak swimmer trying to navigate a series of dangerous whirlpools. People must run for their lives."

Superstition Hinders Cures, Says Physician

The superstitious attitude of the public that certain persons are doomed to mental diseases because of heredity has been a great obstacle in their successful treatment, Dr. Daniel Percy Hickling declared last night in an address before the Society of Mental Hygiene, meeting at the Willard Hotel.

He declared that the public should be educated to recognize the early symptoms of mental disorder, and that in most cases psychiatrists could then easily master them. He pointed out that until comparatively recently the same prejudice was held in regard to tuberculosis.

A sentence of 180 days in the District Jail was imposed on James Brown, colored, by Judge Gus A. Schuldt yesterday, when he admitted maltreating Rosie Williams, colored.

According to testimony, Brown struck the woman with an umbrella and then broke a china punch bowl over her head. The defendant next called a physician, who treated the woman's cuts and bruises, it was said, and shortly after the doctor's departure, Brown obtained a pair of scissors and began jabbing the woman in the legs. The victim finally decided she had received enough of Brown's treatment and called the police.

SOCIETY IS PLANNED WITH KINDNESS GOAL

MARRED PROPERTY CITED

Armed with the sword of justice and fed on the milk of human kindness, an army to be known as the Crusaders is about to march on Washington with kindness to animals and consideration of property as the goals toward which it will strive.

It will contain recruits from the adult ranks and from the host of school children within the District of Columbia. It will have the moral backing of a number of agencies which deal with children. It will endeavor to create the feeling of kindness toward all animals and consideration for the property of others through an educational campaign which in time the leaders hope to extend into a national affair.

Mistreatment Is Charged.

Lack of the crusade in the interests of dogs and cats and other household pets, and of flowers and shrubs and window panes, lies a story of mistreatment of these pets by unthinking youngsters, of rocks crashing through the glass in homes and garages and of lawns marred by careless children, willfully in some cases and with lack of consideration in others.

The commander in chief in the movement is Miss Leonora Marie De Grange, of 1756 Kilbourne place northwest, who for a number of years was connected with the school department of the District and who has been prominent in children's work.

Committee Is Formed.

She has working with her a committee including Miss May Libby, head of a private school; Miss Leona Feathers, Mrs. Theodore Tiller, Mrs. Virginia Bassingham, Mrs. John P. Neligh, of the Neighborhood House, and Mrs. Ada Louise Townsend. To this committee Miss DeGrange hopes to add many other names so that all sections of the city will be represented.

The first organization meeting will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the French Ashbury M. E. Church on Sixteenth street near Lamont street northwest. To this meeting invitations have been extended to representatives of all organizations engaged in children's work and the care of animals and to individuals interested in the objects of the new oragnization.

Miss DeGrange will confer with Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, this afternoon in an effort to arrange for an appeal to the children through the schools before the year's sessions close for vacation, so that property owners and pet owners will have a measure of protection during the summer season.

FOUR ARE INDICTED UNDER JONES LAW

TAXI DRIVER IS ACCUSED

Twenty-five indictments were handed down by the District grand jury yesterday to Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court. The jury reported it had ignored six other charges.

Four persons were accused of breaking the Jones liquor law and three others were indicted on charges of second and third offense of the national prohibition law. Possession of a smoke screen device was charged in another indictment.

The Jones law charges were made against Angelo B. Bovello and his pretty young wife, Mrs. Ann Bovello, of the Clifton Terrace Apartments, who were accused of selling liquor to prohibition agents last March 3; Clarence Ashe, who was arrested April 10, was charged with transporting liquor, and William G. Donaldson, who was arrested April 12, was also indicted on a transporting charge. Third offense of the prohibition law was charged against Jack Hawkins and Morris Cohen, and second offense of the dry law was charged against Alphonso Beneditti.

Claude C. Soper was charged with possession of a smoke-screen device. He was chased by Motorcycle Policeman Miles Znamenacek, of the Eleventh Precinct, on April 19, according to the charge, and escaped, but his car was seized. Soper was arrested a few days later. The policeman declared that a smoke screen was laid down when he was racing after the car.

Other indictments were reported against the following: Smithson Banion and Robert Murray, housebreaking and larceny; Stewart A. Bird, Carryl Pugh, Clemon W. Taylor and Louis Ridgway, grand larceny; John Lee, Carlos Bennett, Raymond Taylor, Joseph Coleman, William C. Pinkert, Ambros Young and John T. Brown, joy riding; James A. Goven, George M. Carter and John Dawson, violations of the District policy laws; James Randall Simms, Thomas Cole and Harry Smith, assault with a dangerous weapon.

Charges ignored by the jury included Beverly Fields, James Blackwell and Hollis Smith, joy riding; Richard Brown and Michael Ciuffreda, housebreaking and larceny, and Benjamin I. Grover, forgery.

CLUB URGES ARREST OF PEDESTRIANS IN TRAFFIC CAMPAIGN

OBJECTIVE IS TO SPEED MOVEMENT OF AUTOS

Arrest of pedestrians for crossing streets against traffic was urged upon the District Commissioners yesterday by the American Business Club of Washington.

The club believes, it was said by Howard E. Severe, vice president, in a letter to Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, that it is not necessary for the Commissioners to take the question "under advisement" because "the dire necessity for pedestrian control has been so apparent."

Arrest of pedestrians for walking against traffic signals, the club said, should be begun immediately that the "educational" campaign now being conducted is concluded. This was begun several days ago and is to continue for 30 days.

Police Doubt Wisdom of Law.

The "educational" campaign, during which policemen of the traffic bureau stand at various street intersections warning pedestrians to walk with the traffic light, was launched by the business club after a conference with Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and Inspector E. W. Brown, in charge of the traffic bureau. But when it was inaugurated it was emphasized that police officials did not contemplate the arrest of pedestrians for jay walking during its course and they appeared dubious about the wisdom of proposing a jay-walking law at the present time.

But, said the American Business Club in its letter to Dougherty yesterday, "Washington pedestrians are like children who won't take their spinach," but who should be made to eat it anyhow.

"Pedestrian control," Severe declared, "is vital to the safety of the pedestrian. As such is the case, it would seem that compulsion would be their salvation. If pedestrians are compelled to do something that is for their own benefit, they will soon see the light, and do it without being forced."

Pedestrian "Control" Held Desired.

"The whole question," the club said, "boils down to this: The newspapers want pedestrian control. The street car companies want it. The bus companies want it. The civic clubs want it. The traffic bureau wants it. Most of the pedestrians want it. And, of course, inasmuch as we started the whole thing, we want it."

But, the club said in a statement to the newspapers, the pedestrian control idea was not solely one for the protection of the pedestrian, but was just as important to the motorist as a measure to "speed up traffic." The club urged motorists to support the plan for their own benefit and speedier traveling, but warned drivers that encroaching on cross walks allowed down pedestrian traffic, and that pedestrians on cross walks, going with the traffic signals, had the right of way over vehicles making right-hand turns.

Forum Aids Drive On Smoke Screens

Indorsements of police efforts to subdue the smoke screen menace in Washington was given in a resolution adopted last night by the Citizens Forum of Columbia Heights, meeting in the Wilson Normal School, Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest. The District Commissioners were urged to support the policemen in such efforts.

Another resolution asked the Board of Education to reemploy Dr. E. G. Kimball as principal of the Third School Division. Dr. Kimball was recently retired, having reached the age limit for teachers.

The board was also asked to keep the Columbia Heights Community Center in its present location. It is planned to continue meetings of the forum there next year. Protest of the Trinidad Citizens Association against assessments on abutting property owners for thoroughfares was upheld by the forum, which also voted against the proposed amendment to the zoning law to permit police and fire stations in districts listed as strictly residential.

Pappas operated a restaurant in 1921, from which he made $1,000 a month, but sold the establishment after six months for $5,000, which he spent in gambling, according to the wife. Attorneys John J. Woman and Girl Seek $25,000 After Collision

REPORT ON UTILITIES JOBS IS LIKELY TODAY

FINANCE QUIZ TO BE TOPIC

The Senate District committee will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon to take up two matters, the nominations of Gen. Mason M. Patrick and Harleigh H. Hartman to be members of the Public Utilities Commission, and a resolution aimed at dishonest financiers.

Gen. Patrick and Mr. Hartman have been asked to attend the session, which will be executive. Representatives of seven civic organizations also have been invited to attend. The expectation is that the committee will make a favorable report on both nominations.

The resolution which will be considered by the committee is a substitute for the Brookhart resolution authorizing an investigation of real estate financing here and was approved yesterday by a subcommittee headed by Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin.

The Blaine resolution differs from the Brookhart resolution in that it mentions no firm names and calls for an investigation of much wider scope. The Brookhart resolution specifically named the F. H. Smith Co., and accused it of pyramiding values to raise excessive loans.

Although Blaine would not reveal the terms of his resolution, it is known that it is aimed at a number of evils which he says exist in this city with regard to the sale of stocks and securities.

Blaine says that the usury laws here are weak, that there is no law to protect the innocent investor against the blue sky operator, and that there is no law banning fraudulent and unethical practices. The legislation he seeks, Blaine said, will not be aimed at any individual firm, but at a bad system.

$1,000 FOR SPELLING WON BY OMAHA GIRL IN NATIONAL CONTEST

VICTORY FOR NEBRASKAN COMES ON BIRTHDAY EVE

Bee Goes Into Its Seventieth Round Before Virginia Hogan Downs Rivals.

A number of colorful coincidences came together when Virginia Hogan, of Omaha, Nebr., won the National Spelling Bee and the National Award of $1,000 in gold from twenty other contestants at the auditorium of the National Museum yesterday afternoon. She defeated Viola Strbac, of South Milwaukee, Wis., winner of the second prize of $500, by spelling correctly the word "luxuriance." Viola spelled it with an "e" for the "a," which cost her $500, "a rather expensive letter," she subsequently commented after congratulating the winner.

Teru Hayashi, a Japanese youth, of Ventnor, N. J., representing the Atlantic City Press, was third and a high light of the national contest. He was the last boy to stand, but was stumped by the word "panaces," which he said, later, he had never heard of. He received third prize of $250.

He was one of the four boys among the 21 contestants, two of whom made showings. Chapin Fay, Worcester, Mass., the other, remained until sixth to the winner. He misspelled "diaphanous."

Fate smiled upon the pretty winner, bringing her greatest victory on the eve of her birthday, for Virginia will be 13 years old today. Asked what she intended to do with the $1,000 in gold, she immediately replied that she would give it to mother.

Mother Refuses Prize.

But mother, Mrs. J. T. Hogan, who overheard her, told her to keep it for her "very own." She hasn't decided what to do with it.

Virginia was an honor pupil at St. John's Parochial School in Omaha, and represented the Omaha World-Herald. She won the championship of Nebraska from 13 boys and 39 girls. During the contest yesterday she never hesitated or faltered, spelling such words as "apotheosis," "immunization" and a number of other equally difficult. She showed less strain than any of the other contestants except Teru, who created much laughter by giving definitions of the words given him in order to be sure he understood them, such as "Cemetery—the place you bury dead ones?"

Exact count was lost of the number of rounds in the excitement, but it is believed that Virginia won in the seventieth round, having spelled correctly 70 of the most difficult of words in ordinary usage.

The spelling bee started at 2 o'clock with a preliminary round, in which mistakes don't count, so the contestants could get "warmed up" and used to the audience.

Rose Nelson, Portland, Me., representing the Evening Express, was the first to miss, on the word "planetary," in the first round. Mary Josephine Sousa misspelled "monastery" in the second, and Teresa Chiaravalloti, in the same round, misspelled "annihilate." No misses were recorded in the third, fourth and fifth rounds.

"Onerous" Starts Argument.

Mary Semelisky, Hoosick Falls, N. Y., representing the Albany Evening News, misspelled "onerous," thereby starting a debate among the press representatives, all of whom spelled it a different way. They consoled themselves, however, with the thought that "it's a poor speller who can't spell a word more than one way."

Mary Bennett, Grand Rapids, Mich., Grand Rapids Press, missed "correlate." Winifred Church, South Bend, Ind., South Bend News-Times, misspelled "catastrophe." Winfield Yarnell, Carlisle, Pa., Carlisle Sentinel, missed "belligerent." Mary Krichavsky, Hartford, Conn., Hartford Times, missed "adequate." Marjean Ruff, West Salem, Ohio, Akron Beacon-Journal, misspelled "prodigious." Irene Olson, Jewell, Iowa, Des Moines Register, missed "corral," and Albert Gomo, Jericho, Vt., Burlington Free Press, missed "infringement." Mary Elaine McCarty, Detroit, Mich., Detroit News, missed "aggrandizement." Lois Chamberlain, Waterbury, Conn., Waterbury Republican, missed "imminent." Chapin Fay, Worcester, Mass., Worcester Telegram, was next to go on "diaphanous."

Anna Catherine Green, Paducah, Ky., Louisville Courier Journal, missed "gamut." Margaret Carlson, Memphis, Tenn., Memphis Press-Scimitar, missed "millennium." Teru Hayashi was next to go, and then the contest centered between Virginia and Viola.

Previously during each round the contestants were given different words to spell. If a contestant missed, the next person was not given the misspelled word. However, between the two last it was decided that if one missed a word the other would have the chance to spell it, and that a new word would not be given.

Judges were the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives; Maj. Gen. Harry T. Allen, United States Army, and William C. Deming, president of the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

Accident Ends Boy's Hope Of Becoming Baseball Star

Class Team Captain's Foot Amputated After Truck Strikes Bicycle.

His foot was crushed when a heavy oil truck swerved into the bicycle, sending the vehicle into the curb. George Branson, of 745 Eleventh street southeast, driver of the truck, attempted to avoid injuring the boy and slammed on the brakes, but this move caused one of the wheels to rest squarely on the lad's foot. So securely was the member held by the wheel that the truck had to be backed in order to release the boy.

The accident occurred in front of 5013 Georgia avenue northwest. The boy was taken to Garfield Hospital for treatment. There surgeons decided that the foot was crushed beyond repair, and immediately amputated it and several inches of the leg.

Branson was held at the Thirteenth Precinct Station for more than an hour after the accident, but then was released. No charge was made against him.

Ralph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodward and is a student at Park View School. He is in grade 6-B and was captain and pitcher of his class team.

Fellow pupils, discussing his injury last night said one of his greatest interests is baseball and his ambition was to be a star member of the Washington Baseball Team.
